18 GIs Perish as Plane Goes Down After Takeoff

WALLS OF SHOPPING CENTER TAKE FORM — Construction is moving along on the Big Scot discount department store, Route 28, just west of the Thruway traffic interchange. It will dominate an 18-unit shopping center. The store will cover 60,000 square feet of space, and plans, as originally announced in March, call for its opening July 15. Construction of other units will follow. (Freeman photo)

Guardsmen Accompany New Ride

New Orleans Is Latest Target

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Eleven "freedom riders"—white and Negro—broke the racial barriers in a bus station lunchroom today. Then, under heavy military guard they left for New Orleans, La., in a continued assault on Southern segregation.

Others waited behind with announced plans to board another bus at 11 a.m. for the same destination.

Block Sealed Off

National Guardsmen with fixed bayonets, and state and city police, sealed off the block around the downtown Trailways bus station to prevent a recurrence of the bloody weekend race riots which followed arrival of some of the riders here Saturday.

And, to guard against demonstrations along the route, a convoy of approximately 75 Guardsmen and 100 highway patrolmen specially trained in mob control was ordered to take the bus to the Mississippi state line.

Similar precautions were under way in Mississippi.

Highway Patrol Alerted

Brig. Gen. W. P. Wilson, adjutant general in the adjoining state, flew to Meridian, near the state line, to await arrival of the bus. Gov. Ross Barnett already had alerted the Mississippi highway patrol and National Guardsmen to stand by.

Unless changed en route, the bus would go through Selma and Demopolis, Ala., and Meridian and Jackson, Miss.

Before boarding the bus, most of the Negro riders walked calmly to the bus station lunchcounter heretofore reserved for white passengers, and ordered breakfast. No attempt was made to refuse them.

The bus station manager, W. E. Evans, said no Negro had ever eaten there before.

Widespread Precautions

Guardsmen, mobilized under martial law since Sunday night when the racial violence erupted at a Negro church, took widespread precautions to prevent a new outbreak as the riders prepared to leave today.

The entire block in front of the bus station was cleared of traffic. Steel-helmeted National Guards-

Kingston Man Held After Tavern Death

A 55-year-old Kingston liquor salesman died this morning at Benedictine Hospital about seven hours after an altercation at the Bloomington Inn on Route 32, several miles south of Kingston.

Anthony L. Teece of 17 Stickles Avenue a salesman for the Colony Liquor Distributors Inc., Albany, died at 8:07 a. m. apparently as a result of a fractured skull.

Charge of Manslaughter

A charge of manslaughter second degree was lodged against John George Schneider, 33, of 40 Liberty Street, who recently moved to the area from Michigan. He is employed in the area as an automobile repair man.

An autopsy was ordered this morning by Coroner Francis J. McCardle of Kingston. The results were not available at press time.

The altercation apparently began inside the tavern owned by Lawrence Macchione, shortly after midnight.

May Have Hit Rock

The two men then went outside to a parking area in front of the inn covered with large size gravel, some pieces about four or five inches in diameter.

Investigator Charles Teelon, BCI, of the Kingston State Police, said Teece's assailant struck him, causing him to fall and that Teece's head "may have struck a rock."

Admission Reported

Teelon and other state police questioned Schneider at the Lake Katrine barracks this morning. He reportedly signed a statement admitting the altercation and fight.

Teece is survived by his widow and three children Josephine, Anthony and Joanne, all at home.

Teelon said there were several witnesses to the quarrel inside the inn.

Teece was rushed to the Benedictine Hospital about 1:30 a. m. in critical condition. He was reported to be too ill to transfer to the Albany Medical Center.

Awaits Jury Action

Schneider was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Arthur Reilly of the Town of Ulster, waived examination and was committed to the Ulster County jail to await action of the grand jury.

Working with Teelon was Investigator Edward Shannon, BCI, of the local barracks.

June 14 Vote Set On $240,000 RVC School Addition

The Board of Education of the Rondout Valley Central School has designated Wednesday, June 14, between the hours of 2 and 9 p. m. (E.D.T.) as the time for balloting on the proposition to build an addition to the Marbletown Elementary School. The balloting will be held in the auditorium of the Junior-Senior High School.

The estimated cost for the project is $240,000 of which $118,965.52 or 49.5648 per cent is an estimated building quota to be paid by the State of New York.

The proposal calls for the construction of eight additional classrooms, a teachers room,

Give City Urban Renewal Project Plans to Agency

Formal presentation of the city's General Neighborhood Renewal Plan, which includes what is expected to be Project No. 1 in the Sixth Ward, was due to be made in New York today.

Mayor Edwin F. Radel said he with members of Raymond & May Associates, local planning consultants, were to present plans in multiple copies for the record to the Federal Urban Renewal Agency, of the Housing and Home Finance Office, and other copies were to be left with James Gaynor, state housing commissioner at the state agency office.

Presentation of the plan earlier than was originally expected, was requested so the city can take advantage of some $500,000 in facility credit which may be used to defray part of its one-sixth share of cost. The credit could be allowed through building of the Mary's Avenue school, which is in the general project area.

The city is permitted to cover its share of cost through contribution of water, street, sewer, school and other facilities. The federal government pays two-thirds of cost and the city and state each share a sixth.

The Mary's Avenue school project is due to start next month.

The plan, as presented today, under a federal government stipulation, designates the entire urban renewal area. Planners have indicated that the first of three proposed project sub-divisions is to be in a Sixth Ward area west of Broadway, for which full final plans are due to be ready within a year.

Asia Trip Most Challenging:LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson returned today from a 29,000-mile diplomatic mission to Asia which he described as "the most challenging trip of my life."

President Kennedy and a large number of other government officials welcomed the vice president on the White House lawn as he arrived by helicopter to report to the President.

Detailed Report Later

Kennedy described the vice president's tour as an American effort to indicate this country's deep concern for the cause of freedom.

Johnson brought with him recommendations for new military techniques and bold economic measures to prevent a creeping Communist take-over of the area. He told newsmen he was ready to give the President an interim report, but a detailed formal report will be made later.

A public report of his trip was scheduled at a news conference to be broadcast and televised at 2:30 p.m.

Stopping off at Bermuda Tuesday, the tall Texan gave a news conference his impressions on his mission to South Viet Nam, the Philippines, Formosa, Thailand, India and Pakistan. He also made an overnight stop in Athens, Greece.

Quite Serious Situation

Johnson said the situation in Southeast Asia is quite serious.

The struggle to preserve freedom there, he said, will be "long, costly and, in many instances, dangerous."

He said he had been reluctant to undertake the mission. He said he felt he was being sent into a world of pessimism and defeat where "peoples willingly were surrendering their freedom."

"I am happy to say that the experiences and observations of the last two weeks stripped away many of these doubts and my report to the President is going to be a good deal more optimistic than I ever dreamed it might."

Says Background Strong

Throughout Southern and Southeast Asia, Johnson said, he found the backbones of the people "a lot stronger, the strength of the countries a lot greater, the determination to remain free a lot more vibrant than I ever dreamed would be the case."

He added that he doesn't want to give the impression the situation in Southeast Asia isn't grave.

"The Communists seem determined to overwhelm the region through subversion, terrorism, intimidation and trumped up insurrections," he said.

Capital Denies Bid to Premier

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—The leader of South Korea's successful military revolt, Lt. Gen. Chang Do-young, announced today he plans to leave for the United States soon to sell his regime to President Kennedy and the American people.

To Check Rusk Office

The U.S. Embassy, which had opposed the coup last week, said no invitation had been issued to Chang but it was taking the matter up with the State Department.

Initial reaction in Washington was cool.

Chang, who is head of the ruling military council, premier, defense minister and army chief of staff, said "reliable informants have told me President Kennedy wants to see and talk with me personally."

The 38-year-old general said he would "seek support for our efforts to achieve the revolutionary tasks and thus promote furthering of close ties between the two countries."

The junta has said the aim of its revolution is to weed out Communist infiltrators from North Korea, end official corruption and rejuvenate the economy.

Later Chang conferred with U.S. Charge d'Affaires Marshall

Mercier to Fight Court Ouster Move

Resignation of Amos Stokes as town superintendent of highways of the Town of Marbletown, one of two officials mentioned in an application to the Appellate Division seeking removal from office under allegations of misconduct in office, leaves only one application to be heard before the Appellate Court on June 12.

Vincent G. Connelly, attorney for Paul Mercier, Town of Esopus town superintendent, today said that application would be opposed by Mercier. Since the matter was first aired by Special Assistant Attorney General Bernard Tompkins during the Ulster County "kickback" probe, both Stokes and Mercier have maintained they are innocent of the charge.

Stokes, because of ill health and unable to meet financial costs of a defense to the charge, submitted his resignation Tuesday. Mercier, however, will oppose the application and defend his position, Connelly said.

District Attorney David W. Corwin was not available today for comment. Tuesday he issued a statement that after reviewing certain evidence produced before the special "kickback" grand jury, he was of the opinion the matter should be heard by the Appellate Division under a provision of the Public Officers Law which allows that court to order dismissal of a public official after proof of charges.

The procedure which probably will be followed in the Mercier case on the return of the application before the Appellate Division on June 12, will be appointment of a referee to hear testimony and try out the issue involved. After completion of the trial before the referee, a report will be made to the Appellate Court and that court will then make an official decision based on the evidence produced before the referee.

The application for removal is

Probe Underway Of Carnival Fire, Damage Is $700

Two concessions at the Continental Carnival on Albany Avenue Extension were burned to the ground early this morning in a fire of incendiary origin.

The funhouse, located next to the two concessions, was badly scorched by the blaze which poured high into the air.

Empty Gas Can Found

Kingston state police were called into the case when an empty gasoline can was found near the scene.

An alarm was sounded by Ulster Hose Company No. 5 about 1:15 a. m., with some 20 volunteers under Chief Harry Lowe responding with a pumper.

Damage to canvas and equipment was estimated at $700. The carnival, which opened Monday night, is located on the lot formerly Becker Trailer Sales. The carnival will continue in operation through the remainder of this week, folding its tents Saturday night.

Captain Nicholas Valenzano of Ulster Hose No. 5 said the concessions included a shooting gallery and one involving the throwing of balls. They were of simple wood and canvas construction.

Returning Men From Maneuvers

Four Are Critical In Wash. Crash

MC CHORD AIR FORCE BASE, Wash. (AP)—A big military transport returning servicemen from maneuvers met disaster five miles from takeoff today in a flaming pileup that killed 18 men and left four injured critically.

The C124 Globemaster fell in a wooded area minutes after it lifted from a McChord runway in predawn darkness, headed for Ft. Sill, Okla., with 15 Army men and its Air Force crew of seven.

Five Get Out

Five men got out somehow from the shattered, burning plane and were rushed to Madigan General Hospital at nearby Ft. Lewis. One died a few hours later.

Three Army men and one Air Force crewman remained at Madigan in critical condition.

"One of the first men at the scene heard a man calling for help," said Capt. Joseph Wiggins, McChord public information officer. "The survivor, in shock, was found sitting on a log near the wreckage."

The Globemaster, from Donaldson AFB, S.C., took off in foggy weather about 2:20 a.m.

$1.5 Million Craft

"There was a flash in the sky," said a sheriff's officer. "We could not tell whether it came from an explosion in the air or after the plane hit the ground."

The $1.5 million plane apparently came down sharply. Although it landed in a heavily wooded area it cut no swath and knocked down only a few trees.

Nearly everything burned. Even metal melted. Hours after the crash the wreckage still smouldered.

Copter Evacuates Injured

The injured were evacuated by a helicopter crew who brought their craft down in a narrow clearing between power lines and trees.

The C124 was returning men who had participated in recent Army - Air Force maneuvers, called Exercise Lava Plains, at

Titan 5,000-Miler on Target, Closer to Combat Readiness

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The successful 5,000-mile test flight of a Titan missile has moved the giant ocean-spanning weapon a step closer to combat-readiness.

The 98-foot rocket, biggest in the U.S. arsenal, streaked to a South Atlantic target Tuesday night, covering the distance in 30 minutes at peak speed of more than 17,000 miles an hour.

Within a few weeks, Air Force troops are expected to launch a Titan from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif. If the test is successful, the Defense Department probably will announce the United States has a second operational intercontinental range ballistic missile.

The Atlas has been operational for 20 months and about two dozen of the missiles are on the alert on pads in California, Wyoming and Nebraska.

A total of 13 Atlas and 12 Titan squadrons, each averaging 10 missiles, is planned by 1965. The initial Titan squadron will be at Lowry Air Force Base, Colo.

Partial Pact Reached In 24-Day Work Tieup

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Contractors and the Operating Engineers Union announced today they had reached a settlement of their contract dispute that has shut down approximately $40 million worth of building projects in Eastern New York.

Before work can resume, however, a settlement also must be reached with the Albany and Troy locals of the Plumbers Union. Negotiations are to resume today.

The strike has been on for 24 days. It did not affect highway construction.

The Operating Engineers' settlement is expected to set a pattern for quick agreement with the other building-trades unions, which, besides the plumbers, include carpenters, sheet metal workers, and lathers.

Operating engineers man construction equipment, such as power shovels, bulldozers etc.

The Operating Engineers said they ratified the agreement Tuesday night after a bargaining session with representatives of the Eastern New York Contractors Association.

Leon Kromer, chief negotiator for the contractors, said the agreement was on a two-year contract that includes a 15-cent an-hour wage increase retroactive to May 1 and another 15 cents effective May 1 of next year.

The union previously had asked for an increase of 22½ cents an hour for each year of a two-year contract and the employers had offered 10 cents each year.

Under the old contract, which expired May 1, hourly pay for Operating Engineers ranged from $3.57 to $4.03.

Kromer also said the agreement called for a change in hiring practices, one of the other major issues in the strike. Employers, he said, now will be able to call the union hiring hall and ask for equipment operators by name. Previously, he said, the union decided which men would be sent to fill jobs.

Began May 1

Kromer's organization covers the area from Greene and Columbia counties north through Washington and Warren counties and west through Montgomery and Fulton counties. He said today's agreement also included the territory represented by the Champlain Valley Contractors Association, which extends from Washington and Warren counties north to the Canadian border.

Local 106 of the Operating Engineers covers both areas. It has 2,000 members.

The strike, which began May 1, has idled about 10,000 workers. The Eastern New York Contractors shut down all jobs in their area until a settlement was reached.

Lions Told Israel Facts; Name Slate

Stating that Arab countries would be compensated for development of projects if they cooperate with the State of Israel and eliminate bitterness to relieve tension among Middle East states population, Consulate General of Israel, Michael Pragai, addressed the Kingston Lions Club Tuesday.

Dr. Stephen T. McGrath was elected president to succeed Richard M. Kalish, outgoing president. Other officers were elected for 1961-62 at the session at Governor Clinton Hotel.

The speaker related the early days of the Free State of Israel, told of development of the country in the last 13 years, and said Israel hopes to see the day when Arab states will cooperate in the field of irrigation, combating the locusts and developing desert areas.

Israel Will Stay

Consul Pragai's topic was "Israel and the Middle East." He was introduced by Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom of Temple Emanuel. The meeting was presided over by Richard M. Kalish, president.

Consul Pragai, who in the summer of 1959 was appointed to his present post of Consul of Israel in New York, said the State of Israel is there to stay and the population hopes to overcome the bitterness and lack of cooperation on the part of Arab countries, or some of them.

The speaker said that Arab countries make it difficult in the development on a peaceful basis.

"We would compensate the Arab states for land and real estate which is assessed by the international body under United Nations, and we are willing to pay compensation, but it must be paid for practical purposes," the speaker said.

Could Build Project

The Consular said that Arab states and Israel should tackle the existing problems together and he noted that cooperation on the part of Arab countries is lacking. He stated that if the Middle East countries would be peaceful and cooperate, a huge water system could be built to serve them all.

The speaker said that some 160,000 Arabs have come into Israel under the program of reuniting families, and with 1,250,000 Jewish immigrants the population is now more than 2,200,000

The speaker said that with the exception fo 160,000 Arabs who have been taken into the new State of Israel more than 600,000 others felt they should settle in Arab countries. He emphasized that one reason for setting of the State of Israel was in order that Jewish people would have the

State to Bar Panic Real Estate Sales

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — "Blockbusting," the promotion of panic sales by real estate brokers in neighborhoods where a Negro family has moved in, soon will be barred in New York State.

Mrs. Caroline K. Simon, New York secretary of state, made the announcement Tuesday before about 100 real-estate agents and builders at a hearing of the State Commission Against Discrimination (SCAD).

Mrs. Simon said the real-estate rule was being drafted by the State Department.

To Enforce Law

Meanwhile, SCAD announced at the hearing that it would "act vigorously" to enforce the state's new anti-bias housing law, which becomes effective Sept. 1.

SCAD said Tuesday's hearing was one of a series to acquaint the public with the new anti-bias law.

Under the law, which was passed by the 1961 Legislature, religious or racial discrimination is prohibited in the sale or rental of all commercial space and of multiple dwellings or homes in developments of 10 or more units. Exempted from coverage are three-family houses, where the owner occupies one apartment, and two family dwellings.

Under the rule being drafted by the State Department, Mrs. Simon said real estate brokers or salesmen would be barred from soliciting the sale, lease or listing for sale or lease residential property "on the ground loss of value due to the present or prospective entry into the neighborhood of a person...of another race, religion or ethnic origin..."

Few Practice Promotion

Only a small group of real estate operators practice "blockbusting," Mrs. Simon said.

At the hearing yesterday, the question was raised as to whether SCAD had "facts to prove that neighborhoods do not depreciate in value when Negroes move."

Henry Spitz, SCAD counsel, said studies of federal agencies and in New York City showed the presence of Negro families in established neighborhoods had no deleterious effect.

"Ghettoes and slumlords run down properties," Spitz said, "splitting up houses, making more apartments, squeezing people into rundown areas — those are what depreciate properties."

Hormones and hearts, a diagnostic test in burns, and dangers from human bites figure in the medical news:

Hormone Protection

A new synthetic male sex hormone apparently can reduce the amount of cholesterol and other fats circulating in the blood, a physician reports. Whether this actually reduces the risk of having a heart attack is not yet proven.

But it provides an interesting possible new approach toward preventing heart attacks, says Dr. Donald Berkowitz of Philadelphia. The synthetic hormone, oxmetholone, is only half as masculinizing as the natural male sex hormone. So, Dr. Berkowitz wondered whether it might protect men against blood fats and artery clogging much like the female sex hormone is believed to do for women. The hunch appears correct, he says, and maybe this or other hormones can point the way toward greater protection.

The 5-year-old girl was badly burned, with burns covering half her body. Doctors used a standard test—injecting a blue dye—to determine how much blood she had lost. But the test also told them something new—which areas of skin were so badly burned that they would not recover later, and so had to be covered with skin grafts. The blue color spread to body areas which had not lost all skin covering. The finding is expected to prove valuable in caring for burn victims, says Dr. Dicran Goulian Jr. of New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center.

Man Bites Man

Man's bite can be more dangerous than a dog's.

For human bites are very likely to cause serious infections, particularly on the face, and particularly if neglected, report two University of Illinois Medical School physicians. Adolescents and young adults are likely to use their teeth when involved in brawls. Such bites need quick attention to prevent or control infection, and plastic repair if necessary, said Drs. John W. Curtin and Paul W. Greeley.

Lt. Gov. Assails Demo Minority

AMSTERDAM, N.Y. (AP)—Republican Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson has charged the Democratic minority in the Legislature with not being able to offer a single constructive idea to help solve the problems of government.

Wilson, who has been pounding away at Democrats in a five-day political tour of Upstate counties, said the Democratic minority in the Legislature had confined itself to "carping criticism and sideline heckling" of programs developed by Gov. Rockefeller and Republican legislators.

The lieutenant governor told the annual dinner of the Montgomery County Republican Committee as he completed his tour Tuesday night that "a responsible minority does not resort to fakery."

He said Democrats in the Legislature were demanding "staggering increases in state spending and...drastic reductions in state taxes."

Senator Is Miffed By Attitude of Udall on Compact

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., is reportedly miffed over what he considers a chink in the bipartisan approach to the proposed Delaware River compact.

The object of his displeasure is Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall who objects on constitutional grounds to a compact between the government, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania and Delaware for river development.

Case feels that Udall, in an attempt to resolve differences over the proposed compact, is willing to do business only with Democrats and leave Republicans ... ing on the sidelines for an announcement ... reached.

A meeting had been scheduled for Tuesday between Udall and some New Jersey and Pennsylvania members of congress but Case was not invited.

The meeting was postponed because Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., in whose office it was to be held, had a conflict with ... which had come up in the senate. Clark is sp... which would give federal approval to the compact.

A Clark aide said lawmakers invited to the meeting were Clark, Reps. Francis E. Walter, D-Pa., and Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J., and Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J.

One Republican source who declined to be quoted by name said the scheduling of a meeting for Democrats only was a "typical Udall" gesture which could lose support for the compact among some of its supporters.

CIVIL WAR ALBUM

Civil War's First Major Fatality

COL. ELMER E. ELLSWORTH, born in Mechanicsville, N.Y., had a common school education but, because he had no political connections and his family was too poor to send him to a good preparatory school, he was unable to attain his boyhood dream of entering West Point. So, after spending some time as a dry goods clerk, he went to Chicago. There he assumed command of a voluntary group of military cadets who were about to disband. He quickly shaped them up and taught them the flamboyant Zouavac drill. So impressive was the group that they were sent east for exhibitions. After that, he caught the eye of Abraham Lincoln, who was then a presidential candidate (July, 1860). Ellsworth became a student in Lincoln's law office and later served as a member of the President's escort from Springfield to Washington, D.C., where Lincoln went in February, 1861, to assume the presidency. Ellsworth was considered the most pleasant and watchful member of the group. Before the war broke out, Ellsworth suggested that a militia bureau be set up and that he be made its chief. However, with the coming of the war, Ellsworth volunteered his services, trained members of New York City's fire department in Zouavac drill and led them to Washington to await action. On May 24, 1861, when the North occupied Alexandria, Va., Ellsworth was killed at the age of 24 by a Confederate sympathizer.

COL. ELLSWORTH, since he was commander of the Fire Zouaves of New York, was the first major fatality of the war. When he and his men entered Alexandria, Col. Ellsworth saw a Confederate flag flying on top of the Marshall House, a hotel and tavern. He resolved to take it down. He did so but, as he was coming back down the stairs, he was fatally wounded by a single round of buckshot fired by the house's proprietor, James W. Jackson, a Confederate sympathizer. Union Pvt. Francis Brownell tried to push the gun aside but when that failed, he promptly killed Jackson. It once was rumored that Ellsworth was to be groomed for a high position in the War Department. Ellsworth's body lay in state in the White House and then was taken by a special train to New York and Albany and, finally, to Mechanicsville, his birthplace, where he was buried.

Plan Unveiled For Ogdensburg Jobs and Tourism

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A master plan aimed at developing industry, business and tourism in Ogdensburg will be presented to the Ogdensburg Bridge and Port Authority next month.

The proposed plan was unveiled Tuesday in what G. Judson Newell, chairman of the authority, termed "a sneak preview."

The plan calls for development of an industrial area, harbor facilities, shopping, motel, recreation and other tourist facilities around a plaza at the Ogdensburg end of the new St. Lawrence bridge, and development of Ogdensburg Airport.

Members of the Ogdensburg Bridge and Port Authority and several state officials were presented the plan Tuesday by the consultants hired to draft it, the firms of Sargent, Webster, Crenshaw and Folley, with several offices in New York State, and Fay, Spofford and Thorndike of Boston.

Newell said the entire plan could be carried out if there were sufficient private capital available. He said the authority would have to determine the financial limitations.

Today 100th Year Since Death

Col. Ellsworth First Union Soldier to Give His Life

By JOHN MULLIGAN

MECHANICVILLE, N. Y. (AP)—The first Union hero of the Civil War died 100 years ago today after hauling down a taunting, defiant Confederate flag from a hotel roof within sight of the White House.

Col. Elmer E. Ellsworth, described by his friend President Lincoln as "the greatest little man" he ever knew, is buried on a quiet hill above this Hudson River city of his boyhood.

Ellsworth was no ordinary soldier picked by an unknowing fate to be among the first of a half-million slain. The 24-year-old, 5 foot, 6-inch officer was called "the most talked-of man in the country."

Ellsworth was shot by James W. Jackson, proprietor of the Marshall House and a southern sympathizer, as Ellsworth and his men descended from the roof of the Alexandria, Va., hotel with the 24-foot long secessionist flag.

Mourned by Leaders

Those who mourned the handsome officer included President Lincoln, who once employed him as a law clerk, and the South's Gen. Robert E. Lee and President Jefferson Davis.

He was mourned also in a score of cities where the elite Zouave Cadets, a precision drill unit he organized, had performed.

Lee said Ellsworth was a born military leader who one day might have led the Union Army, a post Lee himself had been offered.

Ellsworth was a native of Malta, near the Saratoga battlefield where his great grandfather, at 15, had fought in the Continental Army.

Dreamed of West Point

At that age, Ellsworth organized his first drill team here. His dreams of attending the West Point Military Academy, thwarted by inadequate formal education and a none too robust frame, had faded by time he was 19 and working in Chicago. But his enthusiasm flared anew when he met a former French army surgeon who had served with the Algerian Zouaves in the Crimean War.

Ellsworth organized his own cadets, adopting the Moorish baggy pants, short jackets and precision drills of the Zouaves. He added an idealistic touch, "the golden resolutions," a code of conduct and temperance which, in an age of widespread youthful drunkenness, gained public admiration.

The day after his inauguration, Lincoln moved to get Ellsworth an Army commission. But a month later, when Fort Sumter was shelled, the young officer resigned his commission to organize New York City firemen into one of the first volunteer units, the 11th New York Infantry, the red-shirted "Fire Zouaves."

The Fire Zouaves, ordered to defend vulnerable Washington, moved across the Potomac to occupy Alexandria three days after Virginia seceded in 1861.

A few hours later Ellsworth lay dead of shotgun wounds, his body partially covered with the blood-stained rebel flag.

Avenger Honored

Cpl. Francis Brownell of Troy, who shot down his commander's slayer on the spot, became known as "Ellsworth's avenger." He was the first soldier to win the Medal of Honor.

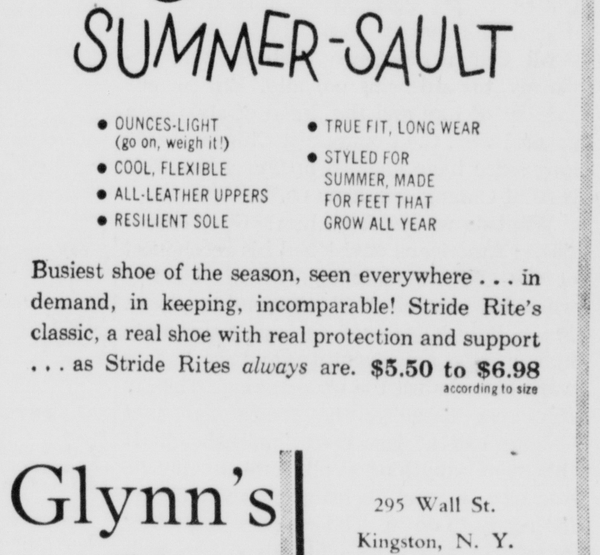

"Remember Ellsworth" became a call to unity in the North and a battle cry for many units which bore his or the Zouave namves.

HONOLULU (AP) — A. B. Herkes, retiring manager of the Hawaiian-Philippine Co., believes economic conservatism of the Philippine government has been a barrier to the economic growth of that country. Herkes has worked in the sugar industry of Hawaii and the Philippines for over 30 years. He said the Philippine government appears reluctant to work with foreign countries out of fear of losing its economic independence. Nevertheless, "Relations between the Philippines and foreign businessmen are extremely healthy," he said.

Oops, Wrong Wedding

ROCK FORD, Colo. (AP) — An out-of-town couple drove here for the wedding of a relative. Cars were parked around the First Christian Church. The couple went inside, deposited their gift in the reception room. The bride walked down the aisle. "That's not her," the wife exclaimed. The couple departed hurriedly, finally found the wedding they planned to attend in progress at the First Methodist Church.

A COMMITMENT RESTATED

When Vice President Johnson visited President Chiang Kai-shek on Formosa he brought him this message of encouragement: "America stands firmly by her Chinese allies. We shall continue to do so until freedom is secure." This assertion must be considered in the light of the present realistic understanding between Chiang and the United States government, and not as a warrant for mainland invasion.

All Chiang's interest inclines him, obviously, toward being our ally. But for our support of him and the dread of starting a general war, the Communist Chinese would long since have gobbled up Formosa. This is what Chiang gets from us.

What do we get from him? Once enthusiastic Americans envisioned his reconquest of the Chinese mainland, whence he fled when his control of China went to pieces. For a time he seemed to expect us to aid him in such an adventure, and we had to warn him against the undertaking. Then in 1953 we flamboyantly proclaimed that Chiang had at last been "unleashed." If this meant anything at all, it meant that he was free to start an invasion whenever he felt ready to do so. The realities made that impossible, and if we had helped him such an assault might have begun a great war.

Now the United States and Chiang understand each other. Formosa has a nuisance value to us. It keeps Red China from concentrating on invasion elsewhere, and Formosa's membership in the United Nations is a useful forum for anti-Communists in Asia. To the extent that Formosa helps to stem the Red waves in eastern Asia, the island republic's independence is worth preserving. But this does not mean, as is now clearly understood by all concerned, that the United States would support Nationalist China in any attempt to reconquer mainland China.

RED RAID ON MARKETS

As has been observed before, democracy sometimes seems bent on its own destruction. Now evidence mounts that capitalism is being lured down the same disastrous road. For example: Despite Allied efforts to restrict strategic exports behind the Iron Curtain the West is selling a lot of pipeline tubing to Russia.

The Russians boast that within two years oil piped from the Urals into Central Europe will drown Western competition for the petroleum business in both the Common Market and Free Trade communities. With a similar disregard for the threat this poses to NATO economy, shipyards in Italy and Japan are selling the Reds tankers, which help Russia market oil from its Black Sea ports.

The potential economic and political influence of all this is tremendous. The Soviet Union's rapidly rising oil sales help Miscow buy essential goods to develop its economy. Moreover, by trading oil to countries like Italy, Morocco, the United Arab Republic and others, the Reds are softening up opposition to Communism.

In marketing her oil and gas reserves, Russia needs neither to make a profit nor pay royalties. A raid on free world markets is thus inevitable—but nations of the free world needn't let their dollar greed impel them to help the raid along.

The matrimonial outcome of some romances indicates that cupid can be stupid.

GOOD TIP FOR MANY

Former President Eisenhower, who hasn't had to drive his own car for many years, says he's a little afraid he might be inclined to daydream when he gets behind the wheel.

But if he just grabs the wheel with both hands and keeps looking ahead he probably won't have any trouble.

And he'll be several safe leaps ahead of those all-too-numerous drivers who drive with a finger or wrist, drape an arm out of the window and chatter constantly while looking everywhere but at the road.

'These Days'

AMERICAN CAPITALISM

Looking through a General Motors report, I find that in 1960, this company had 595,151 employes and 830,873 shareholders. The capitalist system, as it has developed in the United States, is undoubtedly best described by these figures. The widespread ownership of American industry is characterized by widespread and diffuse public participation in ownership. Similarly, the size of the personnel, over half a million in this one company, represents an annual payroll of $3,487,000,000 out of a total sales of $12,735,000,000. The dividends on common and preferred stock amounted to $577,000,000 and $381,000,000 of the net income was retained for use in the business.

In a word, American capitalism, as experienced by General Motors, our largest producing firm, shows a widespread distribution of ownership, actually larger than the number of employes; it shows that the workers get about 25 per cent of the total gross income; that wages are about six times as large as dividends. Ownership therefore is not of an exploitive but rather of a co-operative character.

As one looks at the structural organization of this business, ownership is distant from management which is inevitable in an organization which has roughly 800,000 shareholders. That means that ownership tends to be functionally a banking process. The owners do not participate in any phase of the industry's activities except that once a year, at an annual meeting, a stockholder rises to ask a question and is answered. While in practice the stockholders are called owners, actually their relationship to the business has become more in the nature of banking; the stockholder providing capital to management for the conduct of the business and having an increasingly smaller voice in either policy or practice.

As a matter of experience, ownership generally is not concerned much with the details of the operations of a business provided that a profit is earned or the enterprise shows the prospect of growth. If the owner finds it profitable or convenient he moves out of one enterprise into another. The business is in the hands of management which nowadays comes out of the work force of the organization.

In many respects, American capitalism functions differently from European capitalism, the American enterprise providing a smaller return on an investment, leaving large amounts of earnings within the business for expansion, development, acquisition and research. All the presidents of General Motors, since its organization in 1908, have come out of the work force, except Pierre S. Du Pont who represented new ownership. He came in when the company was in danger of bankruptcy and the Du Ponts made a heavy investment to save the company. He served for three years and was succeeded by Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., who came out of the sales force of the Hyatt Roller Bearings Company, a subsidiary.

This has been characteristic of American industry. Very few sons have succeeded to the positions of their progenitors. In the automobile business, the Fords are exceptional; in the steel business such succession is equally rare. In most enterprises, it does not happen at all. In family enterprises, it is expected that members of the founding family will succeed each other but that is not so in large corporate enterprises. The rise of men to authority out of the ranks, gives to corporate organization incentives which were unexpected in the early development of this type of enterprise.

It is the very bigness of modern business which provides opportunity for men to rise, because what is bought and paid for is experience, not a family tree or a propitious marriage. Experience, knowledge, competence is sought wherever it may exist and is given wide range when it is found.

In fact, in recent years, it has become so difficult to find satisfactory managerial ability that a system of stock options — meaning, participation in ownership under specific conditions — has been developed to attract skillful management to an enterprise. Management seeks fringe benefits, as labor does, and usually gets such benefits as incentive pay. From the standpoint of a man's future, a fringe benefit is preferable to a highly taxed salary. By this means, management participates in ownership, but by no process does ownership usually participate in management which has become strictly professional and trained. The need for skilled management therefore is urgent and calls for increasingly high returns. The stock option is management's method of obtaining an estate providing return for their work.

Improve Child's Chances Of Normal, Healthy Life

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

According to the president of the American Academy of Pediatrics, "accidents from the first year onward are the most serious threat to the lives of our children today. In children one to four years of age accidents take about 4,700 lives annually, accouting for nearly one-fourth of all deaths in this age group."

Add to this the damages inflicted on the unborn through preventable causes and you gain some insight into the magnitude of the physical and emotional burdens imposed on children and their parents through mishaps and, in some instances, carelessness or ignorance.

Here is a brief listing of some of the preventable causes for prenatal abnormalities and of the accidental causes for infantile disabilities and deaths:

Incompatibility of parental bloods (Rh factor). Detectable by premarital testing with much of damage preventable by expert treatment before and immediately after birth of the child.

Viral infection suffered by the mother especially during the first third of the pregnancy. Preventable by immunizations and/or by childhood exposure to the milder infections, especially German or liberty measles (rubella).

Tobacco or nicotine poisoning during pregnancy and lactation. Heavy cigarette smoking is responsible for the induction of premature births and for lessened birth weights, according to the director of biostatistics for Baltimore.

Exposure to powerful drugs, and especially those prone to produce hypersensitivities and side reactions, throughout pregnancy and during labor, especially penicillin, the sulfas, cortical steroids, glandular extracts and the administration of large doses of sedatives (barbiturates) and tranquilizers throughout childbirth.

Boric acid poisoning when a solution of the acid is erroneously used instead of water to make up formulas.

Paralysis of the sciatic nerve due to injections given into the infant's buttocks.

Salt poisoning due to the careless administration of as little as a tablespoonful of common table salt.

Damage to the brain caused by seemingly trivial injuries before the fontanels have closed and the skull case has hardened.

And of course burns due to overturing pots on the stove; poisonings due to the childhood tendency to put anything and everything in the mouth including kerosene stored in pop bottles, candy medication placed within the reach of outstretched fingers, gaily colored sleeping tablets or capsules, etc.

Don't get the idea that I favor a return to the overcoddling of the expectant mother and the newborn such as was practiced until the last quarter of a century. But "permissiveness" also has its dangers. And the price that has to be paid for preventable deformities and deaths is immeasurable both in coin of the realm and in terms of conscience reactions.

Washington News

BY PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —AFL-CIO President George Meany was opening witness for Senate Employment subcommittee Chairman Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) and his "Emergency Employment Acceleration Act" on the same day that U. S. Chamber of Commerce held a conference on "Employment and Unemployment—the Problem of the '60s."

What came out of the two meetings was so different that it is impossible to see how they could be talking about the same problem

THE BASIC FACT is, of course, that 7 per cent of the U. S. labor force—or nearly five million workers — was unemployed in April. The problem is what caused it and what to do about it. And here is where the senator and the labor leader are poles apart from U. S. Chamber of Commerce economists.

Pointing out that the unemployment rate was only 1.9 per cent at the end of the Korean war in 1953, Meany declares that the increase is due to basic changes in the U. S. economy and in the growth pattern of the American population.

There will be a net increase of 1.3 million new workers a year entering the labor force in the 1960s—a 50 per cent increase over the 1950s.

Total employment in manufacturing is shrinking from the impact of automation and technogolical improvements under which goods can be produced with fewer and fewer workers, according to the Meany theory. This is also the general view of the Kennedy administration, which is seeking to correct it.

MEANY WENT ALL OUT for the Clark bill, which would appropriate $500 million for short-term grants for public works projects that could be started within 90 days. The grants would end when unemployment dropped below 4 per cent.

THERE WAS NOTHING even faintly resembling this coming out of the Chamber of Commerce conference, where "automation" was hardly mentioned at all and unemployment causes were said to be different.

Dr. Clarence D. Long of Johns Hopkins University told the business organization that only one-sixth of the unemployment since World War II has been traceable to recessions.

He admitted there has been a creeping upward of unemployment levels from one peacetime prosperity period to the next. But he said this might be an accident which could reverse itself in the next boom and bring an end to creeping unemployment.

From past statistics Long finds that unemployment has been on the lowside in periods of large increases in the labor force, so there is nothing to worry about there.

Unemployment in depressed areas, which is double the national average, Long brushes off as a "trifling contribution thus far" in the national picture, being responsible for only 7 per cent of total unemployment, or 350,000 jobless.

IT REMAINED for Dr. Yale Brozen of University of Chicago to advance theories that it is the government which is responsible for much of the high unemployment.

Minimum wage laws have decreased the employment of the unskilled minority groups in disadvantaged areas of the country like the Southeastern states, says Brozen.

But the major external factor capable of creating widespread joblessness is Federal Reserve Board's monetary policy. Brozen declares. Other variables in the business cycle may cause 4 to 5 per cent unemployment, he says. But when monetary policies affect the economy adversely, the unemployment problem is compounded, according to Brozen's theory.

Brozen blames the "Fed" whenever it varies from its unofficial rule of thumb to allow the money supply to grow about 3 per cent a year.

From mid-1958 to mid-1959 the money stock grew by 3.8 per cent. Then the Fed cut it back too rapidly, before unemployment had dropped back to the 1957 level. And this precipitated the recession of recent months, according to the economist.

PETER HENLE, AFL-CIO ECONOMIST soon to become a Department of Labor official, was the lone union representative on a panel asked to comment on the Long and Brozen theories.

He asked if they proved anything. Various factors in the business cycle may move in the same direction simultaneously, he maintained, without one causing the other.

The Prisoner Ransom Try Seen Strengthening Castro

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 23 — "A million dollars for Fidel Castro, dead or alive — but preferably alive."

This is the latest suggestion made by a reader in answer to those who want to raise $15,000,000 to pay off Castro and liberate the 1,200 Cubans taken prisoner in the recent "invasion" attempt.

The reason for wanting to form a committee to induce the Cuban people to capture Castro and send him to some foreign country is so he may be tried for international crimes just as Adolph Eichmann is being tried in Israel today.

The capture of Eichmann was accomplished privately within a foreign country where he had taken refuge, but in the case of Castro, who is still in his own country, it would be natural for citizens there to seize him and bring him to justice in Cuban courts. For he is guilty of the mass execution of innocent persons on hearsay evidence and without benefit of a fair trial. There must be many persons inside Cuba who would wish to see Castro punished.

The fact that a committee of prominent American citizens is ready to do business with Castro in order to liberate some of the prisoners he holds is provoking differences of opinion in Washington. While it is argued that the committee is solely interested in saving human lives—even raising what is admittedly a ransom—there are many others who think that this would be a disgraceful concession to Castro's inhumanity.

Indeed, the Cuban dictator now says he wants the money as an "indemnity" from the United States because of the recent "invasion." Whatever interpretation he may put on it, there are many Americans who will donate money to save lives. The instinct is commendable but the maneuver cannot but place Castro in a position of strength. For it will mean that his demand for what he calls "indemnity" will be proclaimed throughout the world as having been met.

Impression of Fear

Also, it will give the people of Cuba the impression that the American people are afraid of Castro and are ready to bow to his demands and those of his Communist associates who doubtless thought up the ransom scheme.

Failure of the "invasion" was a psychological blow to the hopes of those who have sought to liberate Cuba. The United States is blamed for not following through with adequate air support at the critical moment. The effect throughout Latin America has been one of disappointment with the United States. While outwardly the usual fears are expressed that intervention in Cuba would seem to be a precedent for similar intervention when dictators arise in other Latin-American situations, many thoughtful persons of prominence in countries south of us are saying privately they wish the United States had followed through on the recent expedition started by the Cuban exiles.

It Will Hurt the Cause

The widespread publicity given the American committee which has just started out to raise $15,000,000 to buy tractors for the exchange of the Cuban prisoners is bound to hurt the cause of liberation inside Cuba. For it pictures the American people as interested in saving 1,200 Cuban prisoners, but not so much concerned about the entire Cuban nation which has been taken prisoner by Castro and his Communist partners.

There is little hope, incidentally, that the exchange of tractors for the prisoners will go through. It isn't easy to raise $15,000,000 for any rescue mission outside the United States, and rarely has anything approaching the sum ever been collected even for a famine or earthquake disaster. Castro nevertheless will make considerable propaganda out of the incident, and there is no assurance that he will accede to the terms of the American committee that, as the tractors are delivered, there will be exchanged at the same time certain specified prisoners so as to insure that the agreement will be kept by Castro.

A Problem for UN?

It is unfortunate that Walter Reuther and members of his committee have promised to go to Cuba themselves to negotiate an agreement with Castro. For the Cuban dictator doubtless will use the occasion to tell the Cuban people that prominent Americans are coming to Cuba on bended knee to recognize his execute prisoners of war. Mayright to threaten or actually to be this is a problem, after all, for the United Nations, which manages to send envoys to uncivilized Congo and knows something at least about how to deal with bandits and murderers.

So They Say..

I can take care of the Republicans, but who is protecting me from my friends?
—Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall, on a friend's use of his name to sell $100 tickets to a Democratic dinner.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

MIDLAND, Tex., May 23 — The question is not whether Stewart Udall, a crafty politician of the Southwestern Frontier, was misused by a well-meaning friend in the matter of those tickets at $100 a plate for a Washington dinner to meet the debt of the Democratic party. The question is whether the oil and gas industry is a morally subversive activity by contrast with the coal business, for example, or the whiskey business, which is the cornerstone of Joe Kennedy's fortune.

J. K. Evans, an oil man of relatively humble status, wrote a routine letter to a roster of friends in oil and gas telling them that his old friend, Udall, the secretary of interior, had asked for help to peddle Udall's "very sizeable quota" of tickets for the Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner in "honor" of the President. As Democrats line up, Udall is a little to the left of Walter Reuther and Chester Bowles. In relation to President Kennedy, it is hard to say. Thus far nobody knows how far to the left Kennedy stands.

Udall has dictatorial powers over oil and gas. It need not follow that he was willing to be kind to oil and gas in return for a generous response to Evan's candid entreaty. But it is a miserable fact that this useful commerce is now widely regarded as a close relative of safe blowing and forgery. It is governed by hostile laws and commissioners and it pays enormous taxes, but it has transformed great areas of the nation since the start of the second war. The Russian empire requires the work of about 10 farmhands to produce as much food as one American creates with chemicals derived from petroleum and with machinery animated by petroleum.

Gas is the only "energy" whose price is regulated by federal law, and a very erratic, contradictory law at that which even the federal power commission and the court both have made the law. Yet, under law derived from such authority, gas occupies about the same moral status as opium. A company owning coal in the ground is free to set the price to the consumer. The lumber company manufacturing sawdust logs is respected.

Oil is harassed by international import quotas to protect overseas investments of the big companies and the political speculations of the successive national administrations. But gas in the ground is bad although it is the best fuel that the ingenuity of man ever sent to market. It need not be stored in bins, bunkers or tanks. It does not make smog as oil does nothwithstanding all efforts to vindicate it by publicity and chemistry and gas does not become a debt against the buyer until he has consumed it at the burner. As long as it is still gas in the pipe it belongs to the supplier. It creates electricity, which runs whole cities and great industries with the least conceivable public distress from pollution or interruption of supply. Weather leaves gas unperturbed in the pipelines.

In the Permian Basin of West Texas gas is thrust out of the ground by natural pressure at such great force that, without the help of pumps, it is used to turn the shafts of drills searching for more gas deposits thousands of feet down. Air may be compressed to the same square-inch force, but it cannot be used to do the same work.

Udall's embarrassment will vanish, a momentary fluster of a political corral fighter who unexpectedly got fetched a kick in the ostentation while he was still new to Washington. Harold Ickes would have thought of something really dirty to smear on the oil and gas people. Udall showed no more courage and self-respect than the lobbyists of oil and gas who are always hatching stupid mistakes of propaganda and hightailing for the hills when things go wrong. He got rattled.

Meanwhile, in the Texas goat barrens, oil and gas men go hang-dog about a calling which is no less virtuous than politics, the law or medicine. They know their geology and local conditions; they gamble their money against awe-inspiring daily failures. But they were completely submissive to the insulting implications of Eisenhower's veto of one fair and just gas bill and to the defeat of another bill in 1958 merely because a Republican committeeman frankly went cadging money to elect Republicans to repeal a price control which never was justified anyway.

But natural gas, accursed of the FPC and the Federal Courts, has boomed ahead to a 25 per cent lead over coal from a start little above zero in the last 40 years.

156th Artillery Adjutant Given Farewell Dinner

Officers of the 1st Howitzer Battalion, 156th Artillery, New York Army National Guard, tendered a farewell dinner to Captain Edward F. Siegenthaler, battalion adjutant, at the Rainbow Inn, Kingston, Friday evening, presented him with a gift.

Capt. Siegenthaler, who resides at 18 Wendover Drive, Poughkeepsie, an IBM engineer, is being transferred to the Detroit plant in June. He had been assigned to the Poughkeepsie IBM plant for the past six years.

Since coming to this area, Captain Siegenthaler has been a member of the local 156th Artillery. He was originally commissioned as an artillery officer in June 1943, having graduated from officer candidate school at Fort Sill, Okla. He served in the South Pacific during World War 2. Following the war he joined the Army Reserves and served with the 827th Field Artillery and was commissioned in the Army National Guard. Upon his moving East, he rejoined the Reserves and then in March 1955 was again commissioned in the Army National Guard of New York.

He has been in command of Battery B, Poughkeepsie, officer-in-charge and control of the Poughkeepsie armory, and served on the battalion staff as adjutant for the past year.

Lieutenant Colonel Arthur H. Marx, commanding officer, presented Siegenthaler with a leather brief case on behalf of the officers of the command as a token of their appreciation for his services. The case bore his initials in gold letters.

Captain Siegenthaler said he could use no other words to convey his feelings than to say "I have learned to love the 156th and I never felt this way with any other unit".

Escapee Seized At Father's Home, Sawed Way Out

CANTON, N.Y. (AP) — A 30-year-old convict who broke out of a Florida jail with hacksaw blades he said were all over the jail was captured in his father's home Tuesday night.

Earl Henry Debiew was found hiding behind a couch, State Police said.

Debiew and six other men broke out of the Pasco County jail at Dade City, Fla., March 29 by sawing through steel one-quarter inch thick.

"They (pieces of blades) were laying all over the place," state troopers quoted Debiew as saying. The six other escapees have been captured.

Debiew gave up without resisting at the home of his father, Henry, who lives near the Northern New York community of Nicholville, 35 miles east of here. Debiew was unarmed.

Troopers said Debiew admitted sawing a jail bar for about three weeks. He worked for a while after his escape on a farm in Missouri and about a week ago persuaded an acquaintance to drive him to Nicholville.

Debiew was awaiting trial on charges of burglary, arson and car theft when he escaped. He was arrested in Nicholville last fall on a Florida warrant on the same charges and told troopers, "they'll never hold me" in Florida.

Troopers said he appeared unconcerned about his capture Tuesda night. He was taken to the St. Lawrence County jail after arraignment before a peace justice on a charge of being a fugitive from justice.

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Many companies own blocks of common stock of other corporations. Some of these portfolios may get a closer scrutiny of corporate lawyers in the wake of the Supreme Court decision that Du Pont must divest itself of its 63 million General Motors shares.

But the vast majority of stock holdings by other firms probably won't come under the antitrust decision. This frowns on such ownership if the court finds a reasonable likelihood that restraint of commerce or creation of a monopoly might result.

For Other Reasons

Corporate treasurers insist that in almost all instances such holdings are for other reasons.

Some buying of stocks in other companies is frankly to gain control of them. In only a comparatively few cases has this been held to result in the monopoly or restraint of trade which the antitrust laws forbid.

Other stocks have been acquired as payment when one company buys a part of the assets or a subsidiary company of another.

Most of the hundreds of corporate portfolios that contain other companies' shares hold them for investment reasons primarily.

The corporate treasurer has cash on hand and sees a greater return from common stocks than from buying government securities or other forms of savings. So he buys some stocks.

Often these are in firms in the same field as his own company. Many times long held stocks are in corporations that supply or buy from the holding firm. Sometimes the shares are just good buys in entirely unrelated fields.

For example, one of Du Pont's chemical rivals owns shares in a synthetic textile firm, a steel company and two glass makers.

As a different kind of example, a mining and shipping firm holds sizable blocks of stock in steel, coal, mining and petroleum companies.

And for a third example, a utility company holds shares in a textile company.

Some companies that got shares of another as payment for a business deal distribute them later. As an example, Indiana Standard Oil from time to time for several years has been handing out to its shareholders as dividend payments in Jersey Standard Oil it got a long time ago.

Diversification Trend

Some of the big holdings in other firms have been acquired since World War II as part of the trend to diversification. In some cases, the purchasing company has acquired all or a majority of the stock of a firm in a different field. Sometimes it has bought only sizable percentages.

In both cases the idea was that if the original company's business turns sour temporarily, its holdings in other fields may well be bringing in pleasant returns on the investment, making the buyer's over-all financial picture better than it might have been.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Strange and frightening ailments are afflicting that once proud and glamorous industry, railroading.

NBC's final "White Paper" of the season took a look at our faltering rail systems Tuesday night. It summed up the gloomy picture with some shots of rotting ties, rusting rails and defensive railroad presidents pleading for equal treatment with rival forms of transportation while raising the specter of socialism in a nationalization of the industry.

But the public's shifting attitude toward rail travel was even more dramatically sketched in three short vignettes.

One was a turn of the century film clip, showing excited, elegantly attired men, women and children dining in luxury aboard the plush 20th Century as it roared through the countryside. Then the scene shifted to today —a group of disconsolate, bored people in the train's club car.

"I'm on this thing," said one man disdainfully, "because I couldn't get a flight to Chicago."

"I've gotten so used to bad conditions," said a New York bound commuter with weary resignation, "that I'll settle for the hot cars in summer, the cold cars in winter and I'll sit on a hard bench, if they will only just get me to work on time."

The program skipped all over the country, finding delays, breakdowns, poor service, discontinued trains, branch lines and main lines all over the place. The one bright spot in the gloomy picture was the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad out of Chicago, which has modernized its equipment, attracted (rather than discouraged) commuters and has turned a huge deficit into a tiny profit.

The whole situation seemed thoroughly disheartening and, even in summary, narrator Chet Huntley could not come up with much of an answer to the problem. Carrying people on trains just doesn't seem to be profitable.

Recommended tonight: Perry Como Show, NBC, 9-10 (EDT)—with George Gobel and Martha Raye; Circle Theater, CBS, 10-11—"Days of Confusion," a dramatized documentary about current problems young people have in getting into the colleges of their choice.

Soybeans Have Future

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — Scientists at the University of Illinois believe soybeans eventually may be added to the list of regular fare for Americans. Testing vegetable-type soybeans, which have a mild nutty flavor and are larger and cook more easily than field-type soybeans, the researchers found that soaking and cooking processes did not affect thiamine vitamin content.

Soybeans compare favorably in thiamine with other good sources of this vitamin, including peanuts, fried beef liver, cooked oatmeal and whole wheat bread. Thiamine corrects and prevents beriberi and promotes optimal growth in infants and children.

GIANT BELL SYSTEM ANTENNA for catching and amplifying signals from satellite will be 177 feet long and about as high as an 8-story building.

Bell System Is Far Advanced on Satellite to Extend Microwave Communications across the Seas

Microwave system overseas via satellites is a natural extension of today's nationwide telephone and TV networks

The Bell System is ready right now to move fast on a communication system using satellites in outer space.

We've already made telephone calls from coast to coast by bouncing radio signals off NASA's Echo I satellite.

We're well along on designing and building an experimental active satellite and are prepared to pay for the launching and for transmission facilities on the ground.

Our aim is to create more high-quality voice channels, and, ultimately, global television channels. We would connect our U. S. communication network with those of other countries and provide international overseas service.

There's one thing we'd like to make completely clear.

The Bell System is not seeking a monopoly of space communications.

There would be all kinds of opportunity for the producers of electronic gear and other products because of the need to purchase many parts of the system from these producers.

We believe that the Bell System's proposals offer the best means to serve the public's interest in a broader communication network for tomorrow. We believe, also, that they offer the best means to get a working system "in being" in the shortest possible time.

Two Girl Scouts Hauled Off Cliff At Park Tuesday

Two girls of Scout Troop 123, who took a walk down a path from Hasbrouck Park while a picnic barbecue was being prepared met with some difficulty Tuesday afternoon when they apparently attempted a shortcut in getting back to the park.

They were assisted off a precipitous area of craggy rock by local police and Herbert Rougier, of 106 Abruyn Street.

Mrs. Joseph D. Scholar, of 22 Augusta Street, troop leader, said that Kathleen Weber, 11, of Hurley, appeared in the worst predicament, since she was several feet beyond Julia Cook, 11, of Presidents Place, who might have been able to return safely to the park, but who was advised to remain where she stood until help came.

A police report at 4:05 p. m., said John Mazdin, of Hasbrouck Avenue, reported being told that youngsters appeared to be in trouble on a cliff in the park area. Sgt. Bernard Fowler dispatched officers Thomas Coffey, Gerald Every and William Whalen there. The girls were assisted from the rocks after rope from a police emergency kit was tied about their waists.

Mrs. Scholar said she believed that if someone had held her she could have reached the Cook girl, but she decided to wait out assistance before making a rescue attempt. Mrs. Frank Jones, of Presidents Place, she said, who was also assisting in supervising the picnic, had gone down the path to see what could be done from the lower side.

It was indicated that the girls had reached the path leading from the park, by getting through a hole in the park fence.

COMEDIENNE DIES — Joan Davis, radio and television comedienne, died in a Palm Springs, Calif., hospital following a heart attack. She was 47 years old. (AP Wirephoto)

Filmland Mourns Queen of Comedy

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—The entertainment world is mourning Joan Davis, often called "the queen of comedy" whose zany antics and tall-girl acrobatics brought laughter to millions.

Her death of a heart attack Tuesday at 48 ended a spectacular career in virtually all theatrical media — stage, screen, radio and finally television.

Jim Backus, who co-starred in Miss Davis' highly successful TV series, "I Married Joan," wired her family: "The nation has lost a great lady and the foremost feminine talent in her field."

The blonde comedienne was stricken Monday night at her desert home here, where she had lived quietly in semi-retirement. Physicians at an emergency hospital labored in vain to save her life.

The actress' last publicized romance, with realtor Harvey Stock 35, ended in 1959 when she charged her suitor knocked her down during an argument. She was divorced from Serenus Wills in 1947 after 16 years of marriage.

Miss Davis, who began her theatrical career in vaudeville at the age of 7, once was the highest paid woman on radio, ranking only behind Bob Hope and Jack Benny.

As an actress, she portrayed a frustrated, luckless, gawky female. In private life, she was an attractive woman who spoke in a quiet voice and dressed smartly.

Rosary will be recited Friday and Mass will be said Saturday at St. Paul's Church, Los Angeles.

AT&T Is Under Antitrust Check

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government has started an antitrust investigation of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Lee Loevinger, assistant attorney general in charge of the Justice Department's antitrust division, said that as a result of "a number of complaints concerning activities" of AT&T, the division is investigating various aspects of the telephone industry.

Drops $3 a Share

Stock in AT&T dropped more than $3 a share in early trading today on the New York Stock Exchange.

Loevinger disclosed the investigation in a letter to E. L. Hageman, president of the Western Union division of the Commercial Telegraphers Union. Hageman had complained specifically that a new Telpak service is tending to take business from the Western Union Telegraph Co.

Telpak is a leased wire service offering various forms of communication.

Hageman said that although AT&T was forced to divorce itself from the telegraph communications business many years ago, it retained the word "telegraph" in its company name and by 1960 was taking in 44 per cent of the total telegraphic revenues in the United States through teletypewriter and other forms of service.

Time for Action

"The time has come for our government to take action against this gigantic communications monopoly," Hageman wrote the Justice Department. "The Bell System has had a monopoly in voice communications for many years. It should be confined to that field and should be compelled to get out of the record (written) communications field.

In New York, an AT&T spokesman said the company had not heard directly from the Justice Department on the subject. He said the company did not have a copy of the Loevinger letter.

The company said it is still offering Telpak although only under certain restrictions in compliance with an FCC directive.

In April the company estimated there were 100 customers using Telpak.

State Conference On Mental Health Opens Thursday

A new look at mental health services for children and for the elderly will highlight a two-day conference of the New York State Association for Mental Health starting Thursday at Hotel Sheraton, Rochester.

Both government and voluntary agencies concerned with the treatment and prevention of mental and emotional illness will be represented at the statewide conference. Included will be delegates of the 26 county associations affiliated with the State Association for Mental Health.

"This conference is unusually timely," State Association president Glenn W. Timmons declares, "because of increasing evidence that the two most neglected groups are at the extremes of the age spectrum, the young and the old."

Albany Denies College Ruling

A spokesman for the State Education Department in Albany this afternoon told The Freeman that no action had been taken on a proposed site in Saugerties for a community college.

The comment was made after a local report said Saugerties had been ruled out as a possible site for a college. He said no official action on a site would be taken by the state until after a referendum in November.

Shokan

SHOKAN—Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Longendyke, Highland, were among the many out of town people visiting the reservoir country during the weekend. Longendyke has one of the largest collections of old bells in the county. Mrs. Longendyke, the former Edith Upright of Gardiner, is a school teacher.

Frank and George Maynard, brothers, have moved here from California and are making their home in Alfred Iapoce's bungalow at Ashokan. The two men are uncles of Walter Fenty, who with his family make their home in the Iapoce main house on Route 28.

Carl Heese, West Camp, was a caller in the village center Sunday. Also here Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Ben Woloson of Cairo.

Birthdays on May 25 include that of Wesley Davis, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Davis of Lyonsville. The six-year-old boy is a grandson of Mrs. Burr Elmendorf of Shokan. He has a brother, Stephen, who will be nine years old next June 10.

Genevieve McLean is reported a patient at a Kingston hospital.

Frank Neri has returned to Shokan to live. The World War II veteran and deputy sheriff has a trailer home at the Sickler park.

Ludwig Horowitz of Halcott Center was a Shokan caller Saturday. His house in the Greene County village was badly damaged by fire earlier in the spring.

The Lloyd Hale family have opened their summer place near the New Paltz College recreation camp at Winchell's Falls below the Ashokan Dam.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Iapoce will observe their 25th wedding anniversary May 31. The couple who have resided at Phoenicia the past two years, were married at St. Peter's Church, Rosendale. Mrs. Iapoce before marriage was Elizabeth Brown of Atwood.

Robert Malvski, Watson Hollow Road summer resident, was in Shokan Saturday. His house is on the former Mary Brattain, or old Sigourney place.

People here are interested in The Freeman stories about the YMCA day camp on the mountain road, and they opine that "Shokan" would be as good a name as any for the big camp. The word, a contraction of Ashokan, dates back about 150 years. Ashokan, also, would be appropriate, what with the camp overlooking this magnificent body of water. The name originally was spelled Ashokim, an Indian word meaning a "Good place to fish." Indians of the Five Nations came here in Revolutionary War times to catch the big Esopus Creek trout and trade at Lemuel Winchell's store.

Ashokan also was the name of a local Indian chief who figured in a duel to the death with Chief Tingoras who, tradition has it, accepted a pot of gold pieces from the Tories and British which he buried somewhere along the creek at Tongore. The duel, fought for the hand of an Indian maiden, took place on Toran's Hook, a low peak half a mile from the site of the day camp, and Chief Ashokan, a veritable giant of a man, lost his life. On the crest of Toran's Hook is a large flat rock which was used by the Indians for a dancing ground. Early settlers in the valley could see the flare of torches as the redskins danced at night.

To the north of the camp lake, and literally only a stone's throw from it, begins the slope of Tice Teneyck, towering rampart of the lower Catskills, from whose crest can be seen the Shawangunk Mountains, the Hudson Valley and the Berkshires beyond. The ascent from the camp side is an easy one and the view from the top of Old Tice is magnificent. Name is that of an early settler who was led, blindfolded, by an Indian friend and shown a silver mine up against the mountain. Tice was never able to find the treasure again and prospectors have dug in vain for it down through the years.

Teamster Union Set to Organize Stable Workers

NEW YORK (AP)—The Teamster Union disclosed today that it has opened a major drive to organize stable employes in flat racing tracks in New York State. Three bargaining elections already have been set.

The elections—first of their kind in the state—will be to determine whether the employes of three trainers and one owner of thoroughbred race horses want to be represented by Teamsters Local 917.

Joe Kramer, chairman of the State Labor Relations Board, said the elections were the forerunners of 53 similar actions pending before the board.

President John Bourke of Local 917 said that, if the union wins the right to bargain for the grooms, exercise boys and hot walkers, it will seek pay increases and a reduction in the work week from seven to six days.

The bargaining election orders were directed at James W. Galbreath, a horse owner, and John P. Conway, his trainer; Robert N. Blackburn, a public trainer, and Norman Robert McLeod.

Kramer said the board acted after the National Labor Relations Board refused to take jurisdiction on the ground that thoroughbred racing is essentially local in character.

Nursery School Fall Enrollment

NEW PALTZ, May 24 — The Huguenot Street Nursery School is now receiving enrollment of children who will be of age to attend during the fall term. The program of the school is planned for children, who on September 1st will be between the ages of two years and nine months and four years and nine months old.

The nursery school is located in the Education Building of the Reformed Church and is in session Monday through Friday during the morning hours. The plant is modern and fully equipped for the care of 20 girls and boys. Operating as a cooperative, the school is staffed by a full-time professional teacher and parent assistants who participate alternately at their convenience.

Saturday, May 13 was "fix-it" day at the Huguenot Nursery School as several of the fathers spent the better part of the day at the school grounds performing numerous chores. The outdoor storage shed was improved by the addition of shelving to facilitate removal and storage equipment. The rolling stock, tricycles and wagons, were repaired after nine months of hard riding. The big project of the day was the design and construction of a shade area for the children.

14 Players, 10 Colleges Added To Cage Scandal

NEW YORK (AP)—The college basketball scandal investigation in New York spread today to a total of 23 players from 15 colleges.

Frank S. Hogan, New York district attorney, said 14 more players and 10 additional colleges were involved in the mushrooming scandal.

Hogan made the disclosure when announcing that Joseph Hacken of New York had been indicted on charges of conspiracy and bribery to fix basketball games.

Two basketball players from St. John's University of Brooklyn and one from New York University were named. Players from these schools had not been implicated previously.

Hogan also said that a player from Dayton University and another from the University of Iowa had acted as intermediaries in recruiting college players for bribes.

Kennedy Going To Congress for Increased Funds

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will address a joint session of Congress in person Thursday to ask increased funds for space, foreign aid and other spending.

House Majority Leader John W. McCormack, D-Mass., interrupted debate on a $12.5 billion defense authorization bill to announce the joint session to be held at 12:30 p.m.

Among other things, Kennedy is expected to ask Congress to support a sharply increased fallout shelter program for the protection of civilians against sneak nuclear attack.

The entire message is understood to be designed to provide a powerful stimulant to the American space program and to both the military and assistance arms of U.S. foreign policy.

It has been estimated to cost around $1 billion by some informants. There will be emphasis on aid to Asian and African countries, it was understood, but less money than originally contemplated for programs of public works and other measures designed to reduce unemployment.

Parents Accuse Gym Instructor In Boy Assault

WAMPSVILLE, N. Y. (AP)—A couple sought today to pin negligence on the DeRuyter Central School, contending that a gym instructor struck their 13-year-old son and cracked two of his teeth.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter V. Scott of Cuyler led a caravan of 30 cars to the Madison County Court House here for the negligence hearing before Judge Harold Simpson.

In their complaint, the Scotts contend that the instructor, Richard Berish, struck young Russell Scott in the face last February after the boy declined to pick up towels after a gym class.

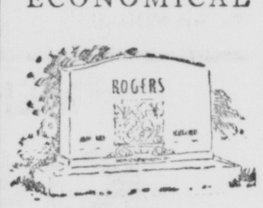

Scott said he had instructed his son not to pick up the towels because it was making him late for the next class. The boy was not taking part in actual gym activities for medical reasons.

A school official acknowledged that an "incident" took place but contended that it was properly handled by Berish.

Rocky Dinner Will Be Loaded With Politics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York comes to Washington today for a congressional dinner loaded —against his wishes—with politics.

Rockefeller, a Republican, will be host to the state's members of Congress. Although he has outlined no agenda for the dinner, he has said he wants to discuss state problems of interest to the lawmakers.

Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., thinks this should include reapportionment—a topic he says interests all New York House members, especially Democrats.

Rockefeller says no. Reapportionment of the state's congressional districts, he has told Stratton, is a matter for the State Legislature to decide.

But Stratton, armed with a pledge of support from other New York Democrats, plans to force a discussion of reapportionment. He does not look for a drag-out battle over it at the dinner but simply an expression of views "on what we think is important. . ."

The number of House seats in New York drop from 43 to 41 for the next Congress beginning in 1963. It is up to the Legislature, however, to reapportion New York's congressional districts to reflect the change.

There are reports the Republican-controlled Legislature plans to eliminate Stratton's 32nd district in its reapportionment plans and force him into a primary fight with the politically powerful and popular Rep. Leo W. O'Brien, D-N.Y.

This could be done by making Schenectady County — Stratton's home—a part of O'Brien's district.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Terry-Thomas is here, hyphen, gap and all.

'Twas only natural that Hollywood would import one of the leading lights of England's film comedy industry. He is now acting in "Bachelor Flat" with Tuesday Weld, Richard Beymer and Celeste Hoalm. Director Frank Tashlin does a rave over T-T: "He is a magnificent clown. He can even take a prat fall with dignity."

The name Terry-Thomas needs to be explained. He was born Thomas Terry Hoar Stevens.

"When I started thinking of a stage name, I considered Thomas Terry, but discarded it for fear I would be presumed to be a member of the Terry family," he explained, referring to the English stage clan.

He adopted Terry-Thomas and shows mild annoyance when he is called Terry or Mr. Thomas. Friends refer to him as Tom or T-T, old friends as Mot, backward spelling of Tom.

About the gap. It stretches several millimeters between his upper front teeth and lends to his comic appearance.

"People rush up to me and say, 'Smile,'" he remarked. "When I do, they are very gleeful and say, 'That's it!'"

So influential has this feature been that he called his autobiography "Filling the Gap."

"My family never considered orthodontics," he said. "All the females in my family have the gap, so it wasn't considered unusual. I suppose if I were a romantic type of actor, I would have done something about it. But as a boy I considered myself the Erich von Stroheim type and was always posing with a watch crystal in my eye."

Royal Tyler is considered to have been the first American playwright.

Presbys Toying With Aged Care

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—United Presbyterians, under pressure of the American Medical Association, today toyed warily with the question of social security-based medical care for the aged.

It was a high-tension issue, as the church's governing general assembly headed into its final day.

Most of the 988 voting delegates have been circularized with AMA literature, opposing any support for such a system as a step toward "socialized medicine."

A resolution submitted for assembly action walks a tight rope on the idea, neither favoring, nor opposing it.

In fact, so gingerly is it approached, that the printed draft of the proposed lengthy statement on medical care for the aged, adds this closing footnote, in capital letters:

"It should be noted that the above recommendations neither support nor oppose proposals for the extension of social security to provide medical care for the aging."

What will happen when this non-commital suggestion hits the floor is anybody's guess.

The resolution is part of a 10,000-word series of resolutions, drawn by a social education and action committee.

One of them declares that the "Communist conspiracy is objectively real and vitally dangerous," but adds:

"There are some indications that an unreasoning fear of communism has vitiated and paralyzed the ability of some Americans to think intelligently and responsibly about either the objective reality of the Communist threat to freedom or the unfinished business of a free society."

Electronic Siren Test Is Tonight

Testing of a new electronic siren will be conducted today in the Tillson Fire District starting at 6 p. m. and continuing until 8 p. m. Firemen are to report to the firehouse at 6 p. m.

Fifty-five firemen from the town of Rosendale, Rifton and neighboring fire companies attended the fire school at Stewart Air Force Base Newburgh, Sunday under auspices of Tillson Fire Department.

At that time rescue operation of a pilot and crew of all types of aircraft was explained and three hours of actual fire and rescue problems were held under the direction of Assistant Chief Robert Whalen and Sgt. Lyle West of the base department.

The regular weekly fire school of the Tillson Fire Department will be held Wednesdays at 6:30 p. m. starting May 31.

Fire Chief Kenneth Gordon announced that the Fire Department will participate in the Memorial Day parade to be held in Tillson. Members will report at the fire house at 9:30 a. m. Uniforms will be white shirt, black ties, dark blue pants and uniform hats.

SEC Lawyers Trying to Find Out If Exchange Members Helped Res

EDITOR'S NOTE—The Securities and Exchange Commission last week announced it will investigate the American Stock Exchange in the wake of charges of price rigging and illegal stock sales by two of its important members. This is the second of four articles summarizing the situation. The author, Frank Cormier, reports financial affairs in Washington for The Associated Press.

American Exchange II

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Did Jerry and Gerard Re enlist any fellow members of the American Stock Exchange as willing helpers in their alleged massive manipulations of that important market?

This is a question which investigators from the Securities and Exchange commission presumably will try to answer as they probe the "rules, policies, practices and procedures" of the exchange, the second largest in New York City and the nation.

SEC lawyers already have stated that some exchange members, wittingly or not, aided the Res by purchasing certain stocks at strategic times. Only one member has been named in this connection, however, and no action has been taken against him.

Peddled $10 Million

The Res, father and son, have been expelled from the exchange by the SEC, which held they illegally peddled nearly $10 million in stocks in rigged markets between 1954 and 1960.

Now the SEC is inspecting the exchange itself to see if it gives investors adequate protection.

Edward T. McCormick, president of the exchange, says the inquiry is welcomed and recent reforms will discourage anyone from trying to imitate the Res.

As specialists, the Res were responsible for maintaining fair and orderly trading in about 20 stocks. They conducted the daily auctions in these securities.

Charged Investors Harmed

According to the SEC brief in the case, the two men prostituted their vital role and did "many millions of dollars of harm to thousands of unsuspecting investors."

The brief said they got help from exchange floor traders — members who speculate for their own account.

Edward J. Garrett, vice president of the Loral Electronics Corp., gave the SEC testimony that financier Jennis M. Doroshaw once told him "there were many other people on the floor" working with Jerry Re in one alleged manipulation. Doroshaw denied this.

The reported manipulation occurred Oct. 25, 1954 and involved the common stock of Thompson-Starrett Co., Inc. The stock closed that day at a two-year high of $4.25 a share. Trading was unusually heavy at 42,400 shares.

Used Several Methods

"At least 34 per cent of that volume," according to the brief, "can be traced to exchange members or their wives."

In discussing price rigging, the brief said the Res also used several methods to push up stock prices by "painting the tape"—creating the appearance of trading activity to whet the public appetite.

The brief said they spread rumors that certain stocks were sure to skyrocket. They wined and dined brokers and fed them a side order of hot tips. They had friends and acquaintances make strategic purchases.

Celebrities Take Cues

Bernard (Toots) Shor, the New York restaurateur, bought 1,000 shares of Thompson-Starrett after Jerry Re touted the stock at a testimonial dinner for Vincent F. Albano Jr., a Republican leader on Manhattan's East Side. Albano bought 10,000.

Others who took investment cues from Jerry Re included some of his good friends in the baseball world: Chuck Dressen, manager of the Milwaukee Braves and Cookie Lavagetto, manager of the Minnesota Twins.

The brief said the stocks which the Res sold illegally were obtained from corporation officials who, it claimed, wanted to dispose of large blocks without registering them with the SEC, as normally required by law. These officials usually were willing to sell in private deals at prices below those prevailing in the market, the brief added.

The losers, it said, were the many public investors "who had every reason to expect that the exchange market in which they dealt was honest and fair."

VA Outlines War Orphans Program

Charles L. Culver, counselor, New York State Division of Veterans Affairs, and John B. Tyler, director of the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency, stated today that in order for a child to take advantage of the assistance offered under the War Orphans Educational program, it is not necessary that both parents of the child be deceased. "An orphan may have one parent alive and still be eligible for education under the program. Recently, confusion has existed due to the usual understanding that an "orphan" is one that has lost both parents," the veterans officials said.

Explaining the program, Culver and Tyler further stated that a child to take advantage of this opportunity, must generally be between 18 and 23 years of age, inclusive, and that the act is designed principally to aid the eligible student to pursue a college education. Regular high school training is not included, but certain below college level education is permissible under the act.

Further information concerning entitlement to training under the War Orphans Educational Program or to any question concerning veterans benefits, the New York State Division of Veterans Affairs and the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency office should be contacted, at 32 Main Street, Kingston. Branch offices are located at Ellenville, Highland, Kerhonkson and Saugerties.

Rules SPA Must Pay U.S. Share

WASHINGTON (AP)—The New York State Power Authority must pay $6,492,789 to the federal government for the United State's share of the cost in the remedial works at the Niagara Falls hydroelectric project.

The Federal Power Commission directed the power authority Tuesday to do so to cover the cost of constructing, operating and maintaining the remedial works.

The authority was issued a license in September 1957, for redevelopment of the Niagara Falls hydroelectric project. The commission said the license was issued on the condition that the authority would pay the government the U.S. share of the cost of the remedial works.

The U.S. and Canada built the works between June 1954 and July 1957 in line with recommendations of the International Joint Commission.

The construction included evacuation and fill on the Goat Island and Canadian flanks of the Horseshoe Falls to obtain, among other things, an unbroken crestline for the Horseshoe Falls. It also included installation of the Chippawa Grass Island pool control structure to help maintain a dependable flow of water over the American falls and rapids.

The authority is also required to make payments to the government for its share of future annual costs for operation and maintenance of the remedial works.

Since July 1957, the costs, divided equally between the U.S. and Canada, have averaged about $101,000.

Senate Rejects Goldwater Bid On Teacher Pay

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate today turned down by voice vote an attempt by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., to knock funds for teacher salaries out of the $2.55 billion school aid bill.

This was the first of a series of votes on what Senate leaders expected to be the final day of consideration of amendments to the bill. This is the seventh day of debate.

Voting Seen Thursday

The Senate met three hours early to expedite the voting. However, final passage of the measure is not expected before Thursday.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana told newsmen he hoped to dispose of all remaining amendments to the hotly disputed $2.55-billion public school measure today.

Mansfield called the Senate in three hours early to try to get a quick start at beating down four or five expected amendments.

He said some lengthy opposition speeches undoubtedly would delay the roll call to pass the bill until Thursday.

Thurmond Readies Blast

Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., for one, has prepared a 67-page speech lambasting the measure—a major item on President Kennedy's 1961 program. Thurmond estimated it would take three or four hours to make his point.

The House Education Committee meets again today on its version of the school legislation and may clear it for floor action.

The administration won a big victory in this group Tuesday when supporters of aid for private schools withheld their amendment. Administration forces feared inclusion of such a provision would kill the bill.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., had an amendment pending as the Senate convened this morning. It would strike from the bill all aid for teacher salaries. It was given no chance of adoption.

Administration forces easily quashed two Republican amendments to the bill, including a substitute proposed by Goldwater.

Turned down 62 to 32 was a civil rights amendment sponsored by Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y. It would have authorized taxpayers to file federal District Court suits to bar grants to states not complying with the Supreme Court's 1954 school desegregation decision.

Charge Eichmann With Murder of Lidice Children

JERUSALEM (AP) — Adolf Eichmann was charged today with the murder of the children of Lidice.

The Israeli prosecution presented documents blazing a trail from the famous village in Czechoslovakia to Eichmann's door in the Berlin office of the Gestapo.

The evidence retold how Czech patriots killed Reinhard Heydrich, the Nazi security police chief, near Lidice on June 4, 1942, and how the Nazis in reprisal razed the town, plowed it over and transported the population to death camps.

One document showed Eichmann was in Prague at the time.

Gestapo files disclosed that 88 Lidice children, orphaned by the firing squads, were sent to Lodz. Seven of them were described as "fit for Germanization" and they were scattered through Germany in foster homes. The remaining 81 vanished without a trace and undoubtedly died in one of the Polish murder mills.

The most telling file contained a letter from SS Lt. Col. Hermann Krumey at Lodz to Eichmann's office in Berlin requesting advice on what to do with the 81 "unfit" children.

The answer was "special treatment," which in Eichmann's office for Jewish affairs meant the gas chambers of Auschwitz.

U. S. Backs Thai Adding Two for Parley on Laos

GENEVA (AP) — The United States today supported a Thai proposal to add Indonesia and Malaya to the East-West conference on Laos, anticipating that they would swell the pressure for a sound plan to pacify and demilitarize the Southeast Asian battleground.

For Larger Conference

The American delegation in a statement said enlarging the conference as Thailand proposed Tuesday would be in line with U.S. policy favoring the widest possible consultation by countries in areas where problems occur.

U.S. delegates were reported to feel that Burma, Cambodia and Thailand—Southeast Asian countries already at the conference—had shown a strong desire for a truly neutral Laos. The Americans believed Malaya and Indonesia would add to the pressure that this pro-neutrality bloc could exert on the Communists.

The U.S. delegation was reserved toward another Thai proposal to add Indonesia and Malaya to the International Control Commission for Laos, now made up of India, Canada and Poland. The U.S. statment said any enlargement of the commission "would have to be decided in consultation with present members of the ICC both as to the advantages and the need."

May Take Up Message

The conference was expected to take up a message today from the truce commission concerning the cease-fire the commission is supposed to be watching.

There was no indication of what the message said. It was received Monday and discussed Tuesday by the conference co-chairmen, Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko of the Soviet Union and Malcolm MacDonald of Britain.

The opening of the conference May 12 was delayed 24 hours until assurances were received from the control commission that a cease-fire was in effect. Since then, Western delegations have alleged violations of the truce, while Thailand has charged there is full-scale fighting.

Say Violations Minor

Eastern and neutral delegates contend that the cease-fire exists, that some minor violations are to be expected and that this is not imporant.

As the conference turned to procedural matters, it had before it still another plan for establishing Laos as a unified, neutral nation, this one from France.

Introduced by Ambassador Jean Chauvel, the French plan called for withdrawal of both the U.S. military advisers helping Premier Prince Boun Oum's pro-Western government and Communist North Vietnamese working with the Pathet Lao rebels. They would be replaced by French training personnel, in line with the 1954 Geneva armistice that recognized the independence of Laos, Cambodia and North and South Viet Nam.

The 1954 agreements authorized France to keep 1,500 military instructors in Laos and maintain two bases with up to 3,500 soldiers.

France, preoccupied with the war in Algeria, turned most of the training job over to the United States and kept only a tiny force on the bases.

The French plan also calls for the future Laotian government to promise not to join any military alliance and for the conference nations to agree to abstain from any direct or indirect interference in the internal affairs of Laos.

Marbletown Lists Project Events

An Independence Day parade and an outdoor Christmas lighting in each community are two events planned by the Marbletown Community Project committee.

The purpose of the Marbletown Project is the renewing of faith and enthusiasm in American heritage which originated in small communities, the committee noted.

The Fourth of July parade will be on Route 209 in Stone Ridge.

The committee has mailed 1000 letters to residents of the Town of Marbletown urging them to participate in the events. Several events are planned in conjunction with the parade which starts at 1 p. m. July 4.

Math Instructor, Contest Winners Lauded by Soper

Dr. Earl F. Soper, superintendent of Kingston City Schools (Consolidated) has congratulated students of the high school mathematics department who participated in the 1961 High School Mathematical Contest, and Mrs. Edith Case Murphy, department head.

Dr. Soper noted the excellent results shown by high school students in the Mathematical Association of America Contest. He said in a letter to Mrs. Murphy, a report he received indicates that of the 292 schools returning papers Kingston placed first place in the individual student rating, with Thomas J. Goodey receiving a score of 99.-75, and with the team of three students Kingston placed third in the team rating with a score of 191.25.

Other members of the Kingston team were Gerald W. Woodvine and Joel N. Kobran.

"In consideration of the large number of schools that participated and the competition shown it is evident that our program at Kingston High School is outstanding to produce these excellent individual and team results." Dr. Soper said. "We are happy for the $100 cash award made to Thomas J. Goodey by the National Commercial Bank and Trust Company of Albany and for the honor the team of students has brought to your department, to your teachers and to Kingston High School," Dr. Soper added in the letter.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market sagged early this afternoon as American Telephone took a sharp loss on news that the government has started an antitrust investigation of the company. Trading was fairly active.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell .60 to 249.50 at noon with industrials off 1.50, rails off .30 and utilities .20.

Further sharp declines by Du Pont and General Motors, still reacting from the Supreme Court decision that Du Pont must get rid of its holdings of GM, accentuated the decline.

Changes were fairly narrow throughout the rest of the list but the retreat of the three heavily-weighted blue chips dragged down the popular market averages.

Rails were up at the start on news of an upturn in freight traffic but they sold off as the market declined. Airlines, tobaccos and aircrafts kept moderately ahead o n balance while most other groups showed slight downtrend.

AT&T was down 7⅜, then recovered slightly.

GM was off 2⅜, and Du Pont 5½.

Oil Industry Shares Sound for Long Pull

Q) "I notice that shares of many oil companies have been acting well recently. What do you think of the outlook for the oil industry, particularly regarding demand on this continent? What stocks would you recommend as investments?" A.R.

A) I like the outlook for the oil industry, especially over the long pull.

Late last year a study by a joint Canadian-American committee appeared optimistic, as it forecast the petroleum demand for the next 20 years. In the U. S., an annual gain of 3.8 per cent was projected for petroleum and 4.5 per cent for natural gas. For Canada the estimates were 4.4 per cent for petroleum and 10.4 per cent for natural gas. These figures are supposedly shaded on the conservative side.

If this study is anywhere near accurate, the oil industry in North America have good years ahead.

Another factor often talked about by knowledgeable people in the oil industry is the potential turmoil in the overseas supply, some people feel that this continent might sometime be faced with the prospect of supplying nearly all of its own oil needs. This is a sobering thought, but it nevertheless must be considered.

I believe that there are many good opportunities for investing in the industry. Atlantic Refining, Union Oil of California, Standard Oil of Indiana and Tidewater (all NYSE) are favorites of mine. Each of these stocks should act well over a period of time. For faster growth I suggest Kerr-McGee, which in addition to oil has important interests in gas helium.

Q) "I bought Warner Lambert several years ago for growth. Would you continue to hold this stock." G.A.

At Werner Lambert (NYSE) has had a fine record of growth, and indications are that this performance will continue. I advise you to hold your shares for further gains.

Develops Own Resources

Consular Pragai stated that the people of Arab countries very much live in the past rather than the future. He said that Israel is developing the state's own resources, and contended that if all states worked together the whole area could be thrown open for a vast development.

The Consular emphasized there is a scarcity of water, and said that water systems sufficient to supply all could be extended with pipe lines through cooperation. "All development depends on water," he said. He stated that Israel can import fertilizer, machinery and other vital things needed for development, but not water.

He said neighboring states have water, but there is waste which could be eliminated by pipelining those areas.

Firms Blacklisted

Emphasizing the need for peaceful solutions to present day problems, Consular Pragai said that Israel has everything to lose through unsettled affairs and everything to gain through a permanent peace with Arab states. He added, "But Israel is here to stay."

He referred to blacklisting of firms by Arabs and boycotts they maintain.

The speaker said Israel suggested to the young people of Arab countries to visit Israel and see how roads have been built through the dessert, how to develop their countries and do away with existing frontiers. He stated many young people went to learn development projects and how to solve existing problems in a sensible way.

Cooperation Needed

Cooperation on the part of Arab countries with Israel was emphasized by the speaker. He pointed out that armistice agreements in the last many years under the heading of United Nations must serve as a stepping stone to peace.

Consular Pragai addressed the regular meeting of B'nai B'rith, Zephaniah Lodge 131, Monday night at Jewish Community Center. His topic was "Israel Today."

Officers elected for 1961-62 were: Dr. Stephen T. McGrath, president to succeed outgoing president Kalish; Stuart Munson, first vice president; Dr. Saul Goldfarb, second vice president; Joseph D. Scholar, third vice president; J. Matthew Richardson, treasurer; Alexander Yosman, secretary; John Ferguson, financial secretary.

Installation in June

Other officers are Arthur Foehser, tail twister; Warner Rush, lion tamer; Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom, chaplain; Roger Baer, organist; Leon Miller, Joseph Saccoman, Howard Shultis, one year each; Dr. Gerry Sumber, Karl Pitcock, Leo Kilcoyne, two years each.

William R. Stall, international counselor, will install the officers at a dinner dance at Governor Clinton Hotel on June 28, at which time Richard Kalish, retiring president, will submit his report.

Still Deadlocked

Korean army leaders and U.S. Gen. Carter B. Magruder were reported still deadlocked over details of a formal agreement renewing acknowledgement of Magruder's authority over Korean forces as U.N. commander in Korea. At issue is the return of 7,000 Korean troops occupying Seoul since the coup to Magruder's authority and the U.S. general's right to pass on Korean army appointments.

Chang's iron fisted regime stepped up its crackdown against what it called social evils and subversion.

Other troops, rifles ready, stood guard on the roofs of nearby buldings.

Thirty minutes after the bus left the station headed south, the highway patrol broadcast an alert to all cars along the route to "be on a sharp lookout right and left," especially along stretches of U.S. 80 bordered by dense woods.

There was no evidence of U.S. marshals in the armed guard as the bus left Montgomery. The federal officers sent here Saturday night after the race rioting broke out patrolled the streets until they were pulled back to their quarters at Maxwell Air Force Base.

One White Man in Group

One white man accompanied 10 Negroes on the bus today. He gave his name as Paul Dietrich, 29-year-old theology student at the Arlington extension of the University of Virginia. He said his home is in Harrisburg, Pa.

Also on the bus were three of the Negroes whose arrival Saturday at the Greyhound bus station touched off a wild outburst of violence.

Twenty persons—some bystanders—were mauled at that time by men and women.

King Sees Group Off

The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., who led the fight against city bus segregation here five years ago, accompanied the riders to the station this morning.

He did not go with them on the westward journey, but told them "I hope you have a good time."

The National Guard commander, Adj. Gen. Henry V. Graham, boarded the bus before the riders left and warned them it might be a dangerous trip.

Graham has been in command of the military since Gov. John Patterson put the riot-stricken birthplace of the Civil War Confederacy under martial rule.

Several newsmen bought tickets for the bus trip. Others followed in private cars.

White crowds gathered behind the cordon of National Guardsmen near the station, but made no effort to push through the human barricade. Some muttered threats, but nothing more.

The plane came down on the edge of the Ft. Lewis military reservation, adjacent to McChord The bases are 10 miles southwest of Tacoma, Wash., and about 40 miles south of Seattle.

Identification Delayed

The 15 army men were from B Battery, 26th Field Artillery, 4th Army, at Ft. Sill.

Identification of the casualties was delayed until relatives were notified.

While rescuers were searching the burning wreckage, other Globemasters continued to take off from McChord on similar missions.

Will Renew Bid For Licensing of NY Chiropractors

ODESSA, N.Y. (AP)—State Sen. Dutton S. Peterson today said he would renew his efforts in the State Legislature calling for the licensing and regulating of chiropractors.

The Schuyler County Republican said in a statement that he planned to re-introduce a licensing bill, similar to the one that died in committee at the last session in Albany.

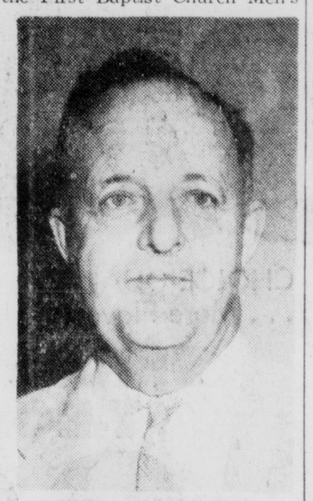

"Thousands of citizens who seek treatment in a chiropractor's office need to be protected from poorly trained or incompetent practitioners," the senator said.

He said last year's bill had won the endorsement of the Board of Regents but had met strong opposition from the State Medical Society.

Speaker Named For Baptist Men Dinner May 31st

Distributive Education will be the theme of a talk by Loryne C. Connick of the Kingston High School faculty for members of the First Baptist Church Men's Club Wednesday night, May 31.

LORYNE C. CONNICK

Connick, a member of the KHS faculty staff for 25 years, is head of the business department and coordinator of distributive education at the school.

Ticket Sale Good

His talk will follow a pork chop dinner served by ladies of the church.

Arrangements for the guest speaker were made by Albert O. Sonnenberg, chairman of the program committee.

George W. Chase, president of the Baptist Men's Club, reports that the advance ticket sale presages another fine turnout for the monthly dinner meetings.

"This will be the last of the monthly guest speakers until fall," president Chase said in a release to The Freeman. He added that the June meeting will be the annual steak dinner and election of officers.

Connick, who has been in the teaching field for 29 years, heads the distributive education program in Kingston which is considered the largest and most recognized in the state north of the metropolitan area. He has coordinated this program at KHS for the past 15 years.

He was elected president of the Southeastern Area Distributive Education area leaders during the spring meeting this year in Ossining.

Named by State Group

In April of 1960 Connick was elected section vice-president by the New York State Vocational and Practical Art Association.

Connick, a former track coach at KHS, was graduated from Plattsburgh High School, Plattsburgh State Teachers College and continued his education at Albany State Teachers College, New York University and Columbia University.

He was appointed as head of the business department of KHS in 1946 following his return from military service.

Connick resides in Woodstock with his wife, Mary and two daughters, Mary and Diane.

Why We Say--

HARD TO WIPE OUT: The wild oat is a genus of cereal grass that flourishes throughout Europe as a weed and is hard to wipe out. The folly of inexperienced farmers in the 19th century mistakenly sowing this seed (thinking it to be good grain) was often compared to the folly of young men who unwisely practiced evil and were unable to eradicate it easily.

Meyner Pledges No Double Tax

TRENTON, N. J. (AP)—Gov. Robert B. Meyner says that, even if his novel commuter income tax is fought in court, as he expects, no New Jerseyan will pay a double tax.

The Legislature passed the commuter income levy Monday. It would tax New Jerseyans who commute to New York, at New York's income tax rates.

The commuter would then get his entire New York tax refunded under reciprocal tax laws, and pay no more than he pays now, Meyner said.

The difference is that New Jersey would wind up with the estimated $45 or $50 million now paid to New York by 150,000 commuters.

New York tax officials expressed surprise that the bill passed after a year of inaction, but were cautious about their future plans.

Meyner said, "let's face it. There's going to be some litigation on it. . .let the courts settle it."

Fourth Seat Double Tip

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

While most take out doubles show a minimum strength equal to an opening bid there is one classic exception. That is the double in fourth seat when your right hand opponent has opened the bidding and his partner has passed. In this situation you can be sure that your partner won't show up with a blank hand and therefor you can afford to base your double on the cards you expect him to have.

North has a fine fourth hand take out double, and South converted it to a penalty double by passing.

South opened the queen of spades. East let it hold, but had to win the second spade lead. For want of anything better to do, he led a diamond. North won; cashed the jack of spades while South discarded a diamond and continued with the king of spades. East ruffed and South overruffed.

South led the king of diamonds. North overtook and led a third diamond. Again South overruffed East.

At this point the defense had six tricks in and even though he was now end-ployed South was able to make three more tricks for a nice 800-point profit.

Workers Face Layoff After Factory Fire

SALAMANCA, N.Y. (AP) — Workers at the Jamestown Table Co., faced a layoff today in the wake of a half-million dollar fire at the factory.

Paint fumes, apparently ignited by sparks from a motor, were believed to have touched off a flash fire in the plant.

Robert L. Taylor, vice president of the company, who estimated the damage, said the damage probably would result in a 10-day layoff of the 150-man work force.

Nourishment

A three-ounce serving of chicken or turkey is said to provide 30 per cent of the protein, 25 per cent of the iron and 10 per cent of the riboflavin recommended in the daily dietic requirement of a normally active adult.

Rochester Phone Authorized Hike On Trial Basis

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The Public Service Commission authorized the Rochester Telephone Corp. today to raise rates on a trial basis in its Webster and West Webster exchanges.

The increase will take effect simultaneously with conversion of the exchanges to dial service.

While there had been opposition at public hearings to the proposed new rates, there was strong support for prompt conversion to dial in the exchanges, the commission noted.

It directed the company to keep records of subscriber payments under the new rates in the event there had to be adjustments later.

In another action, the commission authorized the Chenango & Unadilla Telephone Corp. to raise rates on its Gilbertsville exchange a total of $1,700 a month, effective June 1. This would be 50 cents per customer. The increase also will take effect with introduction of dial service.

The commission blocked plans of the same company for a $4,700 rate increase in its Whitney Point exchange.

The PSC noted it has ordered an investigation to determine whether toll-free service between Lisle and Center Lisle should be kept for residents of Lisle and that exchange. The rate increase was stopped pending outcome of investigation.

Governor Picks Gotham Man for Memorial Group

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Thomas G. Rogers, a member of a New York City public relations firm, was appointed by Gov. Rockefeller today to the New York State War Memorial Authority.

He succeeds Maj. Gen. Ogden J. Ross of Troy, whose term on the unsalaried agency has expired.

The authority was created in 1957 to recommend a site, construct a suitable memorial and maintain it. No final decisions have yet been made.

In another appointment to an unsalaried job, the governor named Mrs. Joan Haselton Evans of Rome to succeed William A. Weissman of Rome, who resigned from the Board of Visitors of Marcy State Hospital.

Mrs. Evans' late husband, E. Arnold Evans, a Rome attorney, was a member of the same board at one time.

The appointments of Rogers and Mrs. Evans are subject to confirmation by the Senate.

Rogers lives in Manhattan. He is the husband of Ceil Chapman, a fashion designer.

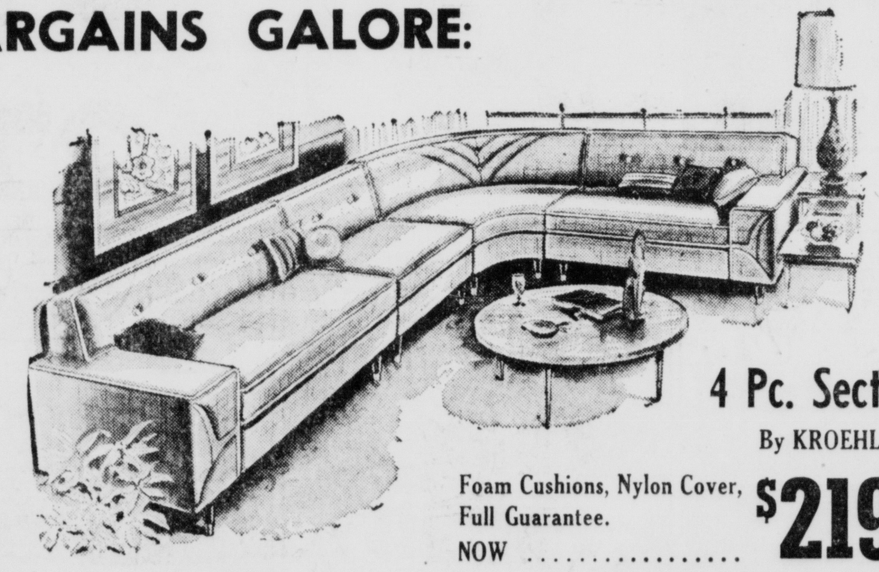

Approximately one-half million (on both sides) lost their lives in the Civil War. Of this number, 364,000 were Union soldiers who either were killed or died of disease.

Correction, Please

Letter from Ajax Hardware Mfg. Co., to customer:

Dear Sir:

Please excuse longhand writing but I have just let my stenographer go. In my last letter to you we were quoting you on Little Wonder Gears, not Litel Wunder Gaers. Also the price was $13.50 each, not $1350 each. Also, our terms are 30 days net, not 300 net days.

Furthermore, we meant that we could rush them to you, not brush them to you. And we are hoping for your order, not moping, as a carbon of our recent letter to you says.

We trust that you will return to us the check for $135 which was sent to you with our quotation, by mistake.

With very red-faced regards,
Harry (Not Hairy) Jackson

If one should give me a dish of sand, and tell me there were particles of iron in it, I might look for them with my eyes, and search for them with my clumsy fingers, and be unable to detect them; but let me take a magnet and sweep through it, and how would it draw to itself the almost invisible particles by the mere power of attraction! The unthankful heart, like my fingers in the sand, discovers no mercies; but let the thankful heart sweep through the day and as the magnet finds the iron, so it will find, in every hour, some heavenly blessing.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Shell experts test for knock by accelerating up steep grade. In another test, that "fifth wheel" in the back is lowered onto the road to measure mileage precisely.

TOP PERFORMANCE:

Shell test crew reveals five ways to test your car for top performance—and how the 9 ingredients in today's Super Shell can help you get it

To John Baker and John Watson of Shell Research, top performance is a scientific standard. They measure it with precision instruments. But any good driver can run a version of their basic tests. Here are five they recommend.

Is your car really delivering its best? "It's easy to find out," says John Baker of Shell Research. "Just run these simple tests."

Test #1. Quick starting

Count the seconds it takes to start your car. The engine should "snap to" in about two to three seconds. A slow start drains your battery. And it may flood your cylinders, causing performance troubles.

If your engine is balky, try Super Shell. It's blended with a frisky ingredient called Butane—to give you quick, easy starts.

Test #2. Smooth running

Pay close attention to your engine in traffic.

Does it vibrate roughly when you stop for a traffic light? Does it seem to "surge" as you pull away, then falter and fade?

Sometimes these troubles can be corrected by minor adjustments of the carburetor and spark timing. Your Shell dealer can take care of this for you.

But sometimes, the problem can be the wrong blend of gasoline.

In summer, for example, excessive heat can make winter grade gasoline bubble in the fuel line. Bubbles can interfere with the flow, causing rough running.

Shell scientists don't let that happen with Super Shell. When hot weather threatens, they adjust Super Shell's 9-ingredient formula to give it the correct volatility for smooth summer driving.

Test #3. Reserve power

On a turnpike, in light traffic, accelerate suddenly from about thirty miles an hour to the legal limit. Now ask yourself:

1. Did your car accelerate smoothly—with no faltering, no bogging down?

2. Do you have plenty of power to spare?

If you feel you've "run out of engine," it's time to do something about it.

Super Shell may be your answer. It contains TCP,* to help restore power lost to combustion chamber deposits.

And another Super Shell ingredient, called Platformate, contains components that release 11 per cent more energy than the finest 100-octane aviation gasoline.

Test #4. Knock

Accelerate up a long, steep hill and listen carefully.

"If you hear a sound like marbles falling into an empty oil drum," says John Watson, "you've got knock. It could cause your engine trouble."

Take no chances. Switch to Super Shell. Its formula includes no less than three ingredients to fight the various causes of knock.

Test #5. Miles per gallon

Don't trust your fuel gauge when you measure miles per gallon. Take these three simple steps and be sure.

1. Start your test by filling your tank. Make sure the gasoline comes up to the brim. Write down your mileage reading.

2. Drive in your normal manner for at least three tankfuls. Keep a record of the exact amount you buy.

3. Finally, fill your tank to the brim again. Add up all the gallons you've bought (not counting the initial fill-up in step 1.) Divide this amount into your total miles driven. This gives you your average miles per gallon.

Try this test with three tankfuls of Super Shell. You may be pleasantly surprised.

Super Shell's 9 ingredients

Here's a brief rundown of all nine ingredients in today's Super Shell—and what they do to give your car top performance.

#1. TCP additive, to restore up to 15 per cent of lost power, and add up to 17 extra miles per tankful.

#2. "Cat-cracked" gasoline, the super-octane ingredient for power with a purr.

#3. Alkylate, noted for knock control in hot engines.

#4. Anti-knock mix, to give your engine extra knock resistance.

#5. Butane, for quick starts at any time.

#6. Pentane, for fast warm-ups.

#7. Anti-icer, added whenever carburetor icing becomes a problem.

#8. Gum preventive, to help keep carburetors clean inside.

#9. Platformate, the super-energy ingredient for extra mileage.

Why not test Super Shell in your car? You'll see what top performance really is.

Think It Through

By E. F. HUTTON

MONROE DOCTRINE—SECOND HALF

The other day, this column congratulated President Kennedy for reaffirming the Monroe Doctrine in strong, clear words. But, in his rebuttal to the President, Senor Khrushchev said in substance that if we interfere in the Eastern Hemisphere, he can interfere in the Western Hemisphere.

E. F. Hutton

The sad fact is that when we abandoned our historic foreign policy of neutrality for world-saving crusades, we put our feet in the flypaper.

For there were two parts to the Monroe Doctrine. The first is well known,—no intervention by European powers in the Western Hemisphere. But President Monroe also said: "In the wars of the European powers in matters relating to themselves we have never taken any part, nor does it comport with our policy to do so. . . . Our policy in regard to Europe . . . is not to interfere in the internal concerns of any of its powers."

We ourselves scuttled this second half of the Monroe Doctrine in 1917, when we entered World War I. It is useless now to argue that this was right or wrong. It was done. But we have now got ourselves so involved in a hundred conflicting situations all over the world, that we no longer have a clear, clean answer to give to any major questions of foreign policy.

The peace and independence of the Western Hemisphere should have been our prime objective. The Latin-American countries feel we have neglected them in favor of Asians and Africans.

Negroes' Passive Action Over Segregation Is Considered

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Negroes' efforts to end segregation in the South through direct but passive action—such a sit-ins and bus rides by Negroes and white sympathizers—raises a haunting question.

Would this country be closer to total desegregation if a quarter century ago Negroes had begun their present tactics instead of deciding on the long, slow road through the courts?

Back in the 1930s the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People instead of direct action, began a fight, step by painful step through the courts to have segregation declared unconstitutional.

Before ever trying to get the court to outlaw public school segregation, a truly explosive area, the NAACP fought to get schools on the higher levels desegregated through court action.

As long ago as 1946 the court outlawed segregation on interstate buses, although you might not think so in view of the white mob riots last week in Alabama over buses carrying so-called "freedom riders" of whites and Negroes.

Crowning Achevement

The NAACP's crowning achievement was the Supreme Court's May 17, 1954 decision against public school segregation. All the court's previous anti-segregation rulings didn't have the impact of this.

Out of it flowed the bitterest Southern white antagonism, the determination to make a last-ditch fight in defiance of the court, the Little Rock riots of 1957 and, as an end product, the Alabama riots last week.

Negroes became more confident of breaking down all the Southern segregation barriers with the government now compelled to intervene, even with federal troops, to back up the authority of the court.

Bit by bit the NAACP lost its role as the almost exclusive champion and spokesman for Negroes. Other Negro groups came into existence determined to fight faster and more directly against all forms of desegregation.

This is particularly true among Southern Negro students who took the non-violent but still direct action of picketings and sitins. The first big example of the new policy came about six years ago in Montgomery, Ala.

There Negroes put an economic squeeze on the white-dominated city by boycotting the buses. New Negro leaders, operating outside the NAACP, emerged, like the Rev. Martin Luther King who led the bus boycott.

Original Question Remains

But the original question still remains: Would Negroes have moved faster toward desegregation if they had chosen the direct action road 25 years ago instead of the slower course taken by the NAACP? This writer thinks no.

For this reason: The psychological climate wasn't right. Neither were the circumstances.

1. Africa was still a collection of European colonies. Only in recent years have African Negroes begun to assert themselves and gain independence. This gave encouragement to Negroes everywhere to fight directly for their rights.

2. The United States, seeking to lead the non-Communist world, is made self-conscious every time there is an anti-Negro outburst in this country.

3. The Supreme Court decisions against segregation have split Southerners' thinking, even of those who may favor segregation but realize there can be only anarchy if the court's rulings are ignored or violated.

4. The court's rulings, coming one at a time over years, have conditioned both the country and the South into realization that segregation had to end.

5. The court itself, more than 60 years ago, had approved segregation and considered it constitutional so long as segregated Negroes got treatment equal to that given whites. They did not, of course.

But with the Supreme Court on the side of segregation, Negroes were handcuffed. Any demonstrations could have been suppressed on the ground they were violating state segregation laws. The government could have done little or nothing to help, until the Supreme Court reversed itself.

6. Now the situation is different. With the court throwing out various Southern segregation laws, the federal government can back up Negroes protesting segregation, as it did in Little Rock and on the buses.

To Modernize Catskill Mill

Cement Firm Plans Spending Over $2 Million This Year

The large-scale modernization project at the Catskill North American Division of Marquette Cement Manufacturing Company, Chicago, Ill., will cost in excess of $11 million with $2,385,000 to be expended this year, according to plans announced at a recent stockholders meeting.

The North American Cement Corp. became a division of Marquette in January when stockholders of both Marquette and North American approved the merger.

At the time of the meeting W. A. Wecker, president of Marquette, said the $11 million modernization program will increase the capacity at North American by 50 per cent.

The project will start some time this year at the limestone crushing plant with partial replacement of the existing crushers to increase output. The present system of transporting stone from crusher to plant will be replaced by a modern continuous conveyor. New feeding devices will be added in the raw grinding department to accurately proportion limestone and other materials.

The eight existing small mills for wet grinding the raw materials will be replaced by one huge mill of much greater capacity. Increased storage and improved blending facilities for the raw mixture will be provided.

To Have One Big Kiln

The five old kilns will be replaced by a single large kiln and high-efficiency cooler capable of producing in excess of 2,500,000 barrels of clinker annually. Two large mills with ample capacity to grind the entire clinker will replace six small grinding mills.

The existing craneway for storing and handling raw materials and clinker will be completely modernized. Additional storage silos for clinker and other materials will also be provided.

The latest regulatory devices will be installed throughout the system to insure uniform quality and high burning efficiency. These will include X-ray systems for rapid automatic chemical analysis, self-regulating feeders and closed circuit television to permit control from central points.

To Reduce Costs 47 Per Cent

These and other related improvements will result in a 50 per cent increase in capacity, with larger reductions in fuel, power and labor costs. Altogether, operating costs are expected to be reduced 47 per cent.

Included in the program is a dock on the Hudson River connected to land by a 3,600-foot causeway. Cement destined for the distributing plants will be loaded onto barges and ships from this dock, and fuel and other waterborne materials will be received there.

The Catskill plant was built in 1912 on the west bank of the Hudson, 115 miles from New York City. The plant with 1,650,000 barrels annual capacity lies close to a geologically complex ridge of limestone which parallels the river. Current drilling explorations show that the limestone reserve there is ample for at least 50 years of expanded plant operations.

This coupled with an ideal riverfront location for shipping cement by low-cost water transport, led to the decision to completely modernize the plant and greatly increase its capacity.

Scheduled This Year

The $2,385,000 to be expended this year will include $756,280 for rock crushing plant alterations and conveyor; $10,000 for alteration of material storage and handling craneway; $231,750 for raw and finish grinding and blending equipment; $203,250 for clinker burning and cooling equipment; $25,000 for power distribution system and $1,158,720 for river dock and cement loading facilities.

The emphasis will be on earliest possible completion of the cement loading dock on the river so that water movement of cement to the new distributing plant in New York may be started this summer.

Harris Roberts is plant superintendent at Catskill.

Demand Stressed

The greater demand for cement was apparent in the announcement of expansion plans by the two other Catskill-Saugerties area plants and the start of a new $64 million plant at Ravena Friday where Governor Rockefeller participated in groundbreaking ceremonies. The new plant is expected to produce 10 million barrels of cement annually by 1963. Atlantic Cement Company will operate the plant near the Albany County village.

Alpha Portland Cement Company at Cementon, Greene County, earlier this year, completed a series of new silos costing about $2 million, increasing its finished product capacity.

A $12 million expansion project is now in progress at Lehigh Portland Cement Company at Alsen which includes construction of a new kiln and tube finishing mill, 20 new silos and installation of four hoppers. The move doubled the capacity of the plant to more than 2,000 barrels.

Rocky, Meyner Discuss Center, Tax Not Topic

NEWARK, N. J. (AP) — The governors of New York and New Jersey discussed the future of the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad and a proposed World Trade Center in New York City Tuesday night.

But New Jersey's Gov. Robert B. Meyner and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York insisted after the dinner meeting that the subject of New Jersey's commuter benefit income tax did not come up.

The three-hour private meeting at Newark Airport was attended by members of the New York and New Jersey legislatures, by representatives of the Port of New York Authority and by counsel for the governors.

The discussion, the governors said, was strictly about the proposed construction by the Port Authority of a $300 million World Trade Center in downtown New York City and the Port Authority's bid to buy and operate the bankrupt Hudson & Manhattan Railroad.

The New York Legislature has passed and Rockefeller has signed a bill putting in one package authorization for the authority to buy the railroad and to build the trade center.

New Jersey must concur in any such authorization, but New Jersey legislators have balked at linking the two projects.

Ike's Brother Bemoans Critics Of Tractor Swap

BALTIMORE (AP)—Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower says he is "saddened and surprised" at criticism of the tractor-prisoner swap with Fidel Castro being negotiated by a group of American citizens.

Eisenhower, brother of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and president of John Hopkins University, is co-chairman of a drive to raise $15 million for tractors.

"By whatever name you call it," he said Tuesday, "the central problem is 1,214 decent people. I don't see how Americans can refuse a call for help."

Youths Battle Over Use of Playground

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP)—Open warfare over use of city park playground facilities has resulted in the arrest of several participants.

A baseball diamond was the battleground Tuesday night as some 20 Negro and white youths fought with fists and knives. One white youth, identified as Jimmy Martin, 21, received a minor knife wound before police broke up the disturbance and arrested several of the battlers.

The officers said the trouble apparently began when the Negroes sought to use the ball park formerly reserved for white persons.

Select Audiences

DETROIT (AP) — New York's Metropolitan Opera Co., won't play before segregated audiences in the South any more.

Rudolf Bing, the Met's general manager, said Tuesday the company "can't afford" to do so.

Bing said he had informed patrons in Atlanta and Dallas, where the Met makes regular stops, that it could no longer give performances in those cities.

Policeman Turns Robber

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A policeman who said he turned robber to finance a June honeymoon is charged with two loan company holdups.

Donald Earl Garner, 22, was arrested Tuesday shortly after $234 was taken at gunpoint from a suburban loan company office. The same place was robbed of $400 in February.

For Freeing Invaders

JFK Backing Seen For Tractor Swap

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy was reported today to have taken a personal hand in the behind-the-scenes maneuvers which led to the creation of the "Tractors for Freedom" committee to free captured Cuban invaders.

Authoritative sources said Kennedy was deeply interested in securing freedom for the anti-Castro prisoners if possible.

The three leading figures on the committee — Walter Reuther, Eleanor Roosevelt and Dr. Milton Eisenhower--have refused to confirm or deny they had been in contact with Kennedy. But Reuther reported a "green light" from unspecified Washington officials.

While various departments maintained an official hands-off position, Kennedy's encouragement was seen in a variety of indirect aids from different federal agencies that indicated White House backing.

A Coast Guard plane provided transport for prisoner representatives.

The State Department made plain it would waive the Cuban embargo to let the tractors through.

On the other hand, House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas said Kennedy told congressional leaders at a White House conference Tuesday that the government "is out of it and is going to stay out."

June Allyson Is Improving After Second Operation

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Actress June Allyson is recovering from her second throat operation within a month.

Her physician said her condition was fine after Tuesday's surgery, and added: "It was just what we expected, a polyp. Everything went well and she'll be out in a couple of days—whenever she wants to leave."

Miss Allyson, who was divorced Jan. 31 from TV actor-producer Dick Powell, underwent a similar operation April 27.

Sounds Like Hundreds of Planes

Many New Yorkers Will Never See Tornado Like Liberty Had

By ROBERT MARKOWITZ

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Mother nature wields a tornado much like a crazed-man wielding a knife—suddenly and violently.

While the incision left upon the earth may be small, the impact is often total—destruction and death.

Two separate tornadoes, five days and several hundred miles apart, barrelled across New York State this month, flattening buildings in the Western hamlet of Ashford Hollow and leaving the Southeastern community of Liberty in a state of disaster.

The tornadoes were numbers 103 and 104, respectively, to strike the state since 1831.

Last year, in June, the funnel-shaped cloud spun a trail of destructon through Rotterdam, Schenectady, Niskayuna, and Crescent. More than 100 families were left homeless and damage was estimated at at least $3 million.

Miraculously, there were no deaths.

In Schenectady one entire home was swept up and carried 100 feet away, where it was piled in a mountain of debris.

Fourteen persons received minor injuries in that storm.

Really Rolled Over

This year, on May 10, a tornado raked and uprooted a section of Southeastern New York in less than an hour. Homes and farm buildings in Liberty looked as though they had been rolled over by something from science fiction.

The main swath was in an area a quarter of a mile wide stretching the five miles from Bradley to Ferndale and passing through the townships of Liberty and Fallsburgh, all in Sullivan County.

Two resort hotels, unoccupied—one in Liberty and the other in Ferndale—were moved off their foundations.

Again, there were no deaths. The Weather Bureau records report six tornadoes took 12 lives between 1831 and 1954. There have been no deaths since.

For many, the tornado is something unreal. Most New Yorkers never will see nor ever experience a tornado, the Weather Bureau says.

"It sounds like the roar of hundreds of airplanes," is the way some who have been close-by have described it. Thunder clouds gather and then suddenly a cloud begins to bulge earthward, as if heavy laden.

When the tornado forms it may look like a rope spinning down from the cloud, or it may be barrel-shaped, or like a huge elephants trunk.

Most tornadoes are less than a block wide. Their area is limited. Their path is usually less than five miles long. Rain and hail often are dragged along the path.

The time of the year for tornadoes in New York is usually during the warm months—May through September. They strike between 2 and 9 p. m., with greatest frequency between 3 and 7.

Most sections of the state have been struck by tornadoes at some time or other. The Weather Bureau says there is some evidence that Central and Western counties get more than other areas.

In 1912, three persons were killed in a tornado that struck Syracuse. In 1945, Jamestown was left in shambles—with damage estimated at $5 million—by a tornado.

The only other extensive damage since then was in Schenectady last year.

Mostly Matter of Luck

The Weather Bureau says there have been no increases in the number of tornadoes in the state. But they do feel improved communications have resulted in more being reported.

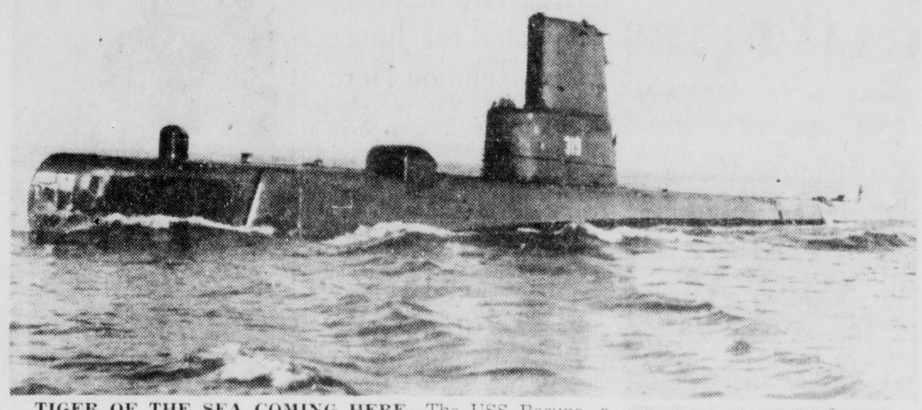

Today, also, radar stations are used by the Weather Bureau across the state. It is often possible to track and warn of an oncoming tornado before disaster strikes.

But even in this age of science, the Weather Bureau admits that the outcome is often a matter of luck.

Mountains and buildings hide the tornado's path. And the only certain safe escape from the spinning cloud is in a basement. Last year, in the Schenectady area, few, if any, persons took refuge there. And yet no one was killed.

Why?

Better ask Mother Nature that.

TIGER OF THE SEA COMING HERE—The USS Becuna, a submarine of impressive World War 2 record, is to be here over Memorial Day, Mayor Edwin F. Radel announced today. It is due here May 27 and will be moored at the Newcombe dock where Lt. Cmdr. Robert H. Flood and his crew will be hosts to an "open house" public inspection of the craft. The mayor and members of the Common Council and other officials are due to ride the submarine from Brooklyn Navy Yard from where it is due to leave early next Saturday. It is expected to be here and ready for public inspection by 3 p. m. The crew of the Becuna has been invited to participate in the city's Memorial Day parade.

POLLY'S QUIZ

By POLLY CRAMER

Choose Gay, Bright Colors For Outdoor Living Area

Color for any outdoor living area (porch or terrace) rates careful planning. A can of paint can work wonders in unifying a miscellaneous collection of furniture. The exterior of the house is usually the background for such furniture so it is a determining factor in choosing color.

This is the place for true gaiety. If there is a profusion of flowers nearby, perhaps gleaming white would be best for the furniture. Or, you might pick apple green, geranium pink or marigold yellow. Gray iron furniture or even seafoam green or pale blue might be pretty. Keep in mind the coloring of awnings, garden umbrellas and chair pads.

Dear Polly: I need advice on furnishing a lake cottage. I have little imagination but can tell if things look right. My husband will be furious if I have not made up my mind when he wants to go shopping. I had considered natural wood cabinets for the small kitchen that has sliding doors on the lake side. I would like a plan because I will get all new furniture. Because there is only one bedroom, a hidden bed will be necessary. I thought dining chairs might fit as extra living room chairs.—Mrs. L. D. R.

Dear Mrs. L. D. R.: Living and dining room walls in your lake cottage could be white with heavy striped canvas or cotton draw curtains in green, blue, white with a touch of black. A green or blue plastic type fabric would be practical for the sofa bed. Repeat the stripes for seat and back pads on a pair of black rattan easy chairs. Tables could be white with white plastic tops. A black rattan dining group could have sky blue plastic pads on the seats. White column lamp bases with simple black or green paper shades would be smart. Have a black-and-white fiber rug for the floor. Sky blue kitchen walls would complement natural cabinets with copper pulls. Have white counter tops.

Dear Polly: I have made a mess of my living room after saving and waiting for five years! I bought a coral couch and chair and slip covered an old chair in brown. New rug is light beige. Walls and drapes are beige and woodwork and lamps are white. It looks dull and lifeless. I want to know what color for two more chairs. Dining room is the same.—Faithful Reader.

Dear Faithful Reader: Slip cover those two chairs in natural linen with a design of coral flowers and green leaves. Try a piece of the fabric in the room to see what it does. If a sample length is not available, it might pay to buy a yard before making too hasty a selection. Change those dining room chair seats to coral and green stripes.

* * *

Dear Reader: A heavy volume of mail doesn't permit Mrs. Cramer to answer her letters and post cards individually. But she will comment in her column on decorating problems of general interest. She cannot undertake to return floor plans or fabric swatches which are enclosed with letters.

Keating Suggests Federal Aid for 3 Orange Areas

WASHINGTON (AP)—The New York State areas of Newburgh-Middletown-Beacon, Olean - Salamanca and Wellsville have been recommended by Sen. Kenneth Keating, R-N.Y., for federal aid under the new area redevelopment program.

Keating had suggested aid for the areas of Buffalo-Niagara Falls, Utica-Rome and Albany-Schenectady-Troy in a letter last week to William J. Batt Jr., area redevelopment administrator.

None of the six areas, nor the three Keating recommended since by telephone, is eligible for aid under a formula adopted by Congress. But Keating said all nine could qualify for help under Batt's discretionary authority.

A Keating aide said talks with Batt's office thus far have been "somewhat encouraging."

New York areas now eligible for aid under the act are Amsterdam, Auburn, Gloversville, Johnstown-Dunkirk, Ogdensburg - Massena - Malone and Plattsburgh.

9 PC Go for Kennedy Plan

7,576 Farmers in New York To Grow Less Corn for Feed

WASHINGTON (AP) —Despite opposition of some New York Republican congressmen to the plan, about 9 per cent of the Empire State's farmers have indicated a willingness to take part in the Kennedy administration's feed-grain program.

The agriculture department, in its latest review of the new program, said 7,576 farmers in New York have agreed to grow less corn for feed this year than they did last year.

This represents about 21 per cent of the 35,529 New York farms eligible to take part in the program and about 9 per cent of all farms in the state — 82,352 as of 1959.

Those New Yorkers who plan to participate in the program told the department they would divert about 100,000 acres from corn feed production during 1961.

Large Payment

This would mean, the department said, that the 7,576 farmers could be paid a total of $1,773,071 in advance subsidies this spring.

The feed grain program provides for subsidies in cash and in surplus government grain for each farmer who diverts at least 20 per cent of his feed-grain acreage to other crops.

Some New York Republican members of congress criticized the Democratic program while it was being studied by Congress. They said it would be of little use to New Yorkers and actually would raise prices for many Empire State farmers.

Keating's Reference

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y. refers to the move of the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants baseball teams to Los Angeles and San Francisco, respectively, as "aid to athletically depressed areas."

Indians Honored

The Interior Department has formally honored five of the six Iroquois Indian nations by naming Mohawk River islands after them.

In addition, the department's Board on Geographic Names designated a half-mile long peninsula in the Mohawk River at Schenectady as Iroquois Peninsula. It formerly had been known as Van Slyck Island.

It designated five small islands in the river at Schenectady as Isle of the Cayugas (formerly Hog Island), Isle of the Mohawks (No former name), Isle of the Oneidas (formerly Daley Island, Eldrich Island or Eldridge Island), Isle of the Onondagas (formerly Big Island), and Isle of the Senecas (formerly Little Island).

Other Name Changes

Other New York names changes approved by the board:

Farringtons Pond — formerly known as Farrington's pond in Fairfield County, Conn., and Putnam County, N.Y., about 4½ miles northwest of Danbury, Conn.

Millen Bay —A settlement on Millen Bay on the St. Lawrence River about six miles downstream from Cape Vincent Village. It has been known as Millens Bay, River View and Riverview.

Stannards — A village about three miles southeast of Wellsville, formerly called Stannard, Stanard, Stannard Corners, Stannards Corners).

FOOD FOR AMERICANS

Pretzels Join the Outdoor Barbecue

A NOVEL "twist" for an outdoor barbecue: pretzel bits are mixed with hamburger meat, then grilled to perfection.

GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

To celebrate this Pretzelennial year, the 100th anniversary of pretzel making in the United States (although popular in the old world for over 13 centuries), we've invited them to our outdoor barbecue. Like any good guest, they add to the fun of the party.

Pretzel-Burgers
(6 servings)

1½ pounds ground beef
¼ teaspoon freshly ground pepper
1 cup coarsely crumbled pretzels (about 18 thin, twisted pretzels)
2 eggs, beaten
2 tablespoons instant minced onion flakes
1/3 cup milk, tomato juice or soup stock
¼ cup pickle relish
Barbecue sauce, if desired
6 thin slices Bermuda onion
6 thin twisted pretzels
3 toasted hamburger buns, buttered

Combine first seven ingredients; mix lightly and shape into 6 patties. Grill over glowing coals, allowing 4 to 5 minutes to each side. Turn once with long-handled tongs or pancake turner. If desired, brush burgers with barbecue sauce at the start of grilling and after turning the meat. Top each burger with a thin onion slice and a pretzel before serving on hot, toasted and buttered bun half.

Note: To keep the meat moist and juicy-tender, you may moisten both sides of pretzel-burgers with a few drops of cold water just before grilling. Pretzel-burgers may be mixed ahead of cooking and kept refrigerated, well-wrapped in heavy-duty aluminum foil.

B&P Club Hears Teacher on Local Folklore, History

The Business and Professional Women's Club of the YWCA was entertained at its recent meeting by Miss Agnes Scott Smith with tales of Ulster County folklore. Miss Smith mentioned several Indian tales, some of them handed down in her own family, spoke of the famous Dr. Oliver of Marbletown who lived during the Revolutionary War period, of the strong beliefs in witchcraft held in this area and the celebrated witch doctors here, and of the thriving town of Eddyville during the heyday of the Delaware and Hudson Canal. Miss Smith noted that the present Schools 2 and 4 had special "canalers rooms" where the boys and young men who worked on the canals made life miserable for their teachers during their three or four months of schooling each year. She also told an amusing tale of the community of Eagles Nest in Hurley.

On Wednesday, the Club will have its annual Guest Night when members are invited to bring their friends. Coach House Players will present a one-act play. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p. m.

Large Attendance Expected for June Class Reunion Here

More than 200 members of the Kingston High School Class of 1941, their wives and husbands, are expected to attend 20th anniversary reunion events Friday and Saturday, June 9 and 10.

Registration and a get-acquainted party will be held Friday at the Governor Clinton Hotel, beginning at 8 p. m.

A banquet is scheduled for Saturday at the Wiltwyck Country Club at 7:30 p. m. There will be a short entertainment program with Howard C. St. John as master of ceremonies, followed by dancing to the music of James Sweeney and his orchestra.

Deadline for banquet reservations is May 31. Reservations chairman is Donald J. Sweeney of Codwise Street, Sunset Park.

Albert O. Sonnenberg, reunion co-chairman, emphasized today that although more than 200 indicated on preliminary questionnaires that they plan to attend the reunion banquet, definite reservations must be made by returning ticket money prior to deadline date. The number of reservations is limited by the size of the banquet hall and there will be no extension of reservations beyond the May 31 date, he said.

Committee members working with Mrs. Lillian Weeks Hopper, research chairman, have succeeded in locating all but about 20 of the 421-member class, the largest graduating class up to its time and the last pre-war class to be graduated.

A total of 198 classmates were found still to be living in the Kingston area, and another 61 elsewhere in New York State. Others had scattered to almost every state and there are classmembers living in Paris, France; Orleans, France; China, and Batangas, Philippines.

Expecting to attend the reunion is former High School Principal Clarence L. Dumm, who wrote Reunion Committee Secretary Mrs. Louise Leonard Taylor that he hopes to make the trip here from his farm at Mill Hall, Pa.

Officiating was the Rev. William E. Williams. Mrs. Frank Rafferty was organist and Donald Sweeney, soloist. Selections included "Mother Beloved" and "Ave Maria."

White gladioli decorated the church for the occasion. The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Donald Smith of 46 Adams Street. It was styled with a circlet neckline, abbreviated sleeves and a bouffant ballerina skirt. The gown featured a flat bow at the back waistline. A crown of seed pearls held a matching blue veil. She carried a white basket of dark pink carnations with pink, blue and white snapdragons and fern.

Attendants were Mrs. Enis Fisher, the bridegroom's sister-in-law, and Joan Hinkley of Kingston. They wore gowns of romance blue, ballet length, with cummerbunds and flat back bows. They carried white baskets of light pink carnations, pink, blue and white snapdragons with fern.

The bride's niece, Bonnie Blubaker of West Hurley, served as flower girl in a ballet length blue peau taffeta fashioned with a lace edged collar and bouffant skirt accented with a wide sash. She also wore a matching ruffled bonnet and carried a white basket of light pink carnations, pink, blue and white snapdragons and fern.

The bridegroom's brother, Peter Fisher of St. Remy, served as best man. Ushering were Thomas Farrell of Kingston and Frederick Scott Baker of West Hurley, the bride's brother-in-law. The bride's nephew, George Thomas DeCicco Jr., of East Kingston was the child ringbearer.

Guests were received at a reception given in the Elks Club on Fair Street.

Wallkill Central School Concert Set For Friday, June 2

A new approach for a Spring Concert at the elementary school level is being planned in the Wallkill Central School District this year. The elementary music department will present for the public a concert made up of the combined choruses and instrumental students of the Plattekill, Leptondale and Wallkill Elementary Schools. This concert will be held in the Wallkill Central High School Auditorium on Friday, June 2, at 7:30 p. m.

A 60-piece elementary band, made up of the elementary instrumental students in grades four, five and six throughout the district has been assembled under the direction of J. Palmer Henderson and William Terwilliger, instrumental instructors. Each of the named instructors will conduct four band selections by the combined group.

James Schoeller, elementary vocal music director, has assembled from the three schools a 160 voice chorus. This group is also made up of students from grades four, five and six. A very interesting group of vocal selections have been specially arranged by Mr. Schoeller for this concert. The program will consist of American music from early history to the present time. Several solo voices will be featured with the chorus.

This concert will be the first attempt in the district of combining the elementary music talent. A very worthwhile and entertaining program is expected.

Benefit Ball Will Be Given in Sports Palace This Saturday; Home of Mrs. Vincent Astor

Ferncliff, Mrs. Vincent Astor's home in Rhinebeck, will be the setting on Saturday for the Spring Ball, the first benefit event for the Hudson Valley Philharmonic.

Mrs. Astor's home is a building once called the "Tennis House," one of the very few privately owned sports palaces in this country. The main house on the Astor estate was demolished in 1945. At that time the family moved into the remodelled tennis house.

Although the former sports palace is now a home, it still has a huge indoor croquet court — the former tennis court — and an indoor swimming pool. These were the first privately owned indoor tennis court and swimming pool in the United States. The room which will serve as ballroom for the Spring Ball is a tremendous entrance hall, large enough to have been decorated, the last time the Spring Ball Committee met there, with 100 bouquets of fresh flowers.

When the tennis house was built in 1903, there was probably no more elegant, and no more exclusive, sport than court tennis. Court tennis originated in the 14th century and was revived in the 19th here and in Europe. In 1876 the first court was opened in the U. S. The building of these courts was so prohibitively expensive that no more than a handful were ever built by private citizens. The court and the game are quite unlike tennis as the game is played on outdoor courts. It is played on a cement court surrounded by walls 30 feet high. The player must play the surface of the floor, the walls and the ceiling to put the ball out of reach of his opponent.

The name of Stanford White, architect of this building, became a headliner when he was shot and killed in 1906 by Harry K. Thaw, because of trouble over Thaw's wife. But White had already made a name as an architect; his accomplishments include the original Madison Square Garden, Madison Square Presbyterian Church, the Herald Square Building, and — still standing—the Washington Arch and the Century Club, all in New York City. The Astor sports palace is a lovely illustration of White's concentration on rich and graceful effects and beautifully sculptured Renaissance ornament. To build the tennis house, he imported skilled Italian workmen, whose craft was particularly needed for the elaborate ceilings.

The Astor family has long been associated with Rhinebeck. John Jacob was born there in 1864. He served in the Spanish American War and was drowned in the Titanic disaster. Vincent Astor was one of his sons. The Astor estate will make a handsome setting for one of the biggest social events of the area, the Spring Ball.

U. S. teen-agers spend nearly $7 billion of their own money annually.

Miss Woodstock Pageant Set for Saturday; Program Will Offer Top Entertainment

LWV Hears Panel Discussion on State Aid to Education

"State aid to education has been a patchwork quilt made up of legislative compromises—but many inequities will be ironed out this year," stated Dr. W. N. Hageny, professor of education at New Paltz, moderator of the Kingston League of Women Voters panel discussion on "Financing Education in New York State."

The other panelists included Dr. Earl Soper, who presented clearly and concisely the formula used for determining State Aid in a given area. Kingston received this past year, 44 per cent from the State, 54 per cent locally, and 2 per cent from the Federal government.

Lester Roosa, district superintendent of schools explained that central districts are composed of groups with social, economic and common interests—often they are formed of several townships in perhaps different counties. They are subject to State Aid in the same manner as a city school system based on WADA (Weighted Average Daily Attendance), or if the district is a wealthy one, their aid is a flat grant. The central district has two additional forms of revenue, a building quota and a transportation quota.

Mrs. Robert Greene, Board of Education member of the Onteora School System, explained that the amount of State Aid and the local school tax depend on the assessed valuation of real property within the district. A complete overhaul of the assessment system is needed to provide true equality. The State Equalization Board does a spot check annually in each locality which often points out inequities.

Mrs. Edward DeGroff, education chairman of the League of Women Voters, and her committee arranged the meeting. Mrs. Morton Zucker is membership chairman and anyone interested in the League may call her. Membership is open to all women of voting age.

Add Sprinkling of Men And Zing—Gals Perk Up

RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In Nottingham, England, a new 160-room hotel designed for bachelor girls stood nearly empty for four months. Then the owners took some smart pills and announced that the hotel would also accept men. With the announcement the place was flooded with women wanting rooms.

The hotel owner shouldn't have been surprised. If there is anything drearier for a woman than to live alone it is having to live in a strictly female dwelling.

There is something depressing to a woman in being one of a crowd of women—for in that crowd she has the feeling that she has lost her own identity.

And just to add a little excitement to the over-all drabness, when a bunch of women live together they form little cliques devoted to the sole purpose of talking about each other. It's depressing for a woman to be in such a clique—and even more depressing not to be in one.

But the scene brightens and changes for the better when there are a few men around. Just the presence of men changes the background and the feeling in the air.

The depression lifts, the women perk up, and suddenly there is something more important to talk about than each other.

Women never out grow this feeling that an environment that is strictly female is deadly.

As one bright-eyed little old lady in a wheel chair once remarked, "The worst thing about living in an old ladies home is being around nothing but old ladies. Now if there were just a few old men around—it wouldn't be half so bad."

City Youth Hurt In Cycle Mishap After Visit Here

William Brennan, 18, son of Mrs. August Hof of 622 Broadway, was injured Sunday at 7 p. m. in a motorcycle-automobile collision near Putnam, Conn., while returning to a U. S. Navy base in Rhode Island where he is stationed.

According to available information the accident occurred when a car owned by a New Jersey man and operated by a friend, attempted to make a left turn. Brennan was unable to swerve to avoid a collision and collided with the car broadside. He was hurtled over the car.

Brennan was taken to a nearby hospital and treated for a severe laceration of the chin which required six sutures, a dislocated arm and severe leg injury. On Tuesday he was transferred to a Navy hospital.

The driver of the car was charged with reckless driving by Connecticut State Police.

Brennan, who has been in the Navy about a year, had been stationed aboard a ship until recently when he was granted a month's leave which he spent at home. He had been at a new station in Rhode Island for a weekend came home to pick up his motorcycle.

His condition was described as good today.

The youth's sister, Miss Barbara Brennan, is secretary to Stephen Hyatt at the MJM School.

Adams Says Six Ran U. S. After Ike's '55 Attack

NEW YORK (AP)—An unofficial committee of six ran the government during the two months following President Eisenhower's heart attack in 1955, says Sherman Adams.

The stand-in group, said Adams, consisted of himself, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell, Treasury Secretary George Humphrey and presidential aide Wilton Persons.

Adams, who served as Eisenhower's assistant from 1952 to 1958, makes this disclosure in an installment of his memoirs, appearing in Life magazine.

Writing of the days following the first of three Eisenhower illnesses while he was in the White House, Adams says:

"There never was a move on the part of any of us to 'seize power' or to take an unwarranted action that Eisenhower would have disapproved. We made sure that normal activities of the government went on as usual."

Adams writes that after Eisenhower's heart attack in 1955, the President "placed in his file a letter to the vice president covering an understanding between them of the procedure that would be followed in the event of a presidential disability."

Adams said he never saw the agreement, but added that Eisenhower told him about it.

It provided, Adams writes, that "if the president became disabled, he would inform the vice president who would then serve as acting president until the period of disability ended."

Onteora High School Band Gets Highest State Rating For Fourth Straight Year

The Onteora High School Symphonic Band has been notified that it received the highest rating that may be attained in New York State at the music competition held on May 13 at the Delaware Academy in Delhi.

The sixty piece band, under the direction of Harry Simon, received an "A" rating in grade six music. The annual competition is sponsored by the New York State School Music Association.

This marks the fourth consecutive year that the Onteora Symphmonic Band has attained the highest possible rating in the state.

The rating plan used in adjudicating bands, as presented in the New York State School Music Association Manual, is as follows: "Grade six music is intended for organizations of symphonic caliber. Music in grade six will meet the standards expected from the largest schools in the state with the largest enrollments. This grade is recommended for schools with excellent music organizations. A is to be considered an outstanding performance. Selected music is divided into six grade levels. For each grade of music, a group may receive an A, B, C or D. The highest any group can possibly receive is "A" in grade six music.

Judges at the Delhi competition were Curtis H. Acker, prominent Long Island music educator; Richard Smaldone, well known musician and music educator from Cornith, New York, and Donald Menz, the New York State School Music Association representative.

The Onteora Symphonic Band prepared the following numbers: "Chorale and Fugue", by Abert and Bach; "Symphony for Band", by Vincent Persichetti; "Moses" from (Portraits From The Bible) by Julian Work and the "Beaded Belts," concert march by Frank Erickson.

Judges' Comments

The band was marked in thirty-six different categories and received the remarkable sum of thirty-five "A's" out of a possible total of thirty-six. In the numerical scoring the band received 119 out of a possible total of 120 points.

Some of the comments made by the adjudicators about the march were: "This was very well done. Fine! I prefer a march to be subdued for the most part and you did this to perfection. Very crisp and clean—therefore, very thrilling! Intonation excellent — especially in the clarinets."

The judges had this to say about "Symphony For Band" by Vincent Perischetti: "I was particularly impressed by the section sounds. You are working together. This is as it should be. The changes from woodwinds to brass choir and back were very well done. Heard some very fine flute and french horn playing. All in all well done. Very subtle musical rendition of slow movement. Intonation is great. Tones are all excellent. Woodwinds should be proud of themselves. Nice flute sound. I liked particularly the splendid interplay of parts in the third movement."

Concerning the final number, "Moses" by Julian Work, the judges commented: "This was well done. Congratulations to all of you for a very fine job!"

The adjudicators comments to the students stated that they were fortunate to have Mr. Simon as their conductor and that they must be aware of this or they would not have played so well. This was followed by, "I consider it an honor to have listened to you."

The adjudicators comments to the director, Mr. Simon, are as follows: "This band is one of the finest groups I have ever been privileged to adjudicate. I would rate this band as one of the top three high school bands I have ever judged."

Barbara Moncure In OCS Concerts

The elementary youngsters at the Onteora Boiceville school had the great pleasure last week of hearing Mrs. Barbara Moncure in two folk song concerts; the first performed for the 4th through 6th grades; the second for the 1st through 3rd grades. Each program was distinctive and prepared for the specific age group.

The performances were outstanding, for Mrs. Moncure brought vitality, humor and warmth to her audience of young people. They shared in the program; the older group singing many of the songs, and the younger group not only singing but dramatizing or "acting out" the story. Each number was preceded with a short explanation of the background of the song which brought the youngsters personally closer to the meaning of folk music.

The genuine and enthusiastic response of the two groups of children is a tribute to the intelligently prepared and charmingly presented programs given by Mrs. Moncure.

The two performances were sponsored by the Cultural Arts Committee of the Onteora P-TA.

Six Men Draw 245-Day Terms

Six men with local records as imbibers drew sentences today from City Judge Aaron E. Klein totaling 245 days in jail.

Casimer Krakowski, 39, of lower Broadway, who has made some 70 city court appearances in the past few years on public intoxication charges, was given a sentence of 90 days.

Jake Pinson, 51, of West Strand, who also has multiple public intoxication arrests listed, was given 60 days. Also listed as former offenders and given 30 days each were John Cole, 47, who gave a Fair Street address; John Meyers, 42, of East Strand, and Raymond Miller, 40, who gave a Franklin Street address.

Joseph Weber, 50 of Snyder Avenue, with a shorter record of arrests for public intoxication, was given the choice of paying a $10 fine or spending five days in jail. The fine was not immediately paid.

Motorists Pay $100 in Fines

Six drivers charged with traffic violation paid $100 in fines in City Court Tuesday night and one given the choice of paying a $50 fine or spending 25 days in jail did not immediately pay the fine.

He was originally slated to appear in answer to the charge that he had permitted an unlicensed operator to drive. The warrant was executed last night by Detective Leonard Ellsworth and Officer Floyd Krom.

Gary S. Cooper, 16, of 74 Green Street, charged with speeding and lack of license paid $10 on each, and $5 on the charge that he had failed to keep to the right.

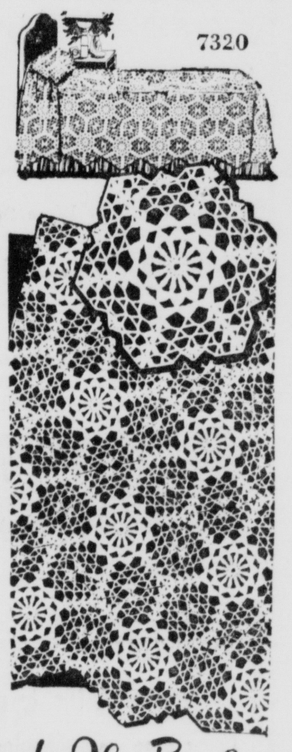

Raymond Friedman, of Walden, charged with speeding was fined $20, and Richard C. Fox, 17, of 67 Hudson Street, charged with driving while his license was suspended, was fined $25.

Fined $10 each for speeding were Jon Herbert, of 374 Washington Avenue, and Glenn Carle, 26, of Accord. Raymond Navarra, 19, of 8 Van's Court, Lake Katrine, was fined $10 for a one-way street violation.

Murchison Declines Alleghany Decision Until Board Meets

By GEORGE BOWEN

NEW YORK (AP)—The battle is over and where do we go from here is the question today facing stockholders in the Alleghany Corp. who voted a change in command of an empire controlling $6.7 billion.

John D. Murchison, 39, the Texan who successfully led the dissidents in an uphill assault, declined to go beyond a hint of his wishes.

He deferred to a meeting today of his new board of directors virtually all decisions on the day-to-day operation of the holding corporation and any radical change in the use of the millions of dollars at its disposal.

The 31-year-old corporation has paid only one dividend of a nickel, ridiculed by Murchison, and that was at the height of the battle this year for control.

Murchison voiced only one dictatorial dictum Tuesday in Baltimore after he had won control of Alleghany by nearly 854,000 votes out of more than nine million cast in this century's biggest struggle on the financial field.

That was that Allan P. Kirby, 68, the power behind and in front of the Alleghany Corp. since 1937, has not and will not be offered a spot on the board of directors.

"It's up to him" to make any peace overture," Murchison said. Kirby is the biggest single individual stockholder in Alleghany with one-third of its shares.

The most pressing problem before the nine new directors of Alleghany, including John Murchison and his brother Clint, 37, is selection of a "chief executive officer," whether he be designated president or chairman.

John Murchison said nobody has been offered the post but that he hoped it "would be filled quickly."

OPERATION REDEVELOPMENT

Congress has passed and President Kennedy has signed a $451-million bill to aid economically depressed areas of the nation.

OBJECTIVE:

To help cities, towns and rural areas redevelop to attract new job-creating industries.

FIRST STEP:

The government must designate those localities which qualify as "depressed."

WHO BENEFITS:

CITIES AND TOWNS

Loans are available for . . .

- Sewers
- Water systems
- Job-training schools
- Other public facilities

BUSINESS

Loans are available to open plants in cities with high unemployment

ALSO,

in rural areas which have qualified for redevelopment.

INDIVIDUALS

Workers may get subsistence payments for up to 16 weeks while undergoing job retraining.

WHAT A COMMUNITY CAN DO:

- Pick an area for an industrial park.
- Plan for necessary facilities.
- Set up job-training school.

In other words, plan a "project package" covering all phases of redevelopment.

SPUR TO PROGRESS—A lot of people need jobs. About five million are out of work in the U.S. today, many of them long enough to have used up their unemployment compensation benefits. Overall, the economy is fairly prosperous, but nagging soft spots are scattered across the nation like a case of measles. Of 349 labor markets already surveyed by the Commerce Department, 110 areas in 28 states and Puerto Rico are suffering some degree of depression. The government intends to blast away at these depressed areas with a $451-million program to help businesses help themselves, to goad communities into action to revitalize themselves and attract new industry, and to aid unemployed workers learn new job skills. Main lines of this attack are listed above. The Commerce Department is in official control, but numerous other government agencies will take a hand in certain aspects. Success of the program, however, will depend in large part on the initiative and determination of the citizens of each local area.

Weather Modification Study Asked for Area

BY CHARLES R. DOUGLAS
Freeman Staff Writer

Other weather changing attempts after those of Dr. Wallace E. Howell to make rain for New York City more than a decade ago, were made in the Hudson Valley, this time to benefit area fruit growers. Hail suppression projects were tried a few years ago. They ended generally with the belief that more science is required before definite results are determined. Quests for the best possible results continue, and new optimism is noted after the more recent experiments. This is the first of a series of articles on cloud seeding for hail suppression in the Hudson Valley, the greater projects in the west and elsewhere.

This review of weather modification for saving of crops, as tried not too long ago in our area, begins with the newsworthy promise o fnew Hudson Valley studies, which could bring convincing results here in the near future.

Dr. Vincent J. Schaefer, Schenectady research consultant, a recognized authority on studies dealing with cloud seeding for storm control, in forwarding a report on recent studies in the West, told of pending plans to gain helpful surveys in this area.

Advises Area Study

His recent letter said: "Similar studies should be made of our Hudson Valley storms, and perhaps this may be done in another year, if my plans at the State University College at Albany develop adequately." He noted that "considerable progress is being made in the study of the physical nature of hailstorms," and emphasized that "such information is essential, if adequate control is to be achieved."

This report is to deal largely with hail suppression techniques as practiced in the Hudson Valley area only a few years ago, but experts who have studied various weather modification methods also talk of reducing the "frequency of lightning strikes" as a means of preserving timber in the nation's more valuable forests.

Cloud seeding is a top romance with nature and stirs almost as much interest as space flight. If it becomes the big science it purports to be, we'll have much more than ordinary changes of weather to talk about one of these near years ahead.

Here, we are to deal with reports on area hail suppression experiments but they bring out accounts of such interesting and probably blind trys as the shooting of 250,000 rockets at some $12 a shot in Italy's Po Valley where it was thought farmers would benefit from such jolting of clouds.

A Big First

Such attempts seem to emphasize the need for a sound science in future attacks on the destructive barrages of hail and lightning, and an experiment slightly over a dozen years ago by Dr. Irving Langmuir, a Nobel prize winner, and Dr. Schaefer, his assistant, contributed much in leading the way.

Theirs was a big first in cloud seeding when they made snow by dropping dry ice pellets from an aircraft into a supercooled cumulus cloud. This was a culmination of several years of research at Mt. Washington, N. H., and by General Electric laboratories at Schenectady.

Not too long after this man-made snow Dr. Wallace E. Howell was hired by New York City to make rain for its badly depleted water supply, and his tries slightly more than a decade ago were reviewed in some detail here last year.

Worth the Cost

Now we review the area experiments made by the Weather Modification Co., San Jose, Calif. in 1957 for the Hudson Valley Crop Service Cooperatives. The project covered five counties and its cost was listed at $68,700.

Experts say the cost of such projects is negligible even if only hit-and-miss results are obtained, and one citing hail damage in the West, said it amounted to $31,300,000 in Kansas alone in 1951.

Hailstones swept through the wilder western air currents, it has been recorded, are often phenomenally large, and True Magazine reported not too long ago that they not only come as big as hens eggs but "can get almost as big as hens." They are not always round, but come in various shapes." The largest officially recorded "slammed down in Potter, Nebraska on July 6, 1928. It was 17 inches around and tipped the scales at 1½ pounds. The 12-inchers that fell in Texas in 1926 were smaller, but weighed more—just a shade under two pounds."

Howard T. Orville, one of the experts to be quoted later in this series, in one report said that a farmer in Lubock, Texas, "was caught in an unprotected field, and was pounded to death by these stones. However, this was an exceptional case." Let's hope so, and hope again that such bombardments never reach our area of the East.

YOUR POCKETBOOK

By FAYE HENLE

If Bank Sells Your Stock, You'll Likely Pay Two Fees

Q—How much does a commercial bank charge to sell securities for a customer?—R. M.

A—Dear R. M.: The fee varies, some banks might make no charge. If a charge is made, it is usually a flat fee regardless of the number of shares or amount of capital involved. For example, one large New York bank makes a flat charge of $3. Such a charge is added to the regular broker's fee. This is because banks cannot become members of any stock exchange, but funnel their securities sales and purchases through brokers just as you would.

I am not certain why you would want a bank doing your securities business for you unless you live in a town where there is no brokerage office or you did not wish to be influenced by a broker's suggestions. If, on the other hand, a bank handles your investment via a custodian and/or advisory account, the fee for handling stock and bond sales and purchases is included in the fee you pay for that service.

Q—My wife and I are covered by Blue Cross. Our 17-year-old daughter lives with us. She is not married, but she is going to have a baby. Is she covered by our Blue Cross policy? — D. B.

A—Dear D. B.: Under many Blue Cross family contracts only the wife is covered. Check your local Blue Cross plan.

Q—What is the National Defense Education Act? Who is eligible? — E. M.

A—Dear E. M.: It provides federal funds for college scholarships. It is due to expire June 30, 1962, but President Kennedy has asked Congress to make the act permanent.

The funds go to several hundred colleges which select students to whom they make loans. If interested in this type of aid, check whether your chosen college has such funds available. If granted, loans are limited to $1,000 a year or a total of $5,000. This loan is repayable over a 10-year period at 3 per cent inest. Repayment need not begin until one year after the youngster ceases to be a full-time student.

Q—What is a holding company?—A. C.

A—Dear A. C.: A holding company is a corporation which owns the securities of another company, in most cases with voting control.

Runs were a dime a dozen in the Jaycee Little League last night as the Crows breezed to a decisive 13-3 victory over the Wrens.

Third Frame Run Pins Tough Loss On Bill Lohrman

Lefthander Bob Pink put a halt to the New Paltz pennant express with a masterful no-hitter as Wallkill stopped the visiting Huguenots, 1-0, in a UCAL thriller yesterday.

The home side scored the only run of the game in the third inning when Pete Sowa walked and came all the way home on a single by Dennis Mullen.

Aside from that Pink and Bill Lohrman of the losers threw goose eggs at the opposing batters. The Wallkill lefty, who had a blister on his hand, was in serious trouble in the first inning when he walked the bases full with only one out.

However, Valky Van Valkenburg was out on an attempt squeeze play and Eddie Kreuscher grounded out. From then on Pink was in complete command of the situation. He walked a total of six batters and struck out 12 in turning in the first no-hitter of the year in the circuit.

Dick Stuart Wants To Play Full Time Or Else Be Traded

PITTSBURGH, (NEA)—Dick Stuart startled Harry Caray when the world champions' first basemen told the broadcaster that he wouldn't mind being traded if he couldn't play regularly with the Pittsburg club.

"I haven't any chip on my shoulder and I'm not angry at anybody," the slugging Stuart hastily explained, "but I want to play regularly. If not here, maybe some place else. It's a simple matter of economics.

"I feel I have some potential, but I can't make the big money if I don't play regularly. Don't get me wrong. I'm not one of those play-me-or-trade-me fellows, but I just can't sit it out.

* * *

"I believe every man who rides a bench feels the same way, feels he should be playing regularly. I have a big swing and if I'm not playing regularly, I lose my timing.

"No doubt Danny Murtagh is right in his platooning of Rocky Nelson and me. Things have worked out all right for the team. It's just a case of me wanting to play.

"If they only wanted me to bat against left-handers, maybe they should get R. C. Stevens back and make a deal for me. This isn't any ultimatum or anything like that, but I feel I can play regularly in the majors and I'd like to prove it. There's no money sitting on the bench.

Don Hoak wants to correct an erroneous impression that all ballplayers use bad language on the field, as indicated by Umpire Frank Dascoli.

"This is greatly exaggerated," points out the Pirate's third baseman. "I think it's about time somebody stood up for the players and I'll do it.

"You can't jeoparadize 450 players in the majors because 20 or 25 swear.

"And have you ever seen an argument anywhere when bad language wasn't used?"

Grays Continue In Their Slump

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If anyone's had their share of tough luck in the Eastern League, it's been the Williamsport Grays, last year's champions.

They've been the losing victims of two one-hitters this year, the only two in the league so far.

Now the Grays are in a deep slump, in fifth place in the EL nine games behind first place Springfield.

Reading handed the Grays a doubleheader loss Tuesday night, 3-0 and 8-7.

And talk about tough luck the second game defeat was the ninth game the Grays have lost by one run this season.

In other games Springfield beat Lancaster 11-7 to maintain its three-game lead over second place Binghamton which dumped Johnstown 6-1.

Three Brothers Esopus Champs

Three Brothers Egg Farm won two straight games from Potter Brothers to claim the 1960-61 championship in the Esopus Legion mixed league.

The 3 Brothers keglers took the first set, 821 to 750, and nailed down the flag with a 769-762 win in the second game.

Peggy McHugh led the champions with a 358 double on games of 186, 172. Other members of the winning team are Milton Tsitsera, sponsor; Grace Tsitsera, Barbara Clark and Larry McHugh.

Onteora Speedway Sets Midget Card Memorial Day

Eastern Champ, Dick Brown Tops Brilliant Field

Onteora Speedway Park at Olive Bridge has announced a special Memorial Day midget racing program featuring ace drivers of the Northeastern Midget Association, including the 1960 champion, Dick Brown.

There will be three heats, a consolation and 25-lap feature starting at 3 p. m., a half hour later than the usual Sunday auto racing program time.

Brown is also former Australian champion, having swept all midget racing honors there in 1956, but some of the finest drivers in the East will challenge him for first money at Onteora next week.

Leonard Poe, president of NAM, New Englands largest midget racing club, has informed Onteora officials that more than 40 of the best Offenhauser and Non-Offy drivers available will participate in the midget spectacular.

One of Brown's chief threats will be Al Pillion of Newtonville, Conn., who was NAM champion four times in the past seven years and Hank Williams, a steady winning veteran out of Waltham, Mass.

Al Givens of Poughkeepsie who has both an Offy 22 and a new car with a Falcon motor is expected to add class to the field. The Falcon will be driven by Bob Harkey also of Poughkeepsie.

In view of the time turned in at Langhorne by a Falcon 1:98-640, they should be extremely fast cars in the field, Poe told racing directors Larry Shurter and Ed Ryan at Onteora. The NAM president is trying to get the Falcon which set this time at Langhorne to appear at Onteora.

Williams in Field

Joe Caiki of Willington, Conn., invades Onteora with a new Ferguson motor he has been prepping all winter. And Ronnie Evans of Rockville, Conn., will be behind the wheel of a Mordenti V8, a fast car on any track. Gibby Parmenti has entered an Austin-powered car and Bob Hart and Bob Day will come in from the Albany area with speedy machines.

Hank Williams, one of the circuit's best known drivers, will be driving the Stone Offy. The Smith Offy of Fair Lawn, N. J. will be driven by the well known Len Thrall.

Wally White will drive his own Offy and the Secunda Offy of Thomsonville, Conn. has no driver as yet but has been entered in the race.

The midget spectacular is one of several holiday "extras" planned for Onteora Speedway fans by track operator Dick Lane this season. Midgets enjoyed huge popularity in the prewar period before stocks came to fore. They are expected to attract a large crowd to the picturesque Olive Bridge oval.

Onteora's regular auto racing program will be held Sunday, May 28, at 2:30 p. m.

White Eagles, Glynn's Rec Softball Winners

The pitchers took a bad beating in the Recreation Softball League last night.

White Eagles collected 14 hits and 12 walks off Al Milak and Art Jansen to clobber Lincoln Park Inn, while Glynn's Shoes rolled up a 21-7 win over Bloomington Inn.

Ken Smith and Dave Lewis were tagged for 16 hits by Glynn's, as Rich Hoffman coasted on an eight-hitter.

The big blast came in the bottom of the third when Glynn's broke up a 5-5 tie with an 8-run barrage. They added four more tallies in each of the fifth and sixth innings.

J. Garrison paced Glynn's with a double and triple. J. Relyea stroked a triple and two singles and Don Slater had three singletons. J. Besemer and John Parete had single-double combinations for Glynn's and Frank Sammons for Bloomington.

A 12-run explosion, biggest of the softball season to date, enabled White Eagles to overcome a 11-9 lead held by Lincoln Park Inn. The Presidents rallied with four in the bottom of the fifth. Joe Bruck breezed to the win on a 9-hitter after surviving a 9-run shellacking in the first inning.

Don Smith was the big stick man for Lincoln Park with a single, double and home run. McWeeney slammed three singles for the winners.

Port Jervis Track Team Beats Kingston, 62-51

Joe Barr and John Falvey scored double wins but the Kingston High track squad dropped a 62-51 verdict at Port Jervis yesterday in a dual meet. The home side had greater depth in the dashes and they piled up enough points to offset some KHS strength in the field events.

Barr captured first place in the 440 yard run and the hop, step and jump. Falvey, a promising newcomer to this year's squad, won the shot put and the broad jump.

Others winning events for the locals were John Kelly in the 880 yard run and John Dickson in the pole vault.

Braves Launch NY-NJ Season Friday at Poughkeepsie

Al Corwin Set As Starter for Kingston Team

Tom Acker, Ex-Redleg Likely Hoe-Bowl Pick

Two former major league pitchers—Al Corwin and Tom Acker—will be on the firing line when the Kingston Braves launch the New York-New Jersey Baseball League season against the Hoe-Bowls, Friday night at Riverview Field in Poughkeepsie.

General Manager Fred Davi of the Braves has announced the signing of Corwin, a former New York Giant and Minneapolis flinger who was a member of the Poughkeepsie squad last year.

Acker, former Cincinnati Reds relief star, pitched for the Hoe-Bowls in 1961 and was the central figure in a protest between the Braves and Poughkeepsie team.

Corwin will anchor the Braves pitching staff along with southpaw Larry DeVita and relief flinger Fred Vogel.

But all three will be hard pressed to surpass the efforts of the missing Bob Maines, the league's finest pitcher for the past four years. Maines is currently doing a six-months Army hitch and is lost for most of the season.

Manager John Pullie of the Braves has not announced a starting lineup, but it is expected that most of last year's second place squad will return to the Kingston fold.

Kingston's best thumper last year was Hal Lewis, who led the team with a .419 average in 12 games. Jim Fahey, Porky Vierra, the former Quinnipia College star, Larry De Vita, Earl Webb, Wally Widholme, Johnny Giampolo, Fred Vogel, Jim Fahey and others round out the team.

A newcomer to the Kingston pitching corps is Ed Horan, formerly of the West Haverstraw nine and one of the ablest flingers in the league for the past few years.

The game with Poughkeepsie is the first of four road sets for the Braves before they take on Poughkeepsie in the local opener on Saturday, June 10, at Dietz Stadium.

Have Veteran Array

The legendary Billy Ostrom, filed manager of the Hoe-Bowl team, will have three newcomers in the lineup. They are Jack Dexter of Beacon and Howie Mann and Don Van Wagner of Rhinebeck.

Dexter formerly played with the Beacon Braves in the NY-NJ but is forbidden to do so now because he is a member of the Beacon Recreation commission. The fleet outfielder batted .349 to pace the Beacon club in 1960.

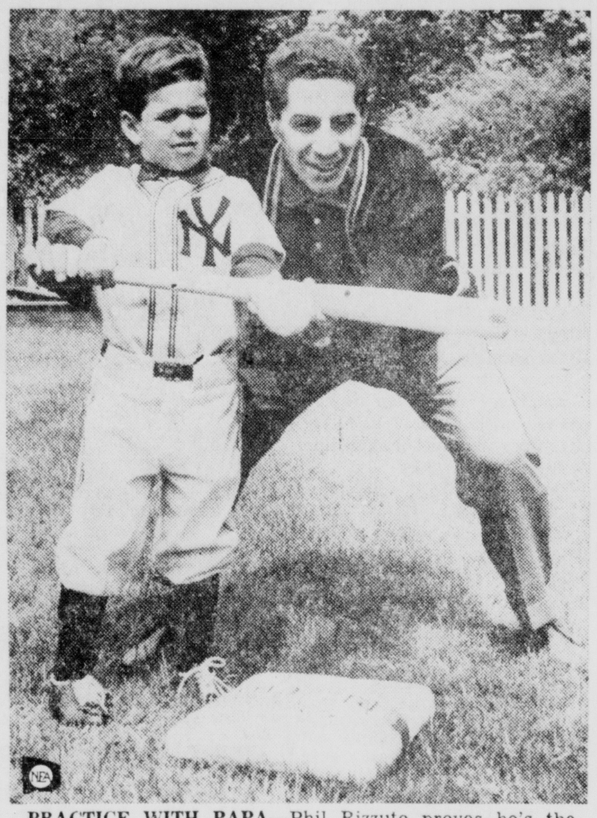

Holdovers include Roger Callahan, Jimmy Hubble, Dave Centi, another ex-major leaguer; Cart Bates, Bob McKenna, Joe Gale, Bill Hauver, Butch Darrow and John Plambeck.

Two others from last year's squad, Joe Tuttle Jr. and Bob Wilson are also exepcted to be available to the Hoe-Bowls. Lost to the team are Fran Soychak (.333), Deke Johnson (.324) and Jim Gordon.

Johnson and Gordon have joined the new all-Negro entry in the league — the Millbrook Monarchs.

All-Star Meeting

The Ferraro three-man All Star summer league starts Thursday at 8:30 p. m. An important meeting of all interested bowlers will be held at 7:30 p. m. preceding the matches at the Ferraro Bowlerama.

PRACTICE WITH PAPA—Phil Rizzuto proves he's the same as other fathers by taking his son, Phil, Jr., to the bag for bunting practice. The former New York Yankee shortstop and his five-year-old offspring get into the spring swing at their Hillside, N. J., home.

In UCAL Tussle

Rondout Valley Tops Onteora Central, 8-4

Scoring five runs in the fourth inning, Rondout Valley defeated Onteora Central, 8-4, in a UCAL game yesterday at the Marbletown school diamond in Stone Ridge.

Freshman Gordie Bell hurled his second straight league success. He limited the visitors to three safeties in six frames and then turned over the chores to Jimmy Brush, who mopped up.

Jay Gordon started for the Indians but relief hurler Len Muhlich was tagged with the setback. He came to the hill in the fourth and pitched the rest of the way.

Bell, Clark Crespi and Green doubled for the winners while Dick Bartsch rapped out a pair of singles for Onteora.

International Loop Race Tight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A turn of the head or a blink of the eye might be dangerous when looking at the International League standings.

Though the season is less than 2 months old, only five games separate the first seven teams today, and there are three and a half between league-leader Columbus and sixth-place Buffalo.

Both third-place Rochester and fourth-place Richmond took a half stride closer to the top Tuesday night. Rochester rapped the second-place Charleston Marlins 32 and the Virginians stopped Buffalo 2-1. Columbus and Toronto were not scheduled.

Rochester, only a game out of first, scored the clincher in the last of the ninth on Fred Valentine's bases-loaded single after Bobby Johnson's two-run homer tied the score. Reliever Art Kay was the winner and Al Deitz lost. Charleston trails by a half game.

An unearned run in the seventh inning broke a 1-1 tie for Richmond and left the Virginians 2½ games out of first. Felix Torres' homer tied the score for Buffalo in the sixth as Ted Wieand successfully scattered eight hits for the victory. Dick Ricketts lost his first in four decisions.

Syracuse surprised the Jerseys with a display of power as Frank Leja hit a solo homer and Joe Altobelli and Woody Smith each clouted one with a man aboard. Willie Miranda's two-run double got the other runs and left Jersey City three games out of first. The Chiefs trail by 8½. Bert Cueto was the winner and Zack Monroe lost.

Sears Files Suit Against Knicks

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Veteran pro basketball star Kenny Sears filed a suit Tuesday that could lead to the first court test of the option clause used in many professional sports contracts.

In the suit, filed against his old team, the New York Knickerbockers, Sears charged that the National Basketball Association and its teams "agreed not to compete for the service of players, agreed to regulate and limit salaries, and agreed to blacklist players who refused to play for the teams by which they had been selected (drafted)."

Sears, 28, a 6-foot-9 sharpshooter and rebounder, jumped the Knicks earlier this year and signed with the San Francisco Saints of the new American Basketball League.

The Knicks sued to keep Sears. His counter-suit in U.S. District Court here charged the Knickerbockers with monopoly and violation of antitrust acts. He asked $90,000 treble damages from the Graham-Paige Corp., of Michigan, owners of the New York NBA team.

The Sears suit drew the legal battle lines between the established NBA and the fledgling ABL, scheduled to begin play next season.

In his suit, Sears claimed he had not been free to negotiate with potential employers the past four years and that this had cost him $30,000. Under provisions of the Sherman and Clayton antitrust acts, Sears is seeking treble damages.

Wappingers Scores, 5-1, Over SHS

Sawyers Knocked From a Chance For DCSL Title

Wappingers Falls knocked Saugerties from a possible DCSL Baseball title and took a giant step towards the championship with a 5-1 victory at the SHS diamond yesterday. Masterful hurling on the part of Gary Brown pinned a tough loss on John Nolan, despite the fact he allowed only one hit in five innings.

The winners, who are unbeaten in league play, scored twice off Nolan in the first frame without benefit of a base hit. After Brown had walked and stolen second, the Saugerties ace hurler recorded a pair of strikeouts.

Then Rich Ferland hit a liner to second and the ball was muffed, permitting Brown to score. At this stage Nolan lost his control, walking the next three batters to force home another run.

The Sawyers cut the lead in half in the fourth when Bill Eckhoff reached first on a miscue and went around on an infield out, wild pitch and passed ball.

Some poor fielding plus wildness put Nolan in another jam in the fifth. With one out, Joe Bushee singled and with two outs, Tom Smith and Ed O'Brien were walked. They tallied on a wild pitch and passed ball.

Keith Mills went the final two innings for the Sawyers and he surrendered a run in the seventh on a misjudged double by Smith, an infield out and a sacrifice fly.

Saugerties wasn't able to do much with Brown. He had near perfect control, walking but one and the curve ball ace fanned 13. He's far and away the top chucker in the circuit.

Nolan walked eight in his five inning stint. He also struck out 13 and Mills added four strikeouts during his two frames.

Saugerties has a 10-5 mark to date and will play Arlington on Friday and Kingston on Monday to finish the season.

Jim Gentile a Star in Japan? Barely Missed Being a Reality

By HARRY GRAYSON
Newspaper Enterprise
Sports Editor

NEW YORK (NEA) — Jim Gentile of the Baltimore Orioles has bombed himself into being baseball's newest big name.

Gentile leads the major leagues in home runs and runs-batted-in. Gentile is a natural headline grabber. He put a bat in baseball's Hall-of-Fame by smacking successive grand slam home runs in Minneapolis-St. Paul, batting in nine runs in a game. Had the ball not struck a light pole, he would have joined Ted Williams and Mickey Mantle as the only hitter who ever swatted a ball over the right field rooof in Detroit.

"There isn't any reason why Gentile should not keep going," says Manager Paul Richards, richly qualified as an authority. "Jim is not yet 27. He has the swing, size, defensive skill at first base and the urge."

The most extraordinary thing about the Gentile story is that a little more than a year ago he said he was ready to quit organized baseball for play in Japan.

Was Frustrated

"That's right," admits Gentile, big and handsome—6-4, 215—Irish-Italian out of San Francisco. "I was thoroughly frustrated after eight years in the Dodgers' chain gang.

"I was just plain horrible in training with the Baltimore club a year ago, had every reason to believe that Mr. Richards would start Bob Boyd, then still with the club, at first base.

Glenn Mickens, once with the Dodgers, and Joe Stanka, another pitcher who jumped the White Sox organization, were doing well in baseball in Japan. I felt that if I couldn't do any better in my own country, I might as well hop a plane. I would at least get a chance to play in the fastest company around."

Gentile calls the Birds' head man Mr. Richards with the reverence accorded a savior.

A Fresh Slant

"Mr. Richards gave me a fresh slant on baseball life at a luncheon the day before last season opened in Baltimore," he recalls. "Mr. Richards announced the starting lineup and it was a tremendous shot in the arm when he called out my name. Here and at last, I felt, was a manager who would stick with me, give me an opportunity."

Given a $30,000 bonus by the then Brooklyn Dodgers as the San Francisco Bay area's 18-year-old prep player of the year 1952, Gentile eight years ago was called the best young prospect among 350 at the Dodgers' camp.

"I hit a lot of home runs and drove in many a run in the minors, yet had no more than 36 times at bat with the parent club," he recollects. "I earned the reputation of being temperamental and sulky, but looking back this was only the result of frustration. Gil Hodges was with the Dodgers ahead of me, and I kept asking myself, 'Just what does a guy have to do?' I woke up when waved out of the National League as the Dodgers' options ran out. Then I had the year in St. Paul which prompted Baltimore to buy my contract."

The major leagues can come close to listing their individual bucks-office attractions on the fingers.

Jim Gentile, settled at last, is the newest welcome addition.

Danbury State Beats New Paltz Club, 6-4

Danbury State scored in five different innings and stopped the New Paltz Hawks, 6-4, yesterday at the losers' diamond. A four run rally by the home side in the eighth frame fell short.

Sam Mandia went the distance for the losers. He allowed ten hits with Sid Poludinski rapping a homer and Repp and Hunt also stroking extra base hits. Mandia tripled and singled for the losers.

The Hawks are now 1-6 to date and will close their abbreviated season on Saturday at Oneonta State.

Frank Carbo Trial In Jury's Hands

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The prosecutor in the conspiracy-extortion trial of Frank Carbo and four other men looked at the defendants and charged:

"They were not interested in the sport of boxing, but only in power and money."

Then, turning to the federal court jury of 10 women and 2 men, Prosecutor Alvin H. Goldstein continued summing up his case Tuesday.

"You have been introduced to a sort of underworld," he said. "This is a world of perfidy, treachery; men who demand money they haven't earned and men who laugh when told someone is afraid of them."

The trial of Carbo and his co-defendants is now in its 13th week. The other defendants are Frank (Blinky) Palermo, Joe Sica, Louis T. Dragna and Truman Gibson Jr.

The five are accused of attempting to take over the contract and purses of ex-world welterweight champion Don Jordan.

Goldstein described Gibson, head of the former International Boxing Club of New York and Chicago, as having economic power of life and death over fight clubs throughout the United States.

Judge Ernest A. Tolin instructed the jurors to bring overnight bags to future sessions, indicating they may be locked up at some point in the final arguments by the eight attorneys involved.

Reds Stop Dodgers' Win Streak

Rookie Ken Hunt and reliever Bill Henry of the Cincinnati Reds combined for a five-hit, 2-0 victory over Los Angeles Tuesday night that ended the second place Dodgers' winning streak at five games. First place San Francisco retained a .013 percentage point edge despite a 12-4 walloping by St. Louis.

Milwaukee beat third place Pittsburgh 1-0 behind the four-hit pitching of Lew Burdette, and Philadelphia defeated the Chicago Cubs 2-1 in 10 innings.

Hunt, 22, a 6-foot-4, 210-pounder who wasn't on the Reds' spring roster, has beaten the Giants, Pittsburgh and now the Dodgers in a 4-2 record and is 3-1 in the Reds' comeback. Henry, the old man of the staff at 35, has four saves in the same spurt.

The Dodgers, who had won eight in a row on the road, got all five hits off Hunt. The youngster struck out six, but also walked six, bringing on Henry in the eighth for a perfect, 1 1-3-inning mopup.

The Reds beat Los Angeles for the first time in five tries by bunching three of their seven hits for two runs in the sixth off Don Drysdale (3-3). Gus Bell's sacrifice fly and a single by Gordie Coleman brought them across after singles by Don Blasingame and Vada Pinson and a walk had loaded the bases.

Bill White was 4-for-5 and drove in five runs, two with a first-inning home run off loser Sam Jones (3-3), as the Cardinals banged 15 hits and ran up their biggest scoring total of the season. Don Taussig also hit a two-run homer in support of Ray Sadecki (3-3), who breezed in with a 12-hit job. Harvey Kuenn and Orlando Cepeda homered for San Francisco.

The Braves scored in the first inning on a triple by Frank Bolling and a single by Ed Mathews, then managed just two more hits off loser Bobby Shantz (1-1), making his first start in two seasons, and reliever Elroy Face.

A single by Charlie Smith and a two-out triple by Bob Malkmus broke it up for the Phils against Glen Hobbie (2-5).

Tigers Get 5-2 Win Over Twins

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Detroit Tigers regained a 4½-game lead in the American League race by trimming Minnesota 5-2 Tuesday night, tying the major league record with three consecutive home runs in the ninth inning. Second place Cleveland lost 9-0 to the Los Angeles Angels as Ken McBride ended the Indians' winning streak at six games with a three-hitter.

Baltimore beat the Chicago White Sox 3-1 and Washington defeated Kansas City 7-3 in the only other game scheduled in the AL.

Norm Cash, Steve Boros and Dick Brown combined for the home run burst by the Tigers off a pair of relievers, loser Ray Moore (3-2) and Paul Giel. Al Kaline also hit his first home run of the season, in the sixth inning, for the Tigers, who collected nine hits. Hank Aguirre (2-3) was the winner in relief.

The Twins had seven hits, one a fourth-inning single that gave Lennie Green a 20-game hitting streak, longest in the majors this year.

McBride (4-2), a 25-year-old right-hander who had only an 0-2 record to show for two brief trials with the White Sox, gave up two singles and a double, walked five and struck out five against the Indians. The Angels backed him with 11 hits, three of them homers—a pair of three-run shots by Ken Hunt and Earl Averill, and a solo by Leon Wagner in the first inning off loser Jim Perry.

Homers Beat Pierce

The Orioles also did it with home runs, one by Dick Williams in the first inning and a two-run homer by Jerry Adair in the second. Southpaw Billy Pierce (1-3) was the loser, although striking out 12 in six innings. Billy Hoeft (1-1) won it with three innings of three-hit, shutout relief by Hoyt Wilhelm, who lowered his earned run average to 1.32 for 41 innings.

A two-run triple by Willie Tasby wrapped it up for the Senators as they scored four in the eighth at Kansas City and beat Ray Herbert (3-3). Ed Hobaugh (2-2) was the winner, with relief help from Marty Kutyna when the A's came back with two runs in their eighth. Pitcher Don Larsen, converted into an outfielder by A's manager Joe Cordon after hitting a pinch homer Monday, was 0-for-4 and struck out with two on in the rally.

Geneva Runs Wild Against Batavia

Cesar was king of the base paths and the Batavia pitcher went wild over him.

Cesar Tovaz came to first on a walk, saw second and stole it, and conquered third and home on a pair of wild pitches.

Thus Geneva managed to outscore Batavia 7-6 Tuesday night in a New York-Penn League contest.

Olean and Wellsville meanwhile were winning. Olean squeaked by Jamestown 3-1 and Wellsville defeated Erie 8-6.

The Geneva game was scheduled as the first of two, but after three-and-a-half hours, officials decided it was enough for one night and postponed the "nightcap."

There's a wolf at Jamestown's door and his name is Fred Wolff. He has pitched two victories for Olean this season, both at the expense of the Tigers. He had offensive help from Len Benedetto who cracked four hits in five trips for the winners.

Scotter James' grand slam homer in the second inning sparked Wellsville's triumph over Erie. He also belted a double for five runs batted in.

The Auburn at Elmira game was postponed because of cold and wet grounds.

Return of the Spitball Pitch Is Favored by AL President

By BOB HOBBING
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Joe Cronin, president of the American League, said today he favors reinstatement of the spitball as a legal pitch in baseball.

"There's nothing dangerous or bad about the spitter," Cronin said. "I had to bat against both and I'll tell you a good knuckleball is much harder to hit than a spitball."

Cronin's comments came after Chicago Manager Al Lopez complained to the league office about alleged use of the spitter by Ryne Duren, the ex-Yankee relief pitcher recently traded to Los Angeles. The White Sox asked Cronin: "What are you going to do about the spitball?"

Although the pitch was outlawed in 1920 because it was ruled too difficult to control, a number of major league pitchers still use moist deliveries with water mopped from the brow, neck, sweat-soaked uniforms or clammy hands.

Lew Burdette, ace right-hander of the Milwaukee Braves, frequiently has been accused of throwing a spitter. Preacher Roe of the Dodgers, after his retirement a few years ago, admitted in a signed magazine article that he frequently threw the spitter during his National League career.

"The rules committee, of course, must decide the spitball question," said Cronin.

8 Are Inducted Into Grid Hall

NEW YORK (AP) —Eight former players—five of them All Americas—and two coaches took their places in the Football Hall of Fame today, the final survivors of several hundred nominations.

The ex-All Americas include back Glenn Davis of Army, tackle Bob Reynolds of Stanford, halfback Charley (Choo Choo) Justice of North Carolina, guard Weldon Humble of Rice and guard Bob Suffridge of Tennessee.

Don Faurot, director of athletics at Missouri and the late Charlie Caldwell, who coached at Princeton and Williams, were the coaches named.

Halfback George McAfee of Duke, fullback Claude Reeds of Oklahoma and back Pat Pazzetti of Lehigh, also were elected.

The selections were announced Tuesday by the Honors Court of the foundation after nominations and voting by the entire membership of the Hall of Fame.

Check Outboard Spark-plugs Your Keys To Boating Power

By WM. TAYLOR McKEOWN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

First and easiest items to examine in your boat's engine are the spark plugs.

You don't need to be a mechanic. You can check them afloat or ashore. Often these small hot-heads are the key to more power and better performance.

Now is a good time to look at them, whether you are fitting out for launching or tuning up a boat that is already in the water. Many careful boatmen replace all old plugs with new ones at the beginning of every season.

The spark of life for outboard and inboard craft, they should all be firing perfectly.

The engine manual will tell you how to remove the electrical lead and check to be sure the plug is getting a strong current. It points out how you can short out the plug with any insulated tool to see if by-passing the plug weakens engine operation. Easier still is simply to replace each old plug with a new one and see if the engine does not run more brightly and smoothly.

* * *

For a routine check, each spark plug is removed and examined, and carbon scraped away, ceramic insulator inspected and spark gap between electrodes reset to precisely the proper spacing.

Engine manuals give the plug type and spark gap setting. The novice can work to the thousandths of an inch required with the small spacing feeler gauge tool supplied with most engines.

Outboards, particularly, need regular spark plug check up for best results.

Because these two-cycle power plants get their lubrication from oil mixed with gas, the plug must burn up both at once. It is susceptible to fouling after a long season of use. Engine roughness or less of power at any time can indicate that plugs should be examined. Many a boatman has brought an ailing engine back to life by simply cleaning a plug.

A complete spare set of spark plugs belongs in the tool kit you always carry on board. They must always be the size and heat range, of course, that are specified for the engine.

* * *

Also in the kit you need a spark plug wrench. Many outboard motor companies supply it as a regular accessory. This fitted socket type is very necessary, since there is too much chance of breaking the ceramic part of the plug with an ordinary crescent or monkey wrench.

Preparing the boat for the water, trouble shooting a reluctant engine or simply tuning it up, you will naturally examine other possibilities beside the plugs.

Be sure the lower unit of outboards, strut, stuffing box and bearings of inboards and the propellers of both are in good condition. Waterproof grease should be checked and refilled if necessary, all lubrication points serviced, engine mounts examined for condition.

You will not always have a professional mechanic along, so learn how to do simple spark plug changes.

Offshore is no place to find that the engine is not quite willing to run.

SPARKING—Even amateurs can work to thousands of an inch with the feeler gauge for properly gapping spark plugs that is supplied with most outboard engines. Every boat owner should know how to remove and clean plugs.

Local Employes Receive Social Security Awards

The sixth annual honor awards ceremony for employes of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare in the New York and New Jersey areas was held Friday at Governors Island, New York.

Included among the 248 employes receiving special awards were four from the Kingston District Office of the Social Security Administration: Ida E. Davis, Elsie T. Reichard, Benedict T. Todaro and Patricia M. Zelie.

George J. Johnson, district manager, stated that the number receiving awards from the Kingston District Office exceeded those from any upstate district office.

The local office was first established in Kingston in July 1937 and is at present located in the Empire Market Building, corner of Albany Avenue and Broadway. The office services all of Ulster and Sullivan Counties and Johnson, the manager for the last 12 years, is exceptionally proud of the individuals receiving honors this year.

The group was addressed by Ivan A. Nestigen, under secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and Joseph B. O'Connor, regional director, who presented cash awards totalling $9395.

Gotham Professor To Address Local Unitarian Group

Dr. Hugh Van Rensselaer Wilson will address the Unitarian Fellowship of Ulster County Sunday 10:30 a. m. at the YWCA, 209 Clinton Avenue.

Dr. Wilson is a professor of philosophy at Brooklyn College, part of the City University of New York, where he has taught since 1935. For two years before that, he had been an associate professor of philosophy at Vassar College, Poughkeepsie. Among the courses which Professor Wilson teaches, are ethics, American philosophy and philosophy of religion.

Dr. Wilson's academic training was at Oberlin College, the Chicago Theological Seminary, the University of Chicago, where he received his doctorate in philosophy; and Harvard University where he was a post-doctoral research fellow. Before completing his graduate study, he served for three years as the minister of a community church in Chicago.

The topic of Dr. Wilson's talk Sunday will be "Religion Without Magic."

Eight New Destroyers

LONDON (AP)—West Germany's European allies today authorized her to build eight destroyers of up to 6,000 tons, heavy enough to mount missile launchers.

The new limit approved by the Council of the Western European Union was double the previous limit under the 1954 Brussels treaty.

Faces 20 Years

Convict Airline Hostess in Dope Smuggling Case

NEW YORK (AP)—A Parisian airline hostess has been convicted of smuggling a half-million dollars worth of heroin into this country in her clothing and faces up to 20 years in prison.

Simonne M. Christmann, 36, Air France hostess for 10 years, wept bitterly when a Brooklyn Federal Court jury returned its verdict Tuesday.

"I thought it was essence of perfume," she had gasped when customs inspectors told her the 4 1-3 pounds of white powder found on her person March 21 was heroin.

"I was trying to do Mr. Mueller a favor. For love," she said.

Judge Walter Bruchhausen fined June 16 for sentencing.

In testimony, Miss Christmann said she met a "Mr. Mueller" in New York last October and became infatuated. He told her he was in the flower business in California, she said.

The hostess said he followed her to Paris and implored her to bring an essence of perfume into this country for him. She resisted at first, she said, then gave in.

She had been scheduled for promotion soon to chief stewardess.

Lutheran Group Approves Merger

NEW YORK (AP)—The United Lutheran Church of America has approved a merger with three other Lutheran churches resulting in a 3,200,000-member Lutheran Church in America.

An announcement said ratification of the merger was completed when the Texas-Louisiana Synod voted approval Tuesday in Houston, Tex.

The Texas-Louisiana Synod was the 22nd to vote in favor of the merger. Approval by two-thirds of the synods making up the United Lutheran Church was needed for ratification.

United Lutheran will merge with the Augustana Lutheran Church, the American Evangelical Lutheran Church and the Finnish Evangelical Lutheran Church.

The latter three churches will vote on ratification of the merger at conventions this year. If they approve the merger will become effective in January 1963.

A McDonnell spokesman described the conference as one of a number of periodic meetings called to discuss the capsules.

Rocky Orders State Police To Act in Migratory Probe

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Republican Gov. Rockefeller has charged that Rep. Herbert Zelenko, D-N. Y., would not cooperate with state authorities in the investigation of a threat against a woman migrant worker.

The woman, a crew leader, was to appear at a congressional hearing.

The governor said both he and John A. Roche, deputy superintendent of State Police, contacted Zelenko Tuesday in an effort to get the name of the woman.

Zelenko said at the close of a two-day congressional probe of migratory labor practices Saturday that the woman crew leader failed to appear because of an alleged threat.

Seek Name of Woman

Zelenko repeatedly interrupted testimony at the House Labor subcommittee hearing to blame the state's Republican administration for allegedly poor migratory labor conditions.

Rockefeller's first request for the name of the woman was made by telegram yesterday from his New York City office. The governor told Zelenko that he had directed Superintendent Arthur Cornellius of the State Police to obtain the name from the congressman.

Later in the day, Rockefeller, in a statement issued through his office here, said John A. Roche, deputy superintendent of State Police, had called Zelenko in an effort to obtain in confidence the name of the potential witness, who had worked at Riverhead, L.I.

Report Not Dsclosed

The call was returned by Zelenko but Rockefeller's office did not disclose what was said.

Zelenko, a Manhattan congressman, made public in Washington a telegram he said he had sent to Rockefeller.

The wire said:

"Federal agencies and the committee are now investigating the matter of the threatened witness. It is felt that an additional investigation of this particular matter by any other body at this particular time might hinder rather than help.

"As soon as their work is completed, I will be happy to contact appropriate officials in your state government."

Zelenko followed up his refusal by calling on Rockefeller to "check for possible violations of state law covering conditions existent in Riverhead, L. I., and the incident in which 32 workers were sent by the New York State Employment Service to Virginia to do farm work and on arriving found no work and were left stranded."

In his statement, Rockefeller said:

Situation Serious

"I regret that Rep. Zelenko has seen fit not to cooperate with New York State authorities into looking into a situation as serious as the one he has charged occurred in New York State..."

Rockefeller said there should be cooperation among law enforcement agencies at all levels of government.

At the congressional hearing last week, witnesses alleged that migratory workers were being underpaid and suffering hardship conditions and beatings at the hands of a few unscrupulous employers or crew chiefs who recruited the migrants to work in New York and New Jersey.

"I call on Gov. Rockefeller to enforce these laws," Zelenko declared at one point. "He hasn't been doing it. I call on the governor to go into Riverhead and other areas to rectify this situation at once."

The governor's office said then the matter would be looked into immediately.

18 GIs Perish as Plane Goes Down After Takeoff

WALLS OF SHOPPING CENTER TAKE FORM — Construction is moving along on the Big Scot discount department store, Route 28, just west of the Thruway traffic interchange. It will dominate an 18-unit shopping center. The store will cover 60,000 square feet of space, and plans, as originally announced in March, call for its opening July 15. Construction of other units will follow. (Freeman photo)

Guardsmen Accompany New Ride

New Orleans Is Latest Target

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Eleven "freedom riders"—white and Negro—broke the racial barriers in a bus station lunchroom today. Then, under heavy military guard they left for New Orleans, La., in a continued assault on Southern segregation.

Others waited behind with announced plans to board another bus at 11 a.m. for the same destination.

Block Sealed Off

National Guardsmen with fixed bayonets, and state and city police, sealed off the block around the downtown Trailways bus station to prevent a recurrence of the bloody weekend race riots which followed arrival of some of the riders here Saturday.

And, to guard against demonstrations along the route, a convoy of approximately 75 Guardsmen and 100 highway patrolmen specially trained in mob control was ordered to take the bus to the Mississippi state line.

Similar precautions were under way in Mississippi.

Highway Patrol Alerted

Brig. Gen. W. P. Wilson, adjutant general in the adjoining state, flew to Meridian, near the state line, to await arrival of the bus. Gov. Ross Barnett already had alerted the Mississippi highway patrol and National Guardsmen to stand by.

Unless changed en route, the bus would go through Selma and Demopolis, Ala., and Meridian and Jackson, Miss.

Before boarding the bus, most of the Negro riders walked calmly to the bus station lunchcounter heretofore reserved for white passengers, and ordered breakfast. No attempt was made to refuse them.

The bus station manager, W. E. Evans, said no Negro had ever eaten there before.

Widespread Precautions

Guardsmen, mobilized under martial law since Sunday night when the racial violence erupted at a Negro church, took widespread precautions to prevent a new outbreak as the riders prepared to leave today.

The entire block in front of the bus station was cleared of traffic. Stockpiled tear gas and Guards-

Kingston Man Held After Tavern Death

A 55-year-old Kingston liquor salesman died this morning at Benedictine Hospital about seven hours after an altercation at the Bloomington Inn on Route 32, several miles south of Kingston.

Anthony L. Teece of 17 Stickles Avenue a salesman for the Colony Liquor Distributors Inc., Albany, died at 8:07 a. m. apparently as a result of a fractured skull.

Charge of Manslaughter

A charge of manslaughter second degree was lodged against John George Schneider, 33, of 40 Liberty Street, who recently moved to the area from Michigan. He is employed in the area as an automobile repair man.

An autopsy was ordered this morning by Coroner Francis J. McCardle of Kingston. The results were not available at press time.

The altercation apparently began inside the tavern owned by Lawrence Macchione, shortly after midnight.

May Have Hit Rock

The two men then went outside to a parking area in front of the inn covered with large size gravel, some pieces about four or five inches in diameter.

Investigator Charles Teelon, BCI, of the Kingston State Police, said Teece's assailant struck him, causing him to fall and that Teece's head "may have struck a rock."

Admission Reported

Teelon and other state police questioned Schneider at the Lake Katrine barracks this morning. He reportedly signed a statement admitting the altercation and fight.

Teece is survived by his widow and three children Josephine, Anthony and Joanne, all at home.

Teelon said there were several witnesses to the quarrel inside the inn.

Teece was rushed to the Benedictine Hospital about 1:30 a. m. in critical condition. He was reported to be too ill to transfer to the Albany Medical Center.

Awaits Jury Action

Schneider was arraigned before Justice of the Peace Arthur Reilly of the Town of Ulster, waived examination and was committed to the Ulster County jail to await action of the grand jury.

Working with Teelon was Investigator Edward Shannon, BCI, of the local barracks.

June 14 Vote Set On $240,000 RVC School Addition

The Board of Education of the Rondout Valley Central School has designated Wednesday, June 14, between the hours of 2 and 9 p. m. (E.D.T.) as the time for balloting on the proposition to build an addition to the Marbletown Elementary School. The balloting will be held in the auditorium of the Junior-Senior High School.

The estimated cost for the project is $240,000 of which $118,965.52 or 49.5648 per cent is an estimated building quota to be paid by the State of New York.

The proposal calls for the construction of eight additional classrooms, a teachers room,

Give City Urban Renewal Project Plans to Agency

Formal presentation of the city's General Neighborhood Renewal Plan, which includes what is expected to be Project No. 1 in the Sixth Ward, was due to be made in New York today.

Mayor Edwin F. Radel said he with members of Raymond & May Associates, local planning consultants, were to present plans in multiple copies for the record to the Federal Urban Renewal Agency, of the Housing and Home Finance Office, and other copies were to be left with James Gaynor, state housing commissioner at the state agency office.

Presentation of the plan earlier than was originally expected, was requested so the city can take advantage of some $500,000 in facility credit which may be used to defray part of its one-sixth share of cost. The credit could be allowed through building of the Mary's Avenue school, which is in the general project area.

The city is permitted to cover its share of cost through contribution of water, street, sewer, school and other facilities. The federal government pays two-thirds of cost and the city and state each share a sixth.

The Mary's Avenue school project is due to start next month.

The plan, as presented today, under a federal government stipulation, designates the entire urban renewal area. Planners have indicated that the first of three proposed project sub-divisions is to be in a Sixth Ward area west of Broadway, for which full final plans are due to be ready within a year.

Lions Told Israel Facts; Name Slate

Stating that Arab countries would be compensated for development of projects if they cooperate with the State of Israel and eliminate bitterness to relieve tension among Middle East states population, Consulate General of Israel, Michael Pragai, addressed the Kingston Lions Club Tuesday.

Dr. Stephen T. McGrath was elected president to succeed Richard M. Kalish, outgoing president. Other officers were elected for 1961-62 at the session at Governor Clinton Hotel.

The speaker related the early days of the Free State of Israel, told of development of the country in the last 13 years, and said Israel hopes to see the day when Arab states will cooperate in the field of irrigation, combating the locusts and developing desert areas.

Israel Will Stay

Consul Pragai's topic was "Israel and the Middle East." He was introduced by Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom of Temple Emanuel. The meeting was presided over by Richard M. Kalish, president.

Consul Pragai, who in the summer of 1959 was appointed to his present post of Consul of Israel in New York, said the State of Israel is there to stay and the population hopes to overcome the bitterness and lack of cooperation on the part of Arab countries, or some of them.

The speaker said that Arab countries make it difficult in the development on a peaceful basis.

"We would compensate the Arab states for land and real estate which is assessed by the international body under United Nations, and we are willing to pay compensation, but it must be paid for practical purposes," the speaker said.

Could Build Project

The Consular said that Arab states and Israel should tackle the existing problems together and he noted that cooperation on the part of Arab countries is lacking. He stated that if the Middle East countries would be peaceful and cooperate, a huge water system could be built to serve them all.

The speaker said that some 160,000 Arabs have come into Israel under the program of reuniting families, and with 1,250,000 Jewish immigrants the population is now more than 2,200,000

The speaker said that with the exception fo 160,000 Arabs who have been taken into the new State of Israel more than 600,000 others felt they should settle in Arab countries. He emphasized that one reason for setting of the State of Israel was in order that Jewish people would have the

Asia Trip Most Challenging:LBJ

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Lyndon B. Johnson returned today from a 29,000-mile diplomatic mission to Asia which he described as "the most challenging trip of my life."

President Kennedy and a large number of other government officials welcomed the vice president on the White House lawn as he arrived by helicopter to report to the President.

Detailed Report Later

Kennedy described the vice president's tour as an American effort to indicate this country's deep concern for the cause of freedom.

Johnson brought with him recommendations for new military techniques and bold economic measures to prevent a creeping Communist take-over of the area. He told newsmen he was ready to give the President an interim report, but a detailed formal report will be made later.

A public report of his trip was scheduled at a news conference to be broadcast and televised at 2:30 p.m.

Stopping off at Bermuda Tuesday, the tall Texan gave a news conference his impressions on his mission to South Viet Nam, the Philippines, Formosa, Thailand, India and Pakistan. He also made an overnight stop in Athens, Greece.

Quite Serious Situation

Johnson said the situation in Southeast Asia is quite serious.

The struggle to preserve freedom there, he said, will be "long, costly and, in many instances, dangerous."

He said he had been reluctant to undertake the mission. He said he felt he was being sent into a world of pessimism and defeat where "peoples willingly were surrendering their freedom."

"I am happy to say that the experiences and observations of the last two weeks stripped away many of these doubts and my report to the President is going to be a good deal more optimistic than I ever dreamed it might."

Says Background Strong

Throughout Southern and Southeast Asia, Johnson said, he found the backbones of the people "a lot stronger, the strength of the countries a lot greater, the determination to remain free a lot more vibrant than I ever dreamed would be the case."

He added that he doesn't want to give the impression the situation in Southeast Asia isn't grave.

"The Communists seem determined to overwhelm the region through subversion, terrorism, intimidation and trumped up insurrections," he said.

U. S. Cool To Seoul Sales Try

Capital Denies Bid to Premier

SEOUL, South Korea (AP)—The leader of South Korea's successful military revolt, Lt. Gen. Chang Do-young, announced today he plans to leave for the United States soon to sell his regime to President Kennedy and the American people.

To Check Rusk Office

The U.S. Embassy, which had opposed the coup last week, said no invitation had been issued to Chang but it was taking the matter up with the State Department.

Initial reaction in Washington was cool.

Chang, who is head of the ruling military council, premier, defense minister and army chief of staff, said "reliable informants have told me President Kennedy wants to see and talk with me personally."

The 38-year-old general said he would "seek support for our efforts to achieve the revolutionary tasks and thus promote furthering of close ties between the two countries."

The junta has said the aim of its revolution is to weed out Communist infiltrators from North Korea, end oficial corruption and rejuvenate the economy.

Later Chang conferred with U.S. Charge d'Affaires Marshall

Titan 5,000-Miler on Target, Closer to Combat Readiness

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —The successful 5,000-mile test flight of a Titan missile has moved the giant ocean-spanning weapon a step closer to combat-readiness.

The 98-foot rocket, biggest in the U.S. arsenal, streaked to a South Atlantic target Tuesday night, covering the distance in 30 minutes at peak speed of more than 17,000 miles an hour.

Within a few weeks, Air Force troops are expected to launch a Titan from Vandenberg Air Force Base, Calif. If the test is successful, the Defense Department probably will announce the United States has a second operational intercontinental range ballistic missile.

The Atlas has been operational for 20 months and about two dozen of the missiles are on the alert on pads in California, Wyoming and Nebraska.

A total of 13 Atlas and 12 Titan squadrons, each averaging 10 missiles, is planned by 1965. The initial Titan squadron will be at Lowry Air Force Base, Colo.

Partial Pact Reached In 24-Day Work Tieup

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Contractors and the Operating Engineers Union announced today they had reached a settlement of their contract dispute that has shut down approximately $40 million worth of building projects in Eastern New York.

Before work can resume, however, a settlement also must be reached with the Albany and Troy locals of the Plumbers Union. Negotiations are to resume today.

The strike has been on for 24 days. It did not affect highway construction.

The Operating Engineers' settlement is expected to set a pattern for quick agreement with the other building-trades unions, which, besides the plumbers, include carpenters, sheet metal workers, and lathers.

Operating engineers man construction equipment, such as power shovels, bulldozers etc.

The Operating Engineers said they ratified the agreement Tuesday night after a bargaining session with representatives of the Eastern New York Contractors Association.

Leon Kromer, chief negotiator for the contractors, said the agreement was on a two-year contract that includes a 15-cent an-hour wage increase retroactive to May 1 and another 15 cents effective May 1 of next year.

The union previously had asked for an increase of 22½ cents an hour for each year of a two-year contract and the employers had offered 10 cents each year.

Under the old contract, which expired May 1, hourly pay for Operating Engineers ranged from $3.57 to $4.03.

Kromer also said the agreement called for a change in hiring practices, one of the other major issues in the strike. Employers, he said, now will be able to call the union hiring hall and ask for equipment operators by name. Previously, he said, the union decided which men would be sent to fill jobs.

Began May 1

Kromer's organization covers the area from Greene and Columbia counties north through Washington and Warren counties and west through Montgomery and Fulton counties. He said today's agreement also included the territory represented by the Champlain Valley Contractors Association, which extends from Washington and Warren counties north to the Canadian border.

Local 106 of the Operating Engineers covers both areas. It has 2,000 members.

The strike, which began May 1, has idled about 10,000 workers. The Eastern New York Contractors shut down all jobs in their area until a settlement was reached.

Mercier to Fight Court Ouster Move

Resignation of Amos Stokes as town superintendent of highways of the Town of Marbletown, one of two officials mentioned in an application to the Appellate Division seeking removal from office under allegations of misconduct in office, leaves only one application to be heard before the Appellate Court on June 12.

Vincent G. Connelly, attorney for Paul Mercier, Town of Esopus town superintendent, today said that application would be opposed by Mercier. Since the matter was first aired by Special Assistant Attorney General Bernard Tompkins during the Ulster County "kickback" probe, both Stokes and Mercier have maintained they are innocent of the charge.

Stokes, because of ill health and unable to meet financial costs of a defense to the charge, submitted his resignation Tuesday. Mercier, however, will oppose the application and defend his position, Connelly said.

District Attorney David W. Corwin was not available today for comment. Tuesday he issued a statement that after reviewing certain evidence produced before the special "kickback" grand jury, he was of the opinion the matter should be heard by the Appellate Division under a provision of the Public Officers Law which allows that court to order dismissal of a public official after proof of charges.

The procedure which probably will be followed in the Mercier case on the return of the application before the Appellate Division on June 12, will be appointment of a referee to hear testimony and try out the issue involved. After completion of the trial before the referee, a report will be made to the Appellate Court and that court will then make an official decision based on the evidence produced before the referee.

The application for removal is

Probe Underway Of Carnival Fire, Damage Is $700

Two concessions at the Continental Carnival on Albany Avenue Extension were burned to the ground early this morning in a fire of incendiary origin.

The funhouse, located next to the two concessions, was badly scorched by the blaze which poured high into the air.

Empty Gas Can Found

Kingston state police were called into the case when an empty gasoline can was found near the scene.

An alarm was sounded by Ulster Hose Company No. 5 about 1:15 a. m., with some 20 volunteers under Chief Harry Lowe responding with a pumper.

Damage to canvas and equipment was estimated at $700. The carnival, which opened Monday night, is located on the lot formerly Becker Trailer Sales. The carnival will continue in operation through the remainder of this week, folding its tents Saturday night.

Captain Nicholas Valenzano of Ulster Hose No. 5 said the concessions included a shooting gallery and one involving the throwing of balls. They were of simple wood and canvas construction.

Returning Men From Maneuvers

Four Are Critical In Wash. Crash

MC CHORD AIR FORCE BASE, Wash. (AP)—A big military transport returning servicemen from maneuvers met disaster five miles from takeoff today in a flaming pileup that killed 18 men and left four injured critically.

The C124 Globemaster fell in a wooded area minutes after it lifted from a McChord runway in predawn darkness, headed for Ft. Sill, Okla., with 15 Army men and its Air Force crew of seven.

Five Get Out

Five men got out somehow from the shattered, burning plane and were rushed to Madigan General Hospital at nearby Ft. Lewis. One died a few hours later.

Three Army men and one Air Force crewman remained at Madigan in critical condition.

"One of the first men at the scene heard a man calling for help," said Capt. Joseph Wiggins, McChord public information officer. "The survivor, in shock, was found sitting on a log near the wreckage."

The Globemaster, from Donaldson AFB, S.C., took off in foggy weather about 2:20 a.m.

$1.5 Million Craft

"There was a flash in the sky," said a sheriff's officer. "We could not tell whether it came from an explosion in the air or after the plane hit the ground."

The $1.5 million plane apparently came down sharply. Although it landed in a heavily wooded area it cut no swath and knocked down only a few trees.

Nearly everything burned. Even metal melted. Hours after the crash the wreckage still smouldered.

Copter Evacuates Injured

The injured were evacuated by a helicopter crew who brought their craft down in a narrow clearing between power lines and trees.

The C124 was returning men who had participated in recent Army-Air Force maneuvers, called Exercise Lava Plains, at

Series on Weather Modification in Freeman Tonight

A series on weather modification, a comparatively new science, which has been tried within recent years in the Hudson Valley, begins today in The Freeman. Today's installment may be found on Page 28. It includes reports on recent findings by such experts as Dr. Vincent J. Schaefer, State University College of Education, Albany, who was a co-discoverer of cloud seeding, and who reported recently that he is attempting to get for the Hudson Valley studies similar to those being conducted in the west through cooperation of Colorado State University.

State to Bar Panic Real Estate Sales

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — "Blockbusting," the promotion of panic sales by real estate brokers in neighborhoods where a Negro family has moved in, soon will be barred in New York State.

Mrs. Caroline K. Simon, New York secretary of state, made the announcement Tuesday before about 100 real-estate agents and builders at a hearing of the State Commission Against Discrimination (SCAD).

Mrs. Simon said the real-estate rule was being drafted by the State Department.

To Enforce Law

Meanwhile, SCAD announced at the hearing that it would "act vigorously" to enforce the state's new anti-bias housing law, which becomes effective Sept. 1.

SCAD said Tuesday's hearing was one of a series to acquaint the public with the new anti-bias law.

Under the law, which was passed by the 1961 Legislature, religious or racial discrimination is prohibited in the sale or rental of all commercial space and of multiple dwellings or homes in developments of 10 or more units. Exempted from coverage are three-family houses, where the owner occupies one apartment, and two family dwellings.

Under the rule being drafted by the State Department, Mrs. Simon said real estate brokers or salesmen would be barred from soliciting the sale, lease or listing for sale or lease residential property "on the ground loss of value due to the present or prospective entry into the neighborhood of a person of another race, religion or ethnic origin."

Few Practice Promotion

Only a small group of real estate operators practice "blockbusting," Mrs. Simon said.

At the hearing yesterday, the question was raised as to whether SCAD had "facts to prove that neighborhoods do not depreciate in value when Negroes move."

Henry Spitz, SCAD counsel, said studies of federal agencies and in New York City showed the presence of Negro families in established neighborhoods had no deleterious effect.

"Ghettoes and slumlords run down properties," Spitz said, "splitting up houses, making more apartments, squeezing people into rundown areas — those are what depreciate properties."

Science at Work In Health Today

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Hormones and hearts, a diagnostic test in burns, and dangers from human bites figure in the medical news:

Hormone Protection

A new synthetic male sex hormone apparently can reduce the amount of cholesterol and other fats circulating in the blood, a physician reports. Whether this actually reduces the risk of having a heart attack is not yet proven.

But it provides an interesting possible new approach toward preventing heart attacks, says Dr. Donald Berkowitz of Philadelphia. The synthetic hormone, oxmetholone, is only half as masculinizing as the natural male sex hormone. So, Dr. Berkowitz wondered whether it might protect men against blood fats and artery clogging much like the female sex hormone is believed to do for women. The hunch appears correct, he says, and maybe this or other hormones can point the way toward greater protection.

The 5-year-old girl was badly burned, with burns covering half her body. Doctors used a standard test—injecting a blue dye—to determine how much blood she had lost. But the test also told them something new—which areas of skin were so badly burned that they would not recover later, and so had to be covered with skin grafts. The blue color spread to body areas which had not lost all skin covering. The finding is expected to prove valuable in caring for burn victims, says Dr. Dicran Goulian Jr. of New York Hospital-Cornell Medical Center.

Man Bites Man

Man's bite can be more dangerous than a dog's.

For human bites are very likely to cause serious infections, particularly on the face, and particularly if neglected, report two University of Illinois Medical School physicians. Adolescents and young adults are likely to use their teeth when involved in brawls. Such bites need quick attention to prevent or control infection, and plastic repair if necessary, said Drs. John W. Curtin and Paul W. Greeley.

Lt. Gov. Assails Demo Minority

AMSTERDAM, N.Y. (AP)—Republican Lt. Gov. Malcolm Wilson has charged the Democratic minority in the Legislature with not being able to offer a single constructive idea to help solve the problems of government.

Wilson, who has been pounding away at Democrats in a five-day political tour of Upstate counties, said the Democratic minority in the Legislature had confined itself to "carping criticism and sideline heckling" of programs developed by Gov. Rockefeller and Republican legislators.

The lieutenant governor told the annual dinner of the Montgomery County Republican Committee as he completed his tour Tuesday night that "a responsible minority does not resort to fakery."

He said Democrats in the Legislature were demanding "staggering increases in state spending and...drastic reductions in state taxes."

Senator Is Miffed By Attitude of Udall on Compact

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Clifford P. Case, R-N.J., is reportedly miffed over what he considers a chink in the bipartisan approach to the proposed Delaware River compact.

The object of his displeasure is Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall who objects on constitutional grounds to a compact between the government, New Jersey, New York, Pennsylvania and Delaware for river development.

Case feels that Udall, in an attempt to resolve differences over the proposed compact, is willing to do business only with Democrats and leave Republicans standing on the sidelines for an announcement [illegible] reached.

A meeting had been scheduled for Tuesday between Udall and some New Jersey and Pennsylvania members of congress but Case was not invited.

The meeting was postponed because Sen. Joseph S. Clark, D-Pa., in whose office it was to be held, had a conflict [illegible] which had come up in the senate.

Clark is sponsoring legislation which would give federal approval to the compact.

A Clark aide said lawmakers invited to the meeting were Clark, Reps. Francis E. Walter, D-Pa., and Frank Thompson Jr., D-N.J., and Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J.

One Republican source who declined to be quoted by name said the scheduling of a meeting for Democrats only was a "typical Udall" gesture which could lose support for the compact among some of its supporters.

CIVIL WAR ALBUM

Civil War's First Major Fatality

COL. ELMER E. ELLSWORTH, born in Mechanicsville, N.Y., had a common school education but, because he had no political connections and his family was too poor to send him to a good preparatory school, he was unable to attain his boyhood dream of entering West Point. So, after spending some time as a dry goods clerk, he went to Chicago. There he assumed command of a voluntary group of military cadets who were about to disband. He quickly shaped them up and taught them the flamboyant Zouavac drill. So impressive was the group that they were sent east for exhibitions. After that, he caught the eye of Abraham Lincoln, who was then a presidential candidate (July, 1860). Ellsworth became a student in Lincoln's law office and later served as a member of the President's escort from Springfield to Washington, D.C., where Lincoln went in February, 1861, to assume the presidency. Ellsworth was considered the most pleasant and watchful member of the group. Before the war broke out, Ellsworth suggested that a militia bureau be set up and that he be made its chief. However, with the coming of the war, Ellsworth volunteered his services, trained members of New York City's fire department in Zouavac drill and led them to Washington to await action. On May 24, 1861, when the North occupied Alexandria, Va., Ellsworth was killed at the age of 24 by a Confederate sympathizer.

COL. ELLSWORTH, since he was commander of the Fire Zouaves of New York, was the first major fatality of the war. When he and his men entered Alexandria, Col. Ellsworth saw a Confederate flag flying on top of the Marshall House, a hotel and tavern. He resolved to take it down. He did so but, as he was coming back down the stairs, he was fatally wounded by a single round of buckshot fired by the house's proprietor, James W. Jackson, a Confederate sympathizer. Union Pvt. Francis Brownell tried to push the gun aside but when that failed, he promptly killed Jackson. It once was rumored that Ellsworth was to be groomed for a high position in the War Department. Ellsworth's body lay in state in the White House and then was taken by a special train to New York and Albany and, finally, to Mechanicsville, his birthplace, where he was buried.

Plan Unveiled For Ogdensburg Jobs and Tourism

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—A master plan aimed at developing industry, business and tourism in Ogdensburg will be presented to the Ogdensburg Bridge and Port Authority next month.

The proposed plan was unveiled Tuesday in what G. Judson Newell, chairman of the authority, termed "a sneak preview."

The plan calls for development of an industrial area, harbor facilities, shopping, motel, recreation and other tourist facilities around a plaza at the Ogdensburg end of the new St. Lawrence bridge, and development of Ogdensburg Airport.

Members of the Ogdensburg Bridge and Port Authority and several state officials were presented the plan Tuesday by the consultants hired to draft it, the firms of Sargent, Webster, Crenshaw and Folley, with several offices in New York State, and Fay, Spofford and Thorndike of Boston.

Newell said the entire plan could be carried out if there were sufficient private capital available. He said the authority would have to determine the financial limitations.

Today 100th Year Since Death

Col. Ellsworth First Union Soldier to Give His Life

By JOHN MULLIGAN

MECHANICVILLE, N.Y. (AP)—The first Union hero of the Civil War died 100 years ago today after hauling down a taunting, defiant Confederate flag from a hotel roof within sight of the White House.

Col. Elmer E. Ellsworth, described by his friend President Lincoln as "the greatest little man" he ever knew, is buried on a quiet hill above this Hudson River city of his boyhood.

Ellsworth was no ordinary soldier picked by an unknowing fate to be among the first of a half-million slain. The 24-year-old, 5 foot, 6-inch officer was called "the most talked-of man in the country."

Ellsworth was shot by James W. Jackson, proprietor of the Marshall House and a southern sympathizer, as Ellsworth and his men descended from the roof of the Alexandria, Va., hotel with the 24-foot long secessionist flag.

Mourned by Leaders

Those who mourned the handsome officer included President Lincoln, who once employed him as a law clerk, and the South's Gen. Robert E. Lee and President Jefferson Davis.

He was mourned also in a score of cities where the elite Zouave Cadets, a precision drill unit he organized, had performed.

Lee said Ellsworth was a born military leader who one day might have led the Union Army a post Lee himself had been offered.

Dreamed of West Point

At that age, Ellsworth organized his first drill team here. His dreams of attending the West Point Military Academy, thwarted by inadequate formal education and a none too robust frame, had faded by time he was 19 and working in Chicago. But his enthusiasm flared anew when he met a former French army surgeon who had served with the Algerian Zouaves in the Crimean War.

Ellsworth organized his own cadets, adopting the Moorish baggy pants, short jackets and precision drills of the Zouaves. He added an idealistic touch, "the golden resolutions," a code of conduct and temperance which, in an age of widespread youthful drunkenness, gained public admiration.

The day after his inauguration, Lincoln moved to get Ellsworth an Army commission. But a month later, when Fort Sumter was shelled, the young officer resigned his commission to organize New York City firemen into one of the first volunteer units, the 11th New York Infantry, the red-shirted "Fire Zouaves."

The Fire Zouaves, ordered to defend vulnerable Washington, moved across the Potomac to occupy Alexandria three days after Virginia seceded in 1861.

A few hours later Ellsworth lay dead of shotgun wounds, his body partially covered with the blood-stained rebel flag.

Avenger Honored

Cpl. Francis Brownell of Troy, who shot down his commander's slayer on the spot, became known as "Ellsworth's avenger." He was the first soldier to win the Medal of Honor.

"Remember Ellsworth" became a call to unity in the North and a battle cry for many units which bore his or the Zouave namves.

Oops, Wrong Wedding

ROCK FORD, Colo. (AP)—An out-of-town couple drove here for the wedding of a relative. Cars were parked around the First Christian Church. The couple went inside, deposited their gift in the reception room. The bride walked down the aisle. "That's not her," the wife exclaimed. The couple departed hurriedly, finally found the wedding they planned to attend in progress at the First Methodist Church.

A COMMITMENT RESTATED

When Vice President Johnson visited President Chiang Kai-shek on Formosa he brought him this message of encouragement: "America stands firmly by her Chinese allies. We shall continue to do so until freedom is secure." This assertion must be considered in the light of the present realistic understanding between Chiang and the United States government, and not as a warrant for mainland invasion.

All Chiang's interest inclines him, obviously, toward being our ally. But for our support of him and the dread of starting a general war, the Communist Chinese would long since have gobbled up Formosa. This is what Chiang gets from us.

What do we get from him? Once enthusiastic Americans envisioned his reconquest of the Chinese mainland, whence he fled when his control of China went to pieces. For a time he seemed to expect us to aid him in such an adventure, and we had to warn him against the undertaking. Then in 1953 we flamboyantly proclaimed that Chiang had at last been "unleashed." If this meant anything at all, it meant that he was free to start an invasion whenever he felt ready to do so. The realities made that impossible, and if we had helped him such an assault might have begun a great war.

Now the United States and Chiang understand each other. Formosa has a nuisance value to us. It keeps Red China from concentrating on invasion elsewhere, and Formosa's membership in the United Nations is a useful forum for anti-Communists in Asia. To the extent that Formosa helps to stem the Red waves in eastern Asia, the island republic's independence is worth preserving. But this does not mean, as is now clearly understood by all concerned, that the United States would support Nationalist China in any attempt to reconquer mainland China.

RED RAID ON MARKETS

As has been observed before, democracy sometimes seems bent on its own destruction. Now evidence mounts that capitalism is being lured down the same disastrous road. For example: Despite Allied efforts to restrict strategic exports behind the Iron Curtain the West is selling a lot of pipeline tubing to Russia.

The Russians boast that within two years oil piped from the Urals into Central Europe will drown Western competition for the petroleum business in both the Common Market and Free Trade communities. With a similar disregard for the threat this poses to NATO economy, shipyards in Italy and Japan are selling the Reds tankers, which help Russia market oil from its Black Sea ports.

The potential economic and political influence of all this is tremendous. The Soviet Union's rapidly rising oil sales help Miscow buy essential goods to develop its economy. Moreover, by trading oil to countries like Italy, Morocco, the United Arab Republic and others, the Reds are softening up opposition to Communism.

In marketing her oil and gas reserves, Russia needs neither to make a profit nor pay royalties. A raid on free world markets is thus inevitable—but nations of the free world needn't let their dollar greed impel them to help the raid along.

The matrimonial outcome of some romances indicates that cupid can be stupid.

GOOD TIP FOR MANY

Former President Eisenhower, who hasn't had to drive his own car for many years, says he's a little afraid he might be inclined to daydream when he gets behind the wheel.

But if he just grabs the wheel with both hands and keeps looking ahead he probably won't have any trouble.

And he'll be several safe leaps ahead of those all-too-numerous drivers who drive with a finger or wrist, drape an arm out of the window and chatter constantly while looking everywhere but at the road.

'These Days'

By GEORGE SOKOLSKY

AMERICAN CAPITALISM

Looking through a General Motors report, I find that in 1960, this company had 595,151 employes and 830,873 shareholders. The capitalist system, as it has developed in the United States, is undoubtedly best described by these figures. The widespread ownership of American industry is characterized by widespread and diffuse public participation in ownership. Similarly, the size of the personnel, over half a million in this one company, represents an annual payroll of $3,487,000,000 out of a total sales of $12,735,000,000. The dividends on common and preferred stock amounted to $577,000,000 and $381,000,000 of the net income was retained for use in the business.

In a word, American capitalism, as experienced by General Motors, our largest producing firm, shows a widespread distribution of ownership, actually larger than the number of employes; it shows that the workers get about 25 per cent of the total gross income; that wages are about six times as large as dividends. Ownership therefore is not of an exploitive but rather of a co-operative character.

As one looks at the structural organization of this business, ownership is distant from management which is inevitable in an organization which has roughly 800,000 shareholders. That means that ownership tends to be functionally a banking process. The owners do not participate in any phase of the industry's activities except that once a year, at an annual meeting, a stockholder rises to ask a question and is answered. While in practice the stockholders are called owners, actually their relationship to the business has become more in the nature of banking; the stockholder providing capital to management for the conduct of the business and having an increasingly smaller voice in either policy or practice.

As a matter of experience, ownership generally is not concerned much with the details of the operations of a business provided that a profit is earned or the enterprise shows the prospect of growth. If the owner finds it profitable or convenient he moves out of one enterprise into another. The business is in the hands of management which nowadays comes out of the work force of the organization.

In many respects, American capitalism functions differently from European capitalism, the American enterprise providing a smaller return on an investment, leaving large amounts of earnings within the business for expansion, development, acquisition and research. All the presidents of General Motors, since its organization in 1908, have come out of the work force, except Pierre S. Du Pont who represented new ownership. He came in when the company was in danger of bankruptcy and the Du Ponts made a heavy investment to save the company. He served for three years and was succeeded by Alfred P. Sloan, Jr., who came out of the sales force of the Hyatt Roller Bearings Company, a subsidiary.

This has been characteristic of American industry. Very few sons have succeeded to the positions of their progenitors. In the automobile business, the Fords are exceptional; in the steel business such succession is equally rare. In most enterprises, it does not happen at all. In family enterprises, it is expected that members of the founding family will succeed each other but that is not so in large corporate enterprises. The rise of men to authority out of the ranks, gives to corporate organization incentives which were unexpected in the early development of this type of enterprise.

It is the very bigness of modern business which provides opportunity for men to rise, because what is bought and paid for is experience, not a family tree or a propitious marriage. Experience, knowledge, competence is sought wherever it may exist and is given wide range when it is found.

In fact, in recent years, it has become so difficult to find satisfactory managerial ability that a system of stock options — meaning, participation in ownership under specific conditions — has been developed to attract skillful management to an enterprise. Management seeks fringe benefits, as labor does, and usually gets such benefits as incentive pay. From the standpoint of a man's future, a fringe benefit is preferable to a highly taxed salary. By this means, management participates in ownership, but by no process does ownership usually participate in management which has become strictly professional and trained. The need for skilled management therefore is urgent and calls for increasingly high returns. The stock option is management's method of obtaining an estate providing return for their work.

Improve Child's Chances Of Normal, Healthy Life

By HAROLD T. HYMAN, M.D.
Written for
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

According to the president of the American Academy of Pediatrics, "accidents from the first year onward are the most serious threat to the lives of our children today. In children one to four years of age accidents take about 4,700 lives annually, accouting for nearly one-fourth of all deaths in this age group."

Add to this the damages inflicted on the unborn through preventable causes and you gain some insight into the magnitude of the physical and emotional burdens imposed on children and their parents through mishaps and, in some instances, carelessness or ignorance.

Here is a brief listing of some of the preventable causes for prenatal abnormalities and of the accidental causes for infantile disabilities and deaths:

Incompatibility of parental bloods (Rh factor). Detectable by premarital testing with much of damage preventable by expert treatment before and immediately after birth of the child.

Viral infection suffered by the mother especially during the first third of the pregnancy. Preventable by immunizations and/or by childhood exposure to the milder infections, especially German or liberty measles (rubella).

Tobacco or nicotine poisoning during pregnancy and lactation. Heavy cigarette smoking is responsible for the induction of premature births and for lessened birth weights, according to the director of biostatistics for Baltimore.

Exposure to powerful drugs, and especially those prone to produce hypersensitivities and side reactions, throughout pregnancy and during labor, especially penicillin, the sulfas, cortical steroids, glandular extracts and the administration of large doses of sedatives (barbiturates) and tranquilizers throughout childbirth.

Boric acid poisoning when a solution of the acid is erroneously used instead of water to make up formulas.

Paralysis of the sciatic nerve due to injections given into the infant's buttocks.

Salt poisoning due to the careless administration of as little as a tablespoonful of common table salt.

Damage to the brain caused by seemingly trivial injuries before the fontanels have closed and the skull case has hardened.

And of course burns due to overturing pots on the stove; poisonings due to the childhood tendency to put anything and everything in the mouth including kerosene stored in pop bottles, candy medication placed within the reach of outstretched fingers, gaily colored sleeping tablets or capsules, etc.

Don't get the idea that I favor a return to the overcoddling of the expectant mother and the newborn such as was practiced until the last quarter of a century. But "permissiveness" also has its dangers. And the price that has to be paid for preventable deformities and deaths is immeasurable both in coin of the realm and in terms of conscience reactions.

Washington News

BY PETER EDSON
Washington Correspondent
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

WASHINGTON — (NEA) —AFL-CIO President George Meany was opening witness for Senate Employment subcommittee Chairman Joseph S. Clark (D-Pa.) and his "Emergency Employment Acceleration Act" on the same day that U. S. Chamber of Commerce held a conference on "Employment and Unemployment—the Problem of the '60s."

What came out of the two meetings was so different that it is impossible to see how they could be talking about the same problem.

THE BASIC FACT is, of course, that 7 per cent of the U. S. labor force—or nearly five million workers — was unemployed in April. The problem is what caused it and what to do about it. And here is where the senator and the labor leader are poles apart from U. S. Chamber of Commerce economists.

Pointing out that the unemployment rate was only 1.9 per cent at the end of the Korean war in 1953, Meany declares that the increase is due to basic changes in the U. S. economy and in the growth pattern of the American population.

There will be a net increase of 1.3 million new workers a year entering the labor force in the 1960s—a 50 per cent increase over the 1950s.

Total employment in manufacturing is shrinking from the impact of automation and technogolical improvements under which goods can be produced with fewer and fewer workers, according to the Meany theory. This is also the general view of the Kennedy administration, which is seeking to correct it.

MEANY WENT ALL OUT for the Clark bill, which would appropriate $500 million for short-term grants for public works projects that could be started within 90 days. The grants would end when unemployment dropped below 4 per cent.

THERE WAS NOTHING even faintly resembling this coming out of the Chamber of Commerce conference, where "automation" was hardly mentioned at all and unemployment causes were said to be different.

Dr. Clarence D. Long of Johns Hopkins University told the business organization that only one-sixth of the unemployment since World War II has been traceable to recessions.

He admitted there has been a creeping upward of unemployment levels from one peacetime prosperity period to the next. But he said this might be an accident which could reverse itself in the next boom and bring an end to creeping unemployment.

From past statistics Long finds that unemployment has been on the lowside in periods of large increases in the labor force, so there is nothing to worry about there.

Unemployment in depressed areas, which is double the national average, Long brushes off as a "trifling contribution thus far" in the national picture, being responsible for only 7 per cent of total unemployment, or 350,000 jobless.

IT REMAINED for Dr. Yale Brozen of University of Chicago to advance theories that it is the government which is responsible for much of the high unemployment.

Minimum wage laws have decreased the employment of the unskilled minority groups in disadvantaged areas of the country like the Southeastern states, says Brozen.

But the major external factor capable of creating widespread joblessness is Federal Reserve Board's monetary policy. Brozen declares. Other variables in the business cycle may cause 4 to 5 per cent unemployment, he says. But when monetary policies affect the economy adversely, the unemployment problem is compounded, according to Brozen's theory.

Brozen blames the "Fed" whenever it varies from its unofficial rule of thumb to allow the money supply to grow about 3 per cent a year.

From mid-1958 to mid-1959 the money stock grew by 3.8 per cent. Then the Fed cut it back too rapidly, before unemployment had dropped back to the 1957 level. And this precipitated the recession of recent months, according to the economist.

PETER HENLE, AFL-CIO ECONOMIST soon to become a Department of Labor official, was the lone union representative on a panel asked to comment on the Long and Brozen theories.

He asked if they proved anything. Various factors in the business cycle may move in the same direction simultaneously, he maintained, without one causing the other.

The Prisoner Ransom Try Seen Strengthening Castro

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, May 23 — "A million dollars for Fidel Castro, dead or alive — but preferably alive."

This is the latest suggestion made by a reader in answer to those who want to raise $15,000,000 to pay off Castro and liberate the 1,200 Cubans taken prisoner in the recent "invasion" attempt.

The reason for wanting to form a committee to induce the Cuban people to capture Castro and send him to some foreign country is so he may be tried for international crimes just as Adolph Eichmann is being tried in Israel today.

The capture of Eichmann was accomplished privately within a foreign country where he had taken refuge, but in the case of Castro, who is still in his own country, it would be natural for citizens there to seize him and bring him to justice in Cuban courts. For he is guilty of the mass execution of innocent persons on hearsay evidence and without benefit of a fair trial. There must be many persons inside Cuba who would wish to see Castro punished.

The fact that a committee of prominent American citizens is ready to do business with Castro in order to liberate some of the prisoners he holds is provoking differences of opinion in Washington. While it is argued that the committee is solely interested in saving human lives—even raising what is admittedly a ransom—there are many others who think that this would be a disgraceful concession to Castro's inhumanity.

Indeed, the Cuban dictator now says he wants the money as an "indemnity" from the United States because of the recent "invasion." Whatever interpretation he may put on it, there are many Americans who will donate money to save lives. The instinct is commendable but the maneuver cannot but place Castro in a position of strength. For it will mean that his demand for what he calls "indemnity" will be proclaimed throughout the world as having been met.

Impression of Fear

Also, it will give the people of Cuba the impression that the American people are afraid of Castro and are ready to bow to his demands and those of his Communist associates who doubtless thought up the ransom scheme.

Failure of the "invasion" was a psychological blow to the hopes of those who have sought to liberate Cuba. The United States is blamed for not following through with adequate air support at the critical moment. The effect throughout Latin America has been one of disappointment with the United States. While outwardly the usual fears are expressed that intervention in Cuba would seem to be a precedent for similar intervention when dictators arise in other Latin-American situations, many thoughtful persons of prominence in countries south of us are saying privately they wish the United States had followed through on the recent expedition started by the Cuban exiles.

It Will Hurt the Cause

The widespread publicity given the American committee which has just started out to raise $15,000,000 to buy tractors for the exchange of the Cuban prisoners is bound to hurt the cause of liberation inside Cuba. For it pictures the American people as interested in saving 1,200 Cuban prisoners, but not so much concerned about the entire Cuban nation which has been taken prisoner by Castro and his Communist partners.

There is little hope, incidentally, that the exchange of tractors for the prisoners will go through. It isn't easy to raise $15,000,000 for any rescue mission outside the United States, and rarely has anything approaching the sum ever been collected even for a famine or earthquake disaster. Castro nevertheless will make considerable propaganda out of the incident, and there is no assurance that he will accede to the terms of the American committee that, as the tractors are delivered, there will be exchanged at the same time certain specified prisoners so as to insure that the agreement will be kept by Castro.

A Problem for UN?

It is unfortunate that Walter Reuther and members of his committee have promised to go to Cuba themselves to negotiate an agreement with Castro. For the Cuban dictator doubtless will use the occasion to tell the Cuban people that prominent Americans are coming to Cuba on bended knee to recognize his execute prisoners of war. Mayright to threaten or actually to be this is a problem, after all, for the United Nations, which manages to send envoys to uncivilized Congo and knows something at least about how to deal with bandits and murderers.

So They Say..

I can take care of the Republicans, but who is protecting me from my friends?

—Secretary of Interior Stewart L. Udall, on a friend's use of his name to sell $100 tickets to a Democratic dinner.

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

MIDLAND, Tex., May 23 — The question is not whether Stewart Udall, a crafty politician of the Southwestern Frontier, was misused by a well-meaning friend in the matter of those tickets at $100 a plate for a Washington dinner to meet the debt of the Democratic party. The question is whether the oil and gas industry is a morally subversive activity by contrast with the coal business, for example, or the whiskey business, which is the cornerstone of Joe Kennedy's fortune.

J. K. Evans, an oil man of relatively humble status, wrote a routine letter to a roster of friends in oil and gas telling them that his old friend, Udall, the secretary of interior, had asked for help to peddle Udall's "very sizeable quota" of tickets for the Jefferson-Jackson Day dinner in "honor" of the President. As Democrats line up, Udall is a little to the left of Walter Reuther and Chester Bowles. In relation to President Kennedy, it is hard to say. Thus far nobody knows how far to the left Kennedy stands.

Udall has dictatorial powers over oil and gas. It need not follow that he was willing to be kind to oil and gas in return for a generous response to Evan's candid entreaty. But it is a miserable fact that this useful commerce is now widely regarded as a close relative of safe blowing and forgery. It is governed by hostile laws and commissioners and it pays enormous taxes, but it has transformed great areas of the nation since the start of the second war. The Russian empire requires the work of about 10 farmhands to produce as much food as one American creates with chemicals derived from petroleum and with machinery animated by petroleum.

Gas is the only "energy" whose price is regulated by federal law, and a very erratic, contradictory law at that which even the federal power commission and the court both have made the law. Yet, under law derived from such authority, gas occupies about the same moral status as opium. A company owning coal in the ground is free to set the price to the consumer. The lumber company manufacturing sawdust logs is respected.

Oil is harassed by international import quotas to protect overseas investments of the big companies and the political speculations of the successive national administrations. But gas in the ground is bad although it is the best fuel that the ingenuity of man ever sent to market. It need not be stored in bins, bunkers or tanks. It does not make smog as oil does nothwithstanding all efforts to vindicate it by publicity and chemistry and gas does not become a debt against the buyer until he has consumed it at the burner. As long as it is still gas in the pipe it belongs to the supplier. It creates electricity, which runs whole cities and great industries with the least conceivable public distress from pollution or interruption of supply. Weather leaves gas unperturbed in the pipelines.

In the Permian Basin of West Texas gas is thrust out of the ground by natural pressure at such great force that, without the help of pumps, it is used to turn the shafts of drills searching for more gas deposits thousands of feet down. Air may be compressed to the same square-inch force, but it cannot be used to do the same work.

Udall's embarrassment will vanish; a momentary fluster of a political corral fighter who unexpectedly got fetched a kick in the ostentation while he was still new to Washington. Harold Ickes would have thought of something really dirty to smear on the oil and gas people. Udall showed no more courage and self-respect than the lobbyists of oil and gas who are always hatching stupid mistakes of propaganda and hightailing for the hills when things go wrong. He got rattled.

Meanwhile, in the Texas goat barrens, oil and gas men go hang-dog about a calling which is no less virtuous than politics, the law or medicine. They know their geology and local conditions; they gamble their money against awe-inspiring daily failures. But they were completely submissive to the insulting implications of Eisenhower's veto of one fair and just gas bill and to the defeat of another bill in 1958 merely because a Republican committeeman frankly went cadging money to elect Republicans to repeal a price control which never was justified anyway.

But natural gas, accursed of the FPC and the Federal Courts, has boomed ahead to a 25 per cent lead over coal from a start little above zero in the last 40 years.

Officers of the 1st Howitzer Battalion, 156th Artillery, New York Army National Guard, tendered a farewell dinner to Captain Edward F. Siegenthaler, battalion adjutant, at the Rainbow Inn, Kingston, Friday evening, presented him with a gift.

Capt. Siegenthaler, who resides at 18 Wendover Drive, Poughkeepsie, an IBM engineer, is being transferred to the Detroit plant in June. He had been assigned to the Poughkeepsie IBM plant for the past six years.

Since coming to this area, Captain Siegenthaler has been a member of the local 156th Artillery. He was originally commissioned as an artillery officer in June 1943, having graduated from officer candidate school at Fort Sill, Okla. He served in the South Pacific during World War 2. Following the war he joined the Army Reserves and served with the 827th Field Artillery and was commissioned in the Army National Guard. Upon his moving East, he rejoined the Reserves and then in March 1955 was again commissioned in the Army National Guard of New York.

Lieutenant Colonel Arthur H. Marx, commanding officer, presented Siegenthaler with a leather brief case on behalf of the officers of the command as a token of their appreciation for his services. The case bore his initials in gold letters.

Captain Siegenthaler said he could use no other words to convey his feelings than to say "I have learned to love the 156th and I never felt this way with any other unit".

Escapee Seized At Father's Home, Sawed Way Out

CANTON, N.Y. (AP) — A 30-year-old convict who broke out of a Florida jail with hacksaw blades he said were all over the jail was captured in his father's home Tuesday night.

Earl Henry Debiew was found hiding behind a couch, State Police said.

Debiew and six other men broke out of the Pasco County jail at Dade City, Fla., March 29 by sawing through steel one-quarter inch thick.

"They (pieces of blades) were laying all over the place," state troopers quoted Debiew as saying. The six other escapees have been captured.

Debiew gave up without resisting at the home of his father, Henry, who lives near the Northern New York community of Nicholville, 35 miles east of here. Debiew was unarmed.

Troopers said Debiew admitted sawing a jail bar for about three weeks. He worked for a while after his escape on a farm in Missouri and about a week ago persuaded an acquaintance to drive him to Nicholville.

Debiew was awaiting trial on charges of burglary, arson and car theft when he escaped. He was arrested in Nicholville last fall on a Florida warrant on the same charges and told troopers, "they'll never hold me" in Florida.

Troopers said he appeared unconcerned about his capture Tuesda night. He was taken to the St. Lawrence County jail after arraignment before a peace justice on a charge of being a fugitive from justice.

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Many companies own blocks of common stock of other corporations. Some of these portfolios may get a closer scrutiny of corporate lawyers in the wake of the Supreme Court decision that Du Pont must divest itself of its 63 million General Motors shares.

But the vast majority of stock holdings by other firms probably won't come under the antitrust decision. This frowns on such ownership if the court finds a reasonable likelihood that restraint of commerce or creation of a monopoly might result.

For Other Reasons

Corporate treasurers insist that in almost all instances such holdings are for other reasons.

Some buying of stocks in other companies is frankly to gain control of them. In only a comparatively few cases has this been held to result in the monopoly or restraint of trade which the antitrust laws forbid.

Other stocks have been acquired as payment when one company buys a part of the assets or a subsidiary company of another.

Most of the hundreds of corporate portfolios that contain other companies' shares hold them for investment reasons primarily.

The corporate treasurer has cash on hand and sees a greater return from common stocks than from buying government securities or other forms of savings. So he buys some stocks.

Often these are in firms in the same field as his own company. Many times long held stocks are in corporations that supply or buy from the holding firm. Sometimes the shares are just good buys in entirely unrelated fields.

For example, one of Du Pont's chemical rivals owns shares in a synthetic textile firm, a steel company and two glass makers.

As a different kind of example, a mining and shipping firm holds sizable blocks of stock in steel, coal, mining and petroleum companies.

And for a third example, a utility company holds shares in a textile company.

Some companies that got shares of another as payment for a business deal distribute them later. As an example, Indiana Standard Oil from time to time for several years has been handing out to its shareholders as dividend payments in Jersey Standard Oil it got a long time ago.

Diversification Trend

Some of the big holdings in other firms have been acquired since World War II as part of the trend to diversification. In some cases, the purchasing company has acquired all or a majority of the stock of a firm in a different field. Sometimes it has bought only sizable percentages.

In both cases the idea was that if the original company's business turns sour temporarily, its holdings in other fields may well be bringing in pleasant returns on the investment, making the buyer's over-all financial picture better than it might have been.

Glancing Over TV Bill of Fare

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—Strange and frightening ailments are afflicting that once proud and glamorous industry, railroading.

NBC's final "White Paper" of the season took a look at our faltering rail systems Tuesday night. It summed up the gloomy picture with some shots of rotting ties, rusting rails and defensive railroad presidents pleading for equal treatment with rival forms of transportation while raising the specter of socialism in a nationalization of the industry.

But the public's shifting attitude toward rail travel was even more dramatically sketched in three short vignettes.

One was a turn of the century film clip, showing excited, elegantly attired men, women and children dining in luxury aboard the plush 20th Century as it roared through the countryside. Then the scene shifted to today—a group of disconsolate, bored people in the train's club car.

"I'm on this thing," said one man disdainfully, "because I couldn't get a flight to Chicago."

"I've gotten so used to bad conditions," said a New York-bound commuter with weary resignation, "that I'll settle for the hot cars in summer, the cold cars in winter and I'll sit on a hard bench, if they will only just get me to work on time."

The program skipped all over the country, finding delays, breakdowns, poor service, discontinued trains, branch lines and main lines all over the place. The one bright spot in the gloomy picture was the Chicago and Northwestern Railroad out of Chicago, which has modernized its equipment, attracted (rather than discouraged) commuters and has turned a huge deficit into a tiny profit.

The whole situation seemed thoroughly disheartening and, even in summary, narrator Chet Huntley could not come up with much of an answer to the problem. Carrying people on trains just doesn't seem to be profitable.

Recommended tonight: Perry Como Show, NBC, 9-10 (EDT)—with George Gobel and Martha Raye; Circle Theater, CBS, 10-11—"Days of Confusion," a dramatized documentary about current problems young people have in getting into the colleges of their choice.

Soybeans Have Future

URBANA, Ill. (AP) — Scientists at the University of Illinois believe soybeans eventually may be added to the list of regular fare for Americans. Testing vegetable-type soybeans, which have a mild nutty flavor and are larger and cook more easily than field-type soybeans, the researchers found that soaking and cooking processes did not affect thiamine vitamin content.

Soybeans compare favorably in thiamine with other good sources of this vitamin, including peanuts, fried beef liver, cooked oatmeal and whole wheat bread. Thiamine corrects and prevents beriberi and promotes optimal growth in infants and children.

GIANT BELL SYSTEM ANTENNA for catching and amplifying signals from satellite will be 177 feet long and about as high as an 8-story building.

Bell System Is Far Advanced on Satellite to Extend Microwave Communications across the Seas

Microwave system overseas via satellites is a natural extension of today's nationwide telephone and TV networks

The Bell System is ready right now to move fast on a communication system using satellites in outer space.

We've already made telephone calls from coast to coast by bouncing radio signals off NASA's Echo I satellite.

We're well along on designing and building an experimental active satellite and are prepared to pay for the launching and for transmission facilities on the ground.

Our aim is to create more high-quality voice channels, and, ultimately, global television channels. We would connect our U. S. communication network with those of other countries and provide international overseas service.

There's one thing we'd like to make completely clear.

The Bell System is not seeking a monopoly of space communications.

There would be all kinds of opportunity for the producers of electronic gear and other products because of the need to purchase many parts of the system from these producers.

We believe that the Bell System's proposals offer the best means to serve the public's interest in a broader communication network for tomorrow. We believe, also, that they offer the best means to get a working system "in being" in the shortest possible time.

Pays to Be Careful

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (AP) — Just before the presidential election, a character witness was called to testify in Superior Court in a murder case. The witness, a woman, walked to the stand with a large handbag. As she sat down, the courtroom saw a large "Kennedy-Johnson" sticker surrounded by Kennedy-for-President buttons adorning a side of the handbag she carried. "Hey, turn that around," warned defense attorney Henry Fisher. "There might be a Republican on the jury."

AT&T Is Under Antitrust Check

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government has started an antitrust investigation of the American Telephone and Telegraph Co.

Lee Loevinger, assistant attorney general in charge of the Justice Department's antitrust division, said that as a result of "a number of complaints concerning activities" of AT&T, the division is investigating various aspects of the telephone industry.

Drops $3 a Share

Stock in AT&T dropped more than $3 a share in early trading today on the New York Stock Exchange.

Loevinger disclosed the investigation in a letter to E. L. Hageman, president of the Western Union division of the Commercial Telegraphers Union. Hageman had complained specifically that a new Telpak service is tending to take business from the Western Union Telegraph Co.

Telpak is a leased wire service offering various forms of communication.

Hageman said that although AT&T was forced to divorce itself from the telegraph communications business many years ago, it retained the word "telegraph" in its company name and by 1960 was taking in 44 per cent of the total telegraphic revenues in the United States through teletypewriter and other forms of service.

Time for Action

"The time has come for our government to take action against this gigantic communications monopoly," Hageman wrote the Justice Department. "The Bell System has had a monopoly in voice communications for many years. It should be confined to that field and should be compelled to get out of the record (written) communications field.

In New York, an AT&T spokesman said the company had not heard directly from the Justice Department on the subject. He said the company did not have a copy of the Loevinger letter.

The company said it is still offering Telpak although only under certain restrictions in compliance with an FCC directive.

In April the company estimated there were 100 customers using Telpak.

State Conference On Mental Health Opens Thursday

A new look at mental health services for children and for the elderly will highlight a two-day conference of the New York State Association for Mental Health starting Thursday at Hotel Sheraton, Rochester.

Both government and voluntary agencies concerned with the treatment and prevention of mental and emotional illness will be represented at the statewide conference. Included will be delegates of the 26 county associations affiliated with the State Association for Mental Health.

"This conference is unusually timely," State Association president Glenn W. Timmons declares, "because of increasing evidence that the two most neglected groups are at the extremes of the age spectrum, the young and the old."

Albany Denies College Ruling

A spokesman for the State Education Department in Albany this afternoon told The Freeman that no action had been taken on a proposed site in Saugerties for a community college.

The comment was made after a local report said Saugerties had been ruled out as a possible site for a college. He said no official action on a site would be taken by the state until after a referendum in November.

Shokan

SHOKAN—Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Longendyke, Highland, were among the many out of town people visiting the reservoir country during the weekend. Longendyke has one of the largest collections of old bells in the county. Mrs. Longendyke, the former Edith Upright of Gardiner, is a school teacher.

Frank and George Maynard, brothers, have moved here from California and are making their home in Alfred Iapoce's bungalow at Ashokan. The two men are uncles of Walter Fenty, who with his family make their home in the Iapoce main house on Route 28.

Carl Heese, West Camp, was a caller in the village center Sunday. Also here Sunday were Mr. and Mrs. Ben Woloson of Cairo.

Birthdays on May 25 include that of Wesley Davis, younger son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Davis of Lyonsville. The six-year-old boy is a grandson of Mrs. Burr Elmendorf of Shokan. He has a brother, Stephen, who will be nine years old next June 10.

Genevieve McLean is reported a patient at a Kingston hospital.

Frank Neri has returned to Shokan to live. The World War II veteran and deputy sheriff has a trailer home at the Sickler park.

Ludwig Horowitz of Halcott Center was a Shokan caller Saturday. His house in the Greene County village was badly damaged by fire earlier in the spring.

The Lloyd Hale family have opened their summer place near the New Paltz College recreation camp at Winchell's Falls below the Ashokan Dam.

Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Iapoce will observe their 25th wedding anniversary May 31. The couple who have resided at Phoenicia the past two years, were married at St. Peter's Church, Rosendale. Mrs. Iapoce before marriage was Elizabeth Brown of Atwood.

Robert Malvski, Watson Hollow Road summer resident, was in Shokan Saturday. His house is on the former Mary Brattam, or old Sigourney place.

People here are interested in The Freeman stories about the YMCA day camp on the mountain road, and they opine that "Shokan" would be as good a name as any for the big camp. The word, a contraction of Ashokan, dates back about 150 years. Ashokan, also, would be appropriate, what with the camp overlooking this magnificent body of water. The name originally was spelled Ashokim, an Indian word meaning a "Good place to fish." Indians of the Five Nations came here in Revolutionary War times to catch the big Esopus Creek trout and trade at Lemuel Winchell's store.

Ashokan also was the name of a local Indian chief who figured in a duel to the death with Chief Tingoras who, tradition has it, accepted a pot of gold pieces from the Tories and British which he buried somewhere along the creek at Tongore. The duel, fought for the hand of an Indian maiden, took place on Toran's Hook, a low peak half a mile from the site of the day camp, and Chief Ashokan, a veritable giant of a man, lost his life. On the crest of Toran's Hook is a large flat rock which was used by the Indians for a dancing ground. Early settlers in the valley could see the flare of torches as the redskins danced at night.

To the north of the camp lake, and literally only a stone's throw from it, begins the slope of Tice Teneyck, towering rampart of the lower Catskills, from whose crest can be seen the Shawangunk Mountains, the Hudson Valley and the Berkshires beyond. The ascent from the camp side is an easy one and the view from the top of Old Tice is magnificent. Name is that of an early settler who was led, blindfolded, by an Indian friend and shown a silver mine up against the mountain. Tice was never able to find the treasure again and prospectors have dug in vain for it down through the years.

Teamster Union Set to Organize Stable Workers

NEW YORK (AP)—The Teamster Union disclosed today that it has opened a major drive to organize stable employes in flat racing tracks in New York State. Three bargaining elections already have been set.

The elections—first of their kind in the state—will be to determine whether the employes of three trainers and one owner of thoroughbred race horses want to be represented by Teamsters Local 917.

Joe Kramer, chairman of the State Labor Relations Board, said the elections were the forerunners of 52 similar actions pending before the board.

President John Bourke of Local 917 said that if the union wins the right to bargain for the grooms, exercise boys and hot walkers, it will seek pay increases and a reduction in the work week from seven to six days.

The bargaining elections orders were directed at James W. Galbreath, a horse owner, and John P. Conway, his trainer; Robert N. Blackburn, a public trainer, and Norman Robert McLeod.

Kramer said the board acted after the National Labor Relations Board refused to take jurisdiction on the ground that thoroughbred racing is essentially local in character.

Nursery School Fall Enrollment

NEW PALTZ, May 24 — The Huguenot Street Nursery School is now receiving enrollment of children who will be of age to attend during the fall term. The program of the school is planned for children, who on September 1st will be between the ages of two years and nine months and four years and nine months old.

The nursery school is located in the Education Building of the Reformed Church and is in session Monday through Friday during the morning hours. The plant is modern and fully equipped for the care of 20 girls and boys. Operating as a cooperative, the school is staffed by a full-time professional teacher and parent assistants who participate alternately at their convenience.

Saturday, May 13 was "fix-it" day at the Huguenot Nursery School as several of the fathers spent the better part of the day at the school grounds performing numerous chores. The outdoor storage shed was improved by the addition of shelving to facilitate removal and storage equipment. The rolling stock, tricycles and wagons, were repaired after nine months of hard riding. The big project of the day was the design and construction of a shade area for the children.

Two Girl Scouts Hauled Off Cliff At Park Tuesday

Two girls of Scout Troop 123, who took a walk down a path from Hasbrouck Park while a picnic barbecue was being prepared met with some difficulty Tuesday afternoon when they apparently attempted a shortcut in getting back to the park.

They were assisted off a precipitous area of craggy rock by local police and Herbert Rougier, of 106 Abruyn Street.

Mrs. Joseph D. Scholar, of 22 Augusta Street, troop leader, said that Kathleen Weber, 11, of Hurley, appeared in the worst predicament, since she was several feet beyond Julia Cook, 11, of Presidents Place, who might have been able to return safely to the park, but who was advised to remain where she stood until help came.

A police report at 4:05 p. m., said John Mazdin, of Hasbrouck Avenue, reported being told that youngsters appeared to be in trouble on a cliff in the park area. Sgt. Bernard Fowler dispatched officers Thomas Coffey, Gerald Every and William Whalen there. The girls were assisted from the rocks after rope from a police emergency kit was tied about their waists.

Mrs. Scholar said she believed that if someone had held her she could have reached the Cook girl, but she decided to wait out assistance before making a rescue attempt. Mrs. Frank Jones, of Presidents Place, she said, who was also assisting in supervising the picnic, had gone down the path to see what could be done from the lower side.

It was indicated that the girls had reached the path leading from the park, by getting through a hole in the park fence.

14 Players, 10 Colleges Added To Cage Scandal

NEW YORK (AP)—The college basketball scandal investigation in New York spread today to a total of 23 players from 15 colleges.

Frank S. Hogan, New York district attorney, said 14 more players and 10 additional colleges were involved in the mushrooming scandal.

Hogan made the disclosure when announcing that Joseph Hacken of New York had been indicted on charges of conspiracy and bribery to fix basketball games.

Two basketball players from St. John's University of Brooklyn and one from New York University were named. Players from these schools had not been implicated previously.

Hogan also said that a player from Dayton University and another from the University of Iowa had acted as intermediaries in recruiting college players for bribes.

Kennedy Going To Congress for Increased Funds

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Kennedy will address a joint session of Congress in person Thursday to ask increased funds for space, foreign aid and other spending.

House Majority Leader John W. McCormack, D-Mass., interrupted debate on a $12.5 billion defense authorization bill to announce the joint session to be held at 12:30 p.m.

Among other things, Kennedy is expected to ask Congress to support a sharply increased fallout shelter program for the protection of civilians against sneak nuclear attack.

The entire message is understood to be designed to provide a powerful stimulant to the American space program and to both the military and assistance arms of U.S. foreign policy.

It has been estimated to cost around $1 billion by some informants. There will be emphasis on aid to Asian and African countries, it was understood, but less money than originally contemplated for programs of public works and other measures designed to reduce unemployment.

COMEDIENNE DIES — Joan Davis, radio and television comedienne, died in a Palm Springs, Calif., hospital following a heart attack. She was 47 years old. (AP Wirephoto)

Filmland Mourns Queen of Comedy

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (AP)—The entertainment world is mourning Joan Davis, often called "the queen of comedy" whose zany antics and tall-girl acrobatics brought laughter to millions.

Her death of a heart attack Tuesday at 48 ended a spectacular career in virtually all theatrical media — stage, screen, radio and finally television.

Jim Backus, who co-starred in Miss Davis' highly successful TV series, "I Married Joan," wired her family: "The nation has lost a great lady and the foremost feminine talent in her field."

The blonde comedienne was stricken Monday night at her desert home here, where she had lived quietly in semi-retirement. Physicians at an emergency hospital labored in vain to save her life.

The actress' last publicized romance, with realtor Harvey Stock 35, ended in 1959 when she charged her suitor knocked her down during an argument. She was divorced from Serenus Wills in 1947 after 16 years of marriage.

Miss Davis, who began her theatrical career in vaudeville at the age of 7, once was the highest paid woman on radio, ranking only behind Bob Hope and Jack Benny.

As an actress, she portrayed a frustrated, luckless, gawky female. In private life, she was an attractive woman who spoke in a quiet voice and dressed smartly.

Rosary will be recited Friday and Mass will be said Saturday at St. Paul's Church, Los Angeles.

Parents Accuse Gym Instructor In Boy Assault

WAMPSVILLE, N. Y. (AP)—A couple sought today to pin negligence on the DeRuyter Central School, contending that a gym instructor struck their 13-year-old son and cracked two of his teeth.

Mr. and Mrs. Peter V. Scott of Cuyler led a caravan of 30 cars to the Madison County Court House here for the negligence hearing before Judge Harold Simpson.

In their complaint, the Scotts contend that the instructor, Richard Berish, struck young Russell Scott in the face last February after the boy declined to pick up towels after a gym class.

Scott said he had instructed his son not to pick up the towels because it was making him late for the next class. The boy was not taking part in actual gym activities for medical reasons.

A school official acknowledged that an "incident" took place but contended that it was properly handled by Berish.

Rocky Dinner Will Be Loaded With Politics

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York comes to Washington today for a congressional dinner loaded —against his wishes—with politics.

Rockefeller, a Republican, will be host to the state's members of Congress. Although he has outlined no agenda for the dinner, he has said he wants to discuss state problems of interest to the lawmakers.

Rep. Samuel S. Stratton, D-N.Y., thinks this should include reapportionment—a topic he says interests all New York House members, especially Democrats.

Rockefeller says no. Reapportionment of the state's congressional districts, he has told Stratton, is a matter for the State Legislature to decide.

But Stratton, armed with a pledge of support from other New York Democrats, plans to force a discussion of reapportionment. He does not look for a drag-out battle over it at the dinner but simply an expression of views "on what we think is important. . ."

The number of House seats in New York drop from 43 to 41 for the next Congress beginning in 1963. It is up to the Legislature, however, to reapportion New York's congressional districts to reflect the change.

There are reports the Republican-controlled Legislature plans to eliminate Stratton's 32nd district in its reapportionment plans and force him into a primary fight with the politically powerful and popular Rep. Leo W. O'Brien, D-N.Y.

This could be done by making Schenectady County — Stratton's home—a part of O'Brien's district.

Hollywood News, Views

By BOB THOMAS
AP Movie-TV Writer

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Terry-Thomas is here, hyphen, gap and all.

'Twas only natural that Hollywood would import one of the leading lights of England's film comedy industry. He is now acting in "Bachelor Flat" with Tuesday Weld, Richard Beymer and Celeste Hoalm. Director Frank Tashlin does a rave over T-T. "He is a magnificent clown. He can even take a prat fall with dignity."

The name Terry-Thomas needs to be explained. He was born Thomas Terry Hoar Stevens.

"When I started thinking of a stage name, I considered Thomas Terry, but discarded it for fear I would be presumed to be a member of the Terry family," he explained, referring to the English stage clan.

He adopted Terry-Thomas and shows mild annoyance when he is called Terry or Mr. Thomas. Friends refer to him as Tom or T-T, old friends as Mot, backward spelling of Tom.

About the gap. It stretches several millimeters between his upper front teeth and lends to his comic appearance.

"People rush up to me and say, 'Smile,'" he remarked. "When I do, they are very gleeful and say, 'That's it!'"

So influential has this feature been that he called his autobiography "Filling the Gap."

"My family never considered orthodontics," he said. "All the females in my family have the gap, so it wasn't considered unusual. I suppose if I were a romantic type of actor, I would have done something about it. But as a boy I considered myself the Erich von Stroheim type and was always posing with a watch crystal in my eye."

Royal Tyler is considered to have been the first American playwright.

Presbys Toying With Aged Care

By GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

BUFFALO, N. Y. (AP)—United Presbyterians, under pressure of the American Medical Association, today toyed warily with the question of social security-based medical care for the aged.

It was a high-tension issue, as the church's governing general assembly headed into its final day.

Most of the 988 voting delegates have been circularized with AMA literature, opposing any support for such a system as a step toward "socialized medicine."

A resolution submitted for assembly action walks a tight rope on the idea, neither favoring, nor opposing it.

In fact, so gingerly is it approached, that the printed draft of the proposed lengthy statement on medical care for the aged, adds this closing footnote, in capital letters:

"It should be noted that the above recommendations neither support nor oppose proposals for the extension of social security to provide medical care for the aging."

What will happen when this non-commital suggestion hits the floor is anybody's guess.

The resolution is part of a 10,000-word series of resolutions, drawn by a social education and action committee.

One of them declares that the "Communist conspiracy is objectively real and vitally dangerous," but adds:

"There are some indications that an unreasoning fear of communism has vitiated and paralyzed the ability of some Americans to think intelligently and responsibly about either the objective reality of the Communist threat to freedom or the unfinished business of a free society."

Electronic Siren Test Is Tonight

Testing of a new electronic siren will be conducted today in the Tillson Fire District starting at 6 p. m. and continuing until 8 p. m. Firemen are to report to the firehouse at 6 p. m.

Fifty-five firemen from the town of Rosendale, Rifton and neighboring fire companies attended the fire school at Stewart Air Force Base Newburgh, Sunday under auspices of Tillson Fire Department.

At that time rescue operation of a pilot and crew of all types of aircraft was explained and three hours of actual fire and rescue problems were held under the direction of Assistant Chief Robert Whalen and Sgt. Lyle West of the base department.

The regular weekly fire school of the Tillson Fire Department will be held Wednesdays at 6:30 p. m. starting May 31.

Fire Chief Kenneth Gordon announced that the Fire Department will participate in the Memorial Day parade to be held in Tillson. Members will report at the fire house at 9:30 a. m. Uniforms will be white shirt, black ties, dark blue pants and uniform hats.

SEC Lawyers Trying to Find Out If Exchange Members Helped Res

EDITOR'S NOTE—The Securities and Exchange Commission last week announced it will investigate the American Stock Exchange in the wake of charges of price rigging and illegal stock sales by two of its important members. This is the second of four articles summarizing the situation. The author, Frank Cormier, reports financial affairs in Washington for The Associated Press.

American Exchange II

By FRANK CORMIER

WASHINGTON (AP) — Did Jerry and Gerard Re enlist any fellow members of the American Stock Exchange as willing helpers in their alleged massive manipulations of that important market?

This is a question which investigators from the Securities and Exchange commission presumably will try to answer as they probe the "rules, policies, practices and procedures" of the exchange, the second largest in New York City and the nation.

SEC lawyers already have stated that some exchange members, wittingly or not, aided the Res by purchasing certain stocks at strategic times. Only one member has been named in this connection, however, and no action has been taken against him.

Peddled $10 Million

The Res, father and son, have been expelled from the exchange by the SEC, which held they illegally peddled nearly $10 million in stocks in rigged markets between 1954 and 1960.

Now the SEC is inspecting the exchange itself to see if it gives investors adequate protection.

Edward T. McCormick, president of the exchange, says the inquiry is welcomed and recent reforms will discourage anyone from trying to imitate the Res.

As specialists, the Res were responsible for maintaining fair and orderly trading in about 20 stocks. They conducted the daily auctions in these securities.

Charged Investors Harmed

According to the SEC brief in the case, the two men prostituted their vital role and did "many millions of dollars of harm to thousands of unsuspecting investors."

The brief said they got help from exchange floor traders — members who speculate for their own account.

Edward J. Garrett, vice president of the Loral Electronics Corp., gave the SEC testimony that financier Jennis M. Doroshaw once told him "there were many other people on the floor" working with Jerry Re in one alleged manipulation. Doroshaw denied this.

The reported manipulation occurred Oct. 25, 1954 and involved the common stock of Thompson-Starrett Co., Inc. The stock closed that day at a two-year high of $4.25 a share. Trading was unusually heavy at 42,400 shares.

Used Several Methods

"At least 34 per cent of that volume," according to the brief, "can be traced to exchange members or their wives."

In discussing price rigging, the brief said the Res also used several methods to push up stock prices by "painting the tape"—creating the appearance of trading activity to whet the public appetite.

The brief said they spread rumors that certain stocks were sure to skyrocket. They wined and dined brokers and fed them a side order of hot tips. They had friends and acquaintances make strategic purchases.

Celebrities Take Cues

Bernard (Toots) Shor, the New York restaurateur, bought 1,000 shares of Thompson-Starrett after Jerry Re touted the stock at a testimonial dinner for Vincent F. Albano Jr., a Republican leader on Manhattan's East Side. Albano bought 10,000.

Others who took investment cues from Jerry Re included some of his good friends in the baseball world: Chuck Dressen, manager of the Milwaukee Braves and Cookie Lavagetto, manager of the Minnesota Twins.

The brief said the stocks which the Res sold illegally were obtained from corporation officials who, it claimed, wanted to dispose of large blocks without registering them with the SEC, as normally required by law. These officials usually were willing to sell in private deals at prices below those prevailing in the market, the brief added.

The losers, it said, were the many public investors "who had every reason to expect that the exchange market in which they dealt was honest and fair."

VA Outlines War Orphans Program

Charles L. Culver, counselor, New York State Division of Veterans Affairs, and John B. Tyler, director of the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency, stated today that in order for a child to take advantage of the assistance offered under the War Orphans Educational program, it is not necessary that both parents of the child be deceased. "An orphan may have one parent alive and still be eligible for education under the program. Recently, confusion has existed due to the usual understanding that an "orphan" is one that has lost both parents," the veterans officials said.

Explaining the program, Culver and Tyler further stated that a child to take advantage of this opportunity, must generally be between 18 and 23 years of age, inclusive, and that the act is designed principally to aid the eligible student to pursue a college education. Regular high school training is not included, but certain below college level education is permissible under the act.

Further information concerning entitlement to training under the War Orphans Educational Program or to any question concerning veterans benefits, the New York State Division of Veterans Affairs and the Ulster County Veterans Service Agency office should be contacted, at 32 Main Street, Kingston. Branch offices are located at Ellenville, Highland, Kerhonkson and Saugerties.

Rules SPA Must Pay U.S. Share

WASHINGTON (AP)—The New York State Power Authority must pay $6,492,789 to the federal government for the United State's share of the cost in the remedial works at the Niagara Falls hydroelectric project.

The Federal Power Commission directed the power authority Tuesday to do so to cover the cost of constructing, operating and maintaining the remedial works.

The authority was issued a license in September 1957, for redevelopment of the Niagara Falls hydroelectric project. The commission said the license was issued on the condition that the authority would pay the government the U.S. share of the cost of the remedial works.

The U.S. and Canada built the works between June 1954 and July 1957 in line with recommendations of the International Joint Commission.

The construction included evacuation and fill on the Goat Island and Canadian flanks of the Horseshoe Falls to obtain, among other things, an unbroken crestline for the Horseshoe Falls. It also included installation of the Chippawa Grass Island pool control structure to help maintain a dependable flow of water over the American falls and rapids.

The authority is also required to make payments to the government for its share of future annual costs for operation and maintenance of the remedial works.

Since July 1957, the costs, divided equally between the U.S. and Canada, have averaged about $101,000.

Senate Rejects Goldwater Bid On Teacher Pay

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate today turned down by voice vote an attempt by Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., to knock funds for teacher salaries out of the $2.55 billion school aid bill.

This was the first of a series of votes on what Senate leaders expected to be the final day of consideration of amendments to the bill. This is the seventh day of debate.

Voting Seen Thursday

The Senate met three hours early to expedite the voting. However, final passage of the measure is not expected before Thursday.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana told newsmen he hoped to dispose of all remaining amendments to the hotly disputed $2.55-billion public school measure today.

Mansfield called the Senate in three hours early to try to get a quick start at beating down four or five expected amendments.

He said some lengthy opposition speeches undoubtedly would delay the roll call to pass the bill until Thursday.

Thurmond Readies Blast

Sen. Strom Thurmond, D-S.C., for one, has prepared a 67-page speech lambasting the measure—a major item on President Kennedy's 1961 program. Thurmond estimated it would take three or four hours to make his point.

The House Education Committee meets again today on its version of the school legislation and may clear it for floor action.

The administration won a big victory in this group Tuesday when supporters of aid for private schools withheld their amendment. Administration forces feared inclusion of such a provision would kill the bill.

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., had an amendment pending as the Senate convened this morning. It would strike from the bill all aid for teacher salaries. It was given no chance of adoption.

Administration forces easily quashed two Republican amendments to the bill, including a substitute proposed by Goldwater.

Turned down 62 to 32 was a civil rights amendment sponsored by Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y. It would have authorized taxpayers to file federal District Court suits to bar grants to states not complying with the Supreme Cour's 1954 school desegregation decision.

Charge Eichmann With Murder of Lidice Children

JERUSALEM (AP) — Adolf Eichmann was charged today with the murder of the children of Lidice.

The Israeli prosecution presented documents blazing a trail from the famous village in Czechoslovakia to Eichmann's door in the Berlin office of the Gestapo.

The evidence retold how Czech patriots killed Reinhard Heydrich, the Nazi security police chief, near Lidice on June 4, 1942, and how the Nazis in reprisal razed the town, plowed it over and transported the population to death camps.

One document showed Eichmann was in Prague at the time.

Gestapo files disclosed that 88 Lidice children, orphaned by the firing squads, were sent to Lodz. Seven of them were described as "fit for Germanization" and they were scattered through Germany in foster homes. The remaining 81 vanished without a trace and undoubtedly died in one of the Polish murder mills.

The most telling file contained a letter from SS Lt. Col. Hermann Krumey at Lodz to Eichmann's office in Berlin requesting advice on what to do with the 81 "unfit" children.

The answer was "special treatment," which in Eichmann's office for Jewish affairs meant the gas chambers of Auschwitz.

U. S. Backs Thai Adding Two for Parley on Laos

GENEVA (AP) — The United States today supported a Thai proposal to add Indonesia and Malaya to the East-West conference on Laos, anticipating that they would swell the pressure for a sound plan to pacify and demilitarize the Southeast Asian battleground.

For Larger Conference

The American delegation in a statement said enlarging the conference as Thailand proposed Tuesday would be in line with U.S. policy favoring the widest possible consultation by countries in areas where problems occur.

U.S. delegates were reported to feel that Burma, Cambodia and Thailand—Southeast Asian countries already at the conference—had shown a strong desire for a truly neutral Laos. The Americans believed Malaya and Indonesia would add to the pressure that this pro-neutrality bloc could exert on the Communists.

The U.S. delegation was reserved toward another Thai proposal to add Indonesia and Malaya to the International Control Commission for Laos, now made up of India, Canada and Poland. The U.S. statment said any enlargement of the commission "would have to be decided in consultation with present members of the ICC both as to the advantages and the need."

May Take Up Message

The conference was expected to take up a message today from the truce commission concerning the cease-fire the commission is supposed to be watching.

There was no indication of what the message said. It was received Monday and discussed Tuesday by the conference co-chairmen, Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko of the Soviet Union and Malcolm MacDonald of Britain.

The opening of the conference May 12 was delayed 24 hours until assurances were received from the control commission that a cease-fire was in effect. Since then, Western delegations have alleged violations of the truce, while Thailand has charged there is full-scale fighting.

Say Violations Minor

Eastern and neutral delegates contend that the cease-fire exists, that some minor violations are to be expected and that this is not imporant.

As the conference turned to procedural matters, it had before it still another plan for establishing Laos as a unified, neutral nation, this one from France.

Introduced by Ambassador Jean Chauvel, the French plan called for withdrawal of both the U.S. military advisers helping Premier Prince Boun Oum's pro-Western government and Communist North Vietnamese working with the Pathet Lao rebels. They would be replaced by French training personnel, in line with the 1954 Geneva armistice that recognized the independence of Laos, Cambodia and North and South Viet Nam.

The 1954 agreements authorized France to keep 1,500 military instructors in Laos and maintain two bases with up to 3,500 soldiers.

France, preoccupied with the war in Algeria, turned most of the training job over to the United States and kept only a tiny force on the bases.

The French plan also calls for the future Laotian government to promise not to join any military alliance and for the conference nations to agree to abstain from any direct or indirect interference in the internal affairs of Laos.

Financial and Commercial

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market sagged early this afternoon as American Telephone took a sharp loss on news that the government has started an antitrust investigation of the company. Trading was fairly active.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks fell .60 to 249.50 at noon with industrials off 1.50, rails off .30 and utilities .20.

Further sharp declines by Du Pont and General Motors, still reacting from the Supreme Court decision that Du Pont must get rid of its holdings of GM, accentuated the decline.

Changes were fairly narrow throughout the rest of the list but the retreat of the three heavily-weighted blue chips dragged down the popular market averages.

Rails were up at the start on news of an upturn in freight traffic but they sold off as the market declined. Airlines, tobaccos and aircrafts kept moderately ahead o n balance while most other groups showed slight downtrend.

AT&T was down 7⅜, then recovered slightly.

GM was off 2⅜, and Du Pont 5½.

ROGER E. SPEAR

Q) "I notice that shares of many oil companies have been acting well recently. What do you think of the outlook for the oil industry, particularly regarding demand on this continent? What stocks would you recommend as investments?" A.R.

A) I like the outlook for the oil industry, especially over the long pull.

Late last year a study by a joint Canadian-American committee appeared optimistic, as it forecast the petroleum demand for the next 20 years. In the U. S., an annual gain of 3.8 per cent was projected for petroleum and 4.5 per cent for natural gas. For Canada the estimates were 4.4 per cent for petroleum and 10.4 per cent for natural gas. These figures are supposedly shaded on the conservative side.

If this study is anywhere near accurate, the oil industry in North America have good years ahead.

Another factor often talked about by knowledgeable people in the oil industry is the potential turmoil in the overseas supply, some people feel that this continent might sometime be faced with the prospect of supplying nearly all of its own oil needs. This is a sobering thought, but it nevertheless must be considered.

I believe that there are many good opportunities for investing in the industry. Atlantic Refining, Union Oil of California, Standard Oil of Indiana and Tidewater (all NYSE) are favorites of mine. Each of these stocks should act well over a period of time. For faster growth I suggest Kerr-McGee, which in addition to oil has important interests in gas helium.

Q) "I bought Warner Lambert several years ago for growth. Would you continue to hold this stock." G.A.

At Werner Lambert (NYSE) has had a fine record of growth, and indications are that this performance will continue. I advise you to hold your shares for further gains.

Develops Own Resources

Consular Pragai stated that the people of Arab countries very much live in the past rather than the future. He said that Israel is developing the state's own resources, and contended that if all states worked together the whole area could be thrown open for a vast development.

The Consular emphasized there is a scarcity of water, and said that water systems sufficient to supply all could be extended with pipe lines through cooperation. "All development depends on water," he said. He stated that Israel can import fertilizer, machinery and other vital things needed for development, but not water.

He said neighboring states have water, but there is waste which could be eliminated by pipelining those areas.

Firms Blacklisted

Emphasizing the need for peaceful solutions to present day problems, Consular Pragai said that Israel has everything to lose through unsettled affairs and everything to gain through a permanent peace with Arab states. He added, "But Israel is here to stay."

He referred to blacklisting of firms by Arabs and boycotts they maintain.

The speaker said Israel suggested to the young people of Arab countries to visit Israel and see how roads have been built through the dessert, how to develop their countries and do away with existing frontiers. He stated many young people went to learn development projects and how to solve existing problems in a sensible way.

Cooperation Needed

Cooperation on the part of Arab countries with Israel was emphasized by the speaker. He pointed out that armistice agreements in the last many years under the heading of United Nations must serve as a stepping stone to peace.

Consular Pragai addressed the regular meeting of B'nai B'rith, Zephaniah Lodge 131, Monday night at Jewish Community Center. His topic was "Israel Today."

Officers elected for 1961-62 were: Dr. Stephen T. McGrath, president to succeed outgoing president Kalish; Stuart Munson, first vice president; Dr. Saul Goldfarb, second vice president; Joseph D. Scholar, third vice president; J. Matthew Richardson, treasurer; Alexander Yosman, secretary; John Ferguson, financial secretary.

Installation in June

Other officers are Arthur Foehser, tail twister; Warner Rush, lion tamer; Rabbi Herbert I. Bloom, chaplain; Roger Baer, organist; Leon Miller, Joseph Saccoman, Howard Shultis, one year each; Dr. Gerry Sumber, Karl Pitcock, Leo Kilcoyne, two years each.

William R. Stall, international counselor, will install the officers at a dinner dance at Governor Clinton Hotel on June 28, at which time Richard Kalish, retiring president, will submit his report.

Still Deadlocked

Korean army leaders and U.S. Gen. Carter B. Magruder were reported still deadlocked over details of a formal agreement renewing acknowledgement of Magruder's authority over Korean forces as U.N. commander in Korea. At issue is the return of 7,000 Korean troops occupying Seoul since the coup to Magruder's authority and the U.S. general's right to pass on Korean army appointments.

Thirty minutes after the bus left the station headed south, the highway patrol broadcast an alert to all cars along the route to "be on a sharp lookout right and left," especially along stretches of U.S. 80 bordered by dense woods.

There was no evidence of U.S. marshals in the armed guard as the bus left Montgomery. The federal officers sent here Saturday night after the race rioting broke out patrolled the streets until they were pulled back to their quarters at Maxwell Air Force Base.

One White Man in Group

One white man accompanied 10 Negroes on the bus today. He gave his name as Paul Dietrich, 29-year-old theology student at the Arlington extension of the University of Virginia. He said his home is in Harrisburg, Pa.

Also on the bus were three of the Negroes whose arrival Saturday at the Greyhound bus station touched off a wild outburst of violence.

Twenty persons—some bystanders—were mauled at that time by men and women.

King Sees Group Off

The Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., who led the fight against city bus segregation here five years ago, accompanied the riders to the station this morning.

He did not go with them on the westward journey, but told them "I hope you have a good time."

The National Guard commander, Adj. Gen. Henry V. Graham, boarded the bus before the riders left and warned them it might be a dangerous trip.

Graham has been in command of the military since Gov. John Patterson put the riot-stricken birthplace of the Civil War Confederacy under martial rule.

Several newsmen bought tickets for the bus trip. Others followed in private cars.

White crowds gathered behind the cordon of National Guardsmen near the station, but made no effort to push through the human barricade. Some muttered threats, but nothing more.

The plane came down on the edge of the Ft. Lewis military reservation, adjacent to McChord. The bases are 10 miles southwest of Tacoma, Wash., and about 40 miles south of Seattle.

Identification Delayed

The 15 army men were from B Battery, 26th Field Artillery, 4th Army, at Ft. Sill.

Identification of the casualties was delayed until relatives were notified.

While rescuers were searching the burning wreckage, other Globemasters continued to take off from McChord on similar missions.

The society was formed two years ago by Jewell at which time The Holy City was presented.

Accompanist for the society for the past year and a half has been Loton E. Springstead, organist and choirmaster of Christ Church, Hudson.

Springstead, dean of the local chapter of the American Guild of Organists, presented an organ recital last fall at St. Paul's Church at the beginning of the church's anniversary program. He performed on the newly installed organ in the church which recently completed a $40,000 remodeling program for its 250th anniversary. Springstead is the husband of the former Flora Burhans, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Burhans of West Camp.

Mr. Burhans is lay president of the church council at St. Paul's.

Former Resident Is Promoted by Albany Bank Firm

Merwin E. Potts, 33 Twiller Street, Albany, son of Mr. and Mrs. Roy J. Potts of Cementon, has been promoted to comptroller of Mechanic Exchange Savings Bank, Albany.

A graduate of Catskill High School and Albany Business College, the former Cementon man joined the staff of the Albany Exchange Bank in July 1949. He was appointed auditor in 1954 and continued in that capacity with the new Mechanics Exchange Savings Bank when it came into existence as a result of the merger of the two banks in April, 1960.

Potts is a councilman of St. Mark's Evangelical Lutheran Church. He is a former Sunday school superintendent of St. Paul's Evangelical Lutheran Church, West Camp, where his mother serves as organist at the present time.

Will Renew Bid For Licensing of NY Chiropractors

ODESSA, N.Y. (AP)—State Sen. Dutton S. Peterson today said he would renew his efforts in the State Legislature calling for the licensing and regulating of chiropractors.

The Schuyler County Republican said in a statement that he planned to re-introduce a licensing bill, similar to the one that died in committee at the last session in Albany.

"Thousands of citizens who seek treatment in a chiropractor's office need to be protected from poorly trained or incompetent practitioners," the senator said.

He said last year's bill had won the endorsement of the Board of Regents but had met strong opposition from the State Medical Society.

Speaker Named For Baptist Men Dinner May 31st

Distributive Education will be the theme of a talk by Loryne C. Connick of the Kingston High School faculty for members of the First Baptist Church Men's Club Wednesday night, May 31.

LORYNE C. CONNICK

Connick, a member of the KHS faculty staff for 25 years, is head of the business department and coordinator of distributive education at the school.

Ticket Sale Good

His talk will follow a pork chop dinner served by ladies of the church.

Arrangements for the guest speaker were made by Albert O. Sonnenberg, chairman of the program committee.

George W. Chase, president of the Baptist Men's Club, reports that the advance ticket sale presages another fine turnout for the monthly dinner meetings.

"This will be the last of the monthly guest speakers until fall," president Chase said in a release to The Freeman. He added that the June meeting will be the annual steak dinner and election of officers.

Connick, who has been in the teaching field for 29 years, heads the distributive education program in Kingston which is considered the largest and most recognized in the state north of the metropolitan area. He has coordinated this program at KHS for the past 15 years.

He was elected president of the Southeastern Area Distributive Education area leaders during the spring meeting this year in Ossining.

Named by State Group

In April of 1960 Connick was elected section vice-president by the New York State Vocational and Practical Art Association.

Connick, a former track coach at KHS, was graduated from Plattsburgh High School, Plattsburgh State Teachers College and continued his education at Albany State Teachers College, New York University and Columbia University.

He was appointed as head of the business department of KHS in 1946 following his return from military service.

Connick resides in Woodstock with his wife, Mary and two daughters, Mary and Diane.

Objectionable

The U.S. Electoral College system of deciding presidential elections is the target of more objections than any other feature of the Constitution. More than 200 amendments have been offered to change it.

Why We Say--

HARD TO WIPE OUT: The wild oat is a genus of cereal grass that flourishes throughout Europe as a weed and is hard to wipe out. The folly of inexperienced farmers in the 19th century mistakenly sowing this seed (thinking it to be good grain) was often compared to the folly of young men who unwisely practiced evil and were unable to eradicate it easily.

Meyner Pledges No Double Tax

TRENTON, N. J. (AP)—Gov. Robert B. Meyner says that, even if his novel commuter income tax is fought in court, as he expects, no New Jerseyan will pay a double tax.

The Legislature passed the commuter income levy Monday. It would tax New Jerseyans who commute to New York, at New York's income tax rates.

The commuter would then get his entire New York tax refunded under reciprocal tax laws, and pay no more than he pays now, Meyner said.

The difference is that New Jersey would wind up with the estimated $45 or $50 million now paid to New York by 150,000 commuters.

New York tax officials expressed surprise that the bill passed after a year of inaction, but were cautious about their future plans.

Meyner said, "let's face it. There's going to be some litigation on it. . .let the courts settle it."

Among the clubs participating is the Alpha Rocket Society of Monroe, N.Y.

Fourth Seat Double Tip

BY OSWALD JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

While most take out doubles show a minimum strength equal to an opening bid there is one classic exception. That is the double in fourth seat when your right hand opponent has opened the bidding and his partner has passed. In this situation you can be sure that your partner won't show up with a blank hand and therefor you can afford to base your double on the cards you expect him to have.

North has a fine fourth hand take out double, and South converted it to a penalty double by passing.

South opened the queen of spades. East let it hold, but had to win the second spade lead. For want of anything better to do, he led a diamond. North won; cashed the jack of spades while South discarded a diamond and continued with the king of spades. East ruffed and South overruffed.

South led the king of diamonds. North overtook and led a third diamond. Again South overruffed East.

At this point the defense had six tricks in and even though he was now end-ployed South was able to make three more tricks for a nice 800-point profit.

Workers Face Layoff After Factory Fire

SALAMANCA, N.Y. (AP) — Workers at the Jamestown Table Co., faced a layoff today in the wake of a half-million dollar fire at the factory.

Paint fumes, apparently ignited by sparks from a motor, were believed to have touched off a flash fire in the plant.

Robert L. Taylor, vice president of the company, who estimated the damage, said the damage probably would result in a 10-day layoff of the 150-man work force.

Nourishment

A three-ounce serving of chicken or turkey is said to provide 30 per cent of the protein, 25 per cent of the iron and 10 per cent of the riboflavin recommended in the daily dietic requirement of a normally active adult.

Rochester Phone Authorized Hike On Trial Basis

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—The Public Service Commission authorized the Rochester Telephone Corp. today to raise rates on a trial basis in its Webster and West Webster exchanges.

The increase will take effect simultaneously with conversion of the exchanges to dial service.

While there had been opposition at public hearings to the proposed new rates, there was strong support for prompt conversion to dial in the exchanges, the commission noted.

It directed the company to keep records of subscriber payments under the new rates in the event there had to be adjustments later.

In another action, the commission authorized the Chenango & Unadilla Telephone Corp. to raise rates on its Gilbertsville exchange a total of $1,700 a month, effective June 1. This would be 50 cents per customer. The increase also will take effect with introduction of dial service.

The commission blocked plans of the same company for a $4,700 rate increase in its Whitney Point exchange.

The PSC noted it has ordered an investigation to determine whether toll-free service between Lisle and Center Lisle should be kept for residents of Lisle and that exchange. The rate increase was stopped pending outcome of investigation.

Governor Picks Gotham Man for Memorial Group

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Thomas G. Rogers, a member of a New York City public relations firm, was appointed by Gov. Rockefeller today to the New York State War Memorial Authority.

He succeeds Maj. Gen. Ogden J. Ross of Troy, whose term on the unsalaried agency has expired.

The authority was created in 1957 to recommend a site, construct a suitable memorial and maintain it. No final decisions have yet been made.

In another appointment to an unsalaried job, the governor named Mrs. Joan Haselton Evans of Rome to succeed William A. Weissman of Rome, who resigned from the Board of Visitors of Marcy State Hospital.

Mrs. Evans' late husband, E. Arnold Evans, a Rome attorney, was a member of the same board at one time.

The appointments of Rogers and Mrs. Evans are subject to confirmation by the Senate.

Rogers lives in Manhattan. He is the husband of Ceil Chapman, a fashion designer.

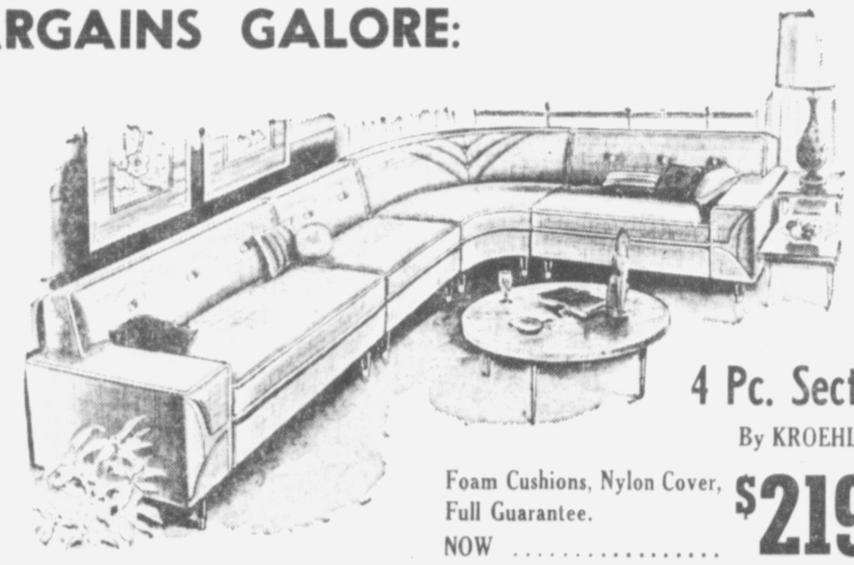

Approximately one-half million (on both sides) lost their lives in the Civil War. Of this number, 364,000 were Union soldiers who either were killed or died of disease.

Correction, Please

Letter from Ajax Hardware Mfg. Co. to customer:

Dear Sir:

Please excuse longhand writing but I have just let my stenographer go. In my last letter to you we were quoting you on Little Wonder Gears, not Litel Wunder Gaers. Also the price was $13.50 each, not $1350 each. Also, our terms are 30 days net, not 300 net days.

Furthermore, we meant that we could rush them to you, not brush them to you. And we are hoping for your order, not moping, as a carbon of our recent letter to you says.

We trust that you will return to us the check for $135 which was sent to you with our quotation, by mistake.

With very red-faced regards,
Harry (Not Hairy) Jackson

If one should give me a dish of sand, and tell me there were particles of iron in it, I might look for them with my eyes, and search for them with my clumsy fingers, and be unable to detect them; but let me take a magnet and sweep through it, and how would it draw to itself the almost invisible particles by the mere power of attraction! The unthankful heart, like my fingers in the sand, discovers no mercies; but let the thankful heart sweep through the day and as the magnet finds the iron, so it will find, in every hour, some heavenly blessing.—Henry Ward Beecher.

Shell experts test for knock by accelerating up steep grade. In another test, that "fifth wheel" in the back is lowered onto the road to measure mileage precisely.

TOP PERFORMANCE:

Shell test crew reveals five ways to test your car for top performance—and how the 9 ingredients in today's Super Shell can help you get it

To John Baker and John Watson of Shell Research, top performance is a scientific standard. They measure it with precision instruments. But any good driver can run a version of their basic tests. Here are five they recommend.

Is your car really delivering its best? "It's easy to find out," says John Baker of Shell Research. "Just run these simple tests."

Test #1. Quick starting

Count the seconds it takes to start your car. The engine should "snap to" in about two to three seconds. A slow start drains your battery. And it may flood your cylinders, causing performance troubles.

If your engine is balky, try Super Shell. It's blended with a frisky ingredient called Butane—to give you quick, easy starts.

Test #2. Smooth running

Pay close attention to your engine in traffic.

Does it vibrate roughly when you stop for a traffic light? Does it seem to "surge" as you pull away, then falter and fade?

Sometimes these troubles can be corrected by minor adjustments of the carburetor and spark timing. Your Shell dealer can take care of this for you.

But sometimes, the problem can be the wrong blend of gasoline.

In summer, for example, excessive heat can make winter grade gasoline bubble in the fuel line. Bubbles can interfere with the flow, causing rough running.

Shell scientists don't let that happen with Super Shell. When hot weather threatens, they adjust Super Shell's 9-ingredient formula to give it the correct volatility for smooth summer driving.

Test #3. Reserve power

On a turnpike, in light traffic, accelerate suddenly from about thirty miles an hour to the legal limit. Now ask yourself:

1. Did your car accelerate smoothly—with no faltering, no bogging down?

2. Do you have plenty of power to spare?

If you feel you've "run out of engine," it's time to do something about it.

Super Shell may be your answer. It contains TCP,* to help restore power lost to combustion chamber deposits.

And another Super Shell ingredient, called Platformate, contains components that release 11 per cent more energy than the finest 100-octane aviation gasoline.

Test #4. Knock

Accelerate up a long, steep hill and listen carefully.

"If you hear a sound like marbles falling into an empty oil drum," says John Watson, "you've got knock. It could cause your engine trouble."

Take no chances. Switch to Super Shell. Its formula includes no less than three ingredients to fight the various causes of knock.

Test #5. Miles per gallon

Don't trust your fuel gauge when you measure miles per gallon. Take these three simple steps and be sure.

1. Start your test by filling your tank. Make sure the gasoline comes up to the brim. Write down your mileage reading.

2. Drive in your normal manner for at least three tankfuls. Keep a record of the exact amount you buy.

3. Finally, fill your tank to the brim again. Add up all the gallons you've bought (not counting the initial fill-up in step 1.) Divide this amount into your total miles driven. This gives you your average miles per gallon.

Try this test with three tankfuls of Super Shell. You may be pleasantly surprised.

Super Shell's 9 ingredients

Here's a brief rundown of all nine ingredients in today's Super Shell—and what they do to give your car top performance.

#1. TCP additive, to restore up to 15 per cent of lost power, and add up to 17 extra miles per tankful.

#2. "Cat-cracked" gasoline, the super-octane ingredient for power with a purr.

#3. Alkylate, noted for knock control in hot engines.

#4. Anti-knock mix, to give your engine extra knock resistance.

#5. Butane, for quick starts at any time.

#6. Pentane, for fast warm-ups.

#7. Anti-icer, added whenever carburetor icing becomes a problem.

#8. Gum preventive, to help keep carburetors clean inside.

#9. Platformate, the super-energy ingredient for extra mileage.

Why not test Super Shell in your car? You'll see what top performance really is.

Think It Through

MONROE DOCTRINE—SECOND HALF

The other day, this column congratulated President Kennedy for reaffirming the Monroe Doctrine in strong, clear words. But, in his rebuttal to the President, Senor Khrushchev said in substance that if we interfere in the Eastern Hemisphere, he can interfere in the Western Hemisphere.

E. F. Hutton

The sad fact is that when we abandoned our historic foreign policy of neutrality for world-saving crusades, we put our feet in the flypaper.

For there were two parts to the Monroe Doctrine. The first is well known,—no intervention by European powers in the Western Hemisphere. But President Monroe also said: "In the wars of the European powers in matters relating to themselves we have never taken any part, nor does it comport with our policy to do so. . . . Our policy in regard to Europe . . . is not to interfere in the internal concerns of any of its powers."

We ourselves scuttled this second half of the Monroe Doctrine in 1917, when we entered World War I. It is useless now to argue that this was right or wrong. It was done. But we have now got ourselves so involved in a hundred conflicting situations all over the world, that we no longer have a clear, clean answer to give to any major questions of foreign policy.

The peace and independence of the Western Hemisphere should have been our prime objective. The Latin-American countries feel we have neglected them in favor of Asians and Africans.

Negroes' Passive Action Over Segregation Is Considered

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP)—Negroes' efforts to end segregation in the South through direct but passive action—such a sit-ins and bus rides by Negroes and white sympathizers—raises a haunting question.

Would this country be closer to total desegregation if a quarter century ago Negroes had begun their present tactics instead of deciding on the long, slow road through the courts?

Back in the 1930s the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People instead of direct action, began a fight, step by painful step through the courts to have segregation declared unconstitutional.

Before ever trying to get the court to outlaw public school segregation, a truly explosive area, the NAACP fought to get schools on the higher levels desegregated through court action.

As long ago as 1946 the court outlawed segregation on interstate buses, although you might not think so in view of the white mob riots last week in Alabama over buses carrying so-called "freedom riders" of whites and Negroes.

Crowning Achevement

The NAACP's crowning achievement was the Supreme Court's May 17, 1954 decision against public school segregation. All the court's previous anti-segregation rulings didn't have the impact of this.

Out of it flowed the bitterest Southern white antagonism, the determination to make a last-ditch fight in defiance of the court, the Little Rock riots of 1957 and, as an end product, the Alabama riots last week.

Negroes became more confident of breaking down all the Southern segregation barriers with the government now compelled to intervene, even with federal troops, to back up the authority of the court.

Bit by bit the NAACP lost its role as the almost exclusive champion and spokesman for Negroes. Other Negro groups came into existence determined to fight faster and more directly against all forms of desegregation.

This is particularly true among Southern Negro students who took the non-violent but still direct action of picketings and sitins. The first big example of the new policy came about six years ago in Montgomery, Ala.

There Negroes put an economic squeeze on the white-dominated city by boycotting the buses. New Negro leaders, operating outside the NAACP, emerged, like the Rev. Martin Luther King who led the bus boycott.

Original Question Remains

But the original question still remains: Would Negroes have moved faster toward desegregation if they had chosen the direct action road 25 years ago instead of the slower course taken by the NAACP? This writer thinks no.

For this reason: The psychological climate wasn't right. Neither were the circumstances.

1. Africa was still a collection of European colonies. Only in recent years have African Negroes begun to assert themselves and gain independence. This gave encouragement to Negroes everywhere to fight directly for their rights.

2. The United States, seeking to lead the non-Communist world, is made self-conscious every time there is an anti-Negro outburst in this country.

3. The Supreme Court decisions against segregation have split Southerners' thinking, even of those who may favor segregation but realize there can be only anarchy if the court's rulings are ignored or violated.

4. The court's rulings, coming one at a time over years, have conditioned both the country and the South into realization that segregation had to end.

5. The court itself, more than 60 years ago, had approved segregation and considered it constitutional so long as segregated Negroes got treatment equal to that given whites. They did not, of course.

But with the Supreme Court on the side of segregation, Negroes were handcuffed. Any demonstrations could have been suppressed on the ground they were violating state segregation laws. The government could have done little or nothing to help, until the Supreme Court reversed itself.

6. Now the situation is different. With the court throwing out various Southern segregation laws, the federal government can back up Negroes protesting segregation, as it did in Little Rock and on the buses.

How $11 Million Plant Will Look When Completed

Artist's sketch shows North American plant at Catskill with proposed changes. Modernization this year will cost in excess of $2,385,000 with the overall remodeling cost totaling $11 million. Loading dock and causeway is reported to have top priority. Construction is expected to start this summer.

Rocky, Meyner Discuss Center, Tax Not Topic

NEWARK, N. J. (AP) — The governors of New York and New Jersey discussed the future of the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad and a proposed World Trade Center in New York City Tuesday night.

But New Jersey's Gov. Robert B. Meyner and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller of New York insisted after the dinner meeting that the subject of New Jersey's commuter benefit income tax did not come up.

The three-hour private meeting at Newark Airport was attended by members of the New York and New Jersey legislatures, by representatives of the Port of New York Authority and by counsel for the governors.

The discussion, the governors said, was strictly about the proposed construction by the Port Authority of a $300 million World Trade Center in downtown New York City and the Port Authority's bid to buy and operate the bankrupt Hudson & Manhattan Railroad.

The New York Legislature has passed and Rockefeller has signed a bill putting in one package authorization for the authority to buy the railroad and to build the trade center.

New Jersey must concur in any such authorization, but New Jersey legislators have balked at linking the two projects.

Ike's Brother Bemoans Critics Of Tractor Swap

BALTIMORE (AP)—Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower says he is "saddened and surprised" at criticism of the tractor-prisoner swap with Fidel Castro being negotiated by a group of American citizens.

Eisenhower, brother of former President Dwight D. Eisenhower and president of John Hopkins University, is co-chairman of a drive to raise $15 million for tractors.

"By whatever name you call it," he said Tuesday, "the central problem is 1,214 decent people. I don't see how Americans can refuse a call for help."

Youths Battle Over Use of Playground

SAVANNAH, Ga. (AP)—Open warfare over use of city park playground facilities has resulted in the arrest of several participants.

A baseball diamond was the battleground Tuesday night as some 20 Negro and white youths fought with fists and knives. One white youth, identified as Jimmy Martin, 21, received a minor knife wound before police broke up the disturbance and arrested several of the battlers.

The officers said the trouble apparently began when the Negroes sought to use the ball park formerly reserved for white persons.

Select Audiences

DETROIT (AP) — New York's Metropolitan Opera Co., won't play before segregated audiences in the South any more.

Rudolf Bing, the Met's general manager, said Tuesday the company "can't afford" to do so.

Bing said he had informed patrons in Atlanta and Dallas, where the Met makes regular stops, that it could no longer give performances in those cities.

Policeman Turns Robber

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—A policeman who said he turned robber to finance a June honeymoon is charged with two loan company holdups.

Donald Earl Garner, 22, was arrested Tuesday shortly after $234 was taken at gunpoint from a suburban loan company office. The same place was robbed of $400 in February.

To Modernize Catskill Mill

Cement Firm Plans Spending Over $2 Million This Year

The large-scale modernization project at the Catskill North American Division of Marquette Cement Manufacturing Company, Chicago, Ill., will cost in excess of $11 million with $2,385,000 to be expended this year, according to plans announced at a recent stockholders meeting.

The North American Cement Corp. became a division of Marquette in January when stockholders of both Marquette and North American approved the merger.

At the time of the meeting, W. A. Wecker, president of Marquette, said the $11 million modernization program will increase the capacity at North American by 50 per cent.

The project will start some time this year at the limestone crushing plant with partial replacement of the existing crushers to increase output. The present system of transporting stone from crusher to plant will be replaced by a modern continuous conveyor. New feeding devices will be added in the raw grinding department to accurately proportion limestone and other materials.

The eight existing small mills for wet grinding the raw materials will be replaced by one huge mill of much greater capacity. Increased storage and improved blending facilities for the raw mixture will be provided.

To Have One Big Kiln

The five old kilns will be replaced by a single large kiln and high-efficiency cooler capable of producing in excess of 2,500,000 barrels of clinker annually. Two large mills with ample capacity to grind the entire clinker will replace six small grinding mills.

The existing craneway for storing and handling raw materials and clinker will be completely modernized. Additional storage silos for clinker and other materials will also be provided.

The latest regulatory devices will be installed throughout the system to insure uniform quality and high burning efficiency. These will include X-ray systems for rapid automatic chemical analysis, self-regulating feeders and closed circuit television to permit control from central points.

To Reduce Costs 47 Per Cent

These and other related improvements will result in a 50 per cent increase in capacity, with larger reductions in fuel, power and labor costs. Altogether, operating costs are expected to be reduced 47 per cent.

Included in the program is a dock on the Hudson River connected to land by a 3,600-foot causeway. Cement destined for the distributing plants will be loaded onto barges and ships from this dock, and fuel and other waterborne materials will be received there.

The Catskill plant was built in 1912 on the west bank of the Hudson, 115 miles from New York City. The plant with 1,650,000 barrels annual capacity lies close to a geologically complex ridge of limestone which parallels the river. Current drilling explorations show that the limestone reserve there is ample for at least 50 years of expanded plant operations.

This coupled with an ideal riverfront location for shipping cement by low-cost water transport, led to the decision to completely modernize the plant and greatly increase its capacity.

Scheduled This Year

The $2,385,000 to be expended this year will include $756,280 for rock crushing plant alterations and conveyor; $10,000 for alteration of material storage and handling craneway; $231,750 for raw and finish grinding and blending equipment; $203,250 for clinker burning and cooling equipment; $25,000 for power distribution system and $1,158,720 for river dock and cement loading facilities.

The emphasis will be on earliest possible completion of the cement loading dock on the river so that water movement of cement to the new distributing plant in New York may be started this summer.

Harris Roberts is plant superintendent at Catskill.

Demand Stressed

The greater demand for cement was apparent in the announcement of expansion plans by the two other Catskill-Saugerties area plants and the start of a new $64 million plant at Ravena Friday where Governor Rockefeller participated in groundbreaking ceremonies. The new plant is expected to produce 10 million barrels of cement annually by 1963. Atlantic Cement Company will operate the plant near the Albany County village.

Alpha Portland Cement Company at Cementon, Greene County, earlier this year, completed a series of new silos costing about $2 million, increasing its finished product capacity.

A $12 million expansion project is now in progress at Lehigh Portland Cement Company at Alsen which includes construction of a new kiln and tube finishing mill, 20 new silos and installation of four hoppers. The move doubled the capacity of the plant to more than 2,000 barrels.

June Allyson Is Improving After Second Operation

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Actress June Allyson is recovering from her second throat operation within a month.

Her physician said her condition was fine after Tuesday's surgery, and added: "It was just what we expected, a polyp. Everything went well and she'll be out in a couple of days—whenever she wants to leave."

Miss Allyson, who was divorced Jan. 31 from TV actor-producer Dick Powell, underwent a similar operation April 27.

JFK Backing Seen For Tractor Swap

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Kennedy was reported today to have taken a personal hand in the behind-the-scenes maneuvers which led to the creation of the "Tractors for Freedom" committee to free captured Cuban invaders.

Authoritative sources said Kennedy was deeply interested in securing freedom for the anti-Castro prisoners if possible.

The three leading figures on the committee — Walter Reuther, Eleanor Roosevelt and Dr. Milton Eisenhower--have refused to confirm or deny they had been in contact with Kennedy. But Reuther reported a "green light" from unspecified Washington officials.

While various departments maintained an official hands-off position, Kennedy's encouragement was seen in a variety of indirect aids from different federal agencies that indicated White House backing.

A Coast Guard plane provided transport for prisoner representatives.

The State Department made plain it would waive the Cuban embargo to let the tractors through.

On the other hand, House Speaker Sam Rayburn of Texas said Kennedy told congressional leaders at a White House conference Tuesday that the government "is out of it and is going to stay out."

Many New Yorkers Will Never See Tornado Like Liberty Had

By ROBERT MARKOWITZ

ALBANY, N. Y. (AP)—Mother nature wields a tornado much like a crazed-man wielding a knife—suddenly and violently.

While the incision left upon the earth may be small, the impact is often total—destruction and death.

Two separate tornadoes, five days and several hundred miles apart, barrelled across New York State this month, flattening buildings in the Western hamlet of Ashford Hollow and leaving the Southeastern community of Liberty in a state of disaster.

The tornadoes were numbers 103 and 104, respectively, to strike the state since 1831.

Last year, in June, the funnel-shaped cloud spun a trail of destructon through Rotterdam, Schenectady, Niskayuna, and Crescent. More than 100 families were left homeless and damage was estimated at at least $3 million.

Miraculously, there were no deaths.

In Schenectady one entire home was swept up and carried 100 feet away, where it was piled in a mountain of debris.

Fourteen persons received minor injuries in that storm.

Really Rolled Over

This year, on May 10, a tornado raked and uprooted a section of Southeastern New York in less than an hour. Homes and farm buildings in Liberty looked as though they had been rolled over by something from science fiction.

The main swath was in an area a quarter of a mile wide stretching the five miles from Bradley to Ferndale and passing through the townships of Liberty and Fallsburgh, all in Sullivan County.

Two resort hotels, unoccupied—one in Liberty and the other in Ferndale—were moved off their foundations.

Again, there were no deaths. The Weather Bureau records report six tornadoes took 12 lives between 1831 and 1954. There have been no deaths since.

For many, the tornado is something unreal. Most New Yorkers never will see nor ever experience a tornado, the Weather Bureau says.

"It sounds like the roar of hundreds of airplanes," is the way some who have been close-by have described it. Thunder clouds gather and then suddenly a cloud begins to bulge earthward, as if heavy laden.

When the tornado forms it may look like a rope spinning down from the cloud, or it may be barrel-shaped, or like a huge elephants trunk.

Most tornadoes are less than a block wide. Their area is limited. Their path is usually less than five miles long. Rain and hail often are dragged along the path.

The time of the year for tornadoes in New York is usually during the warm months—May through September. They strike between 2 and 9 p. m., with greatest frequency between 3 and 7.

Most sections of the state have been struck by tornadoes at some time or other. The Weather Bureau says there is some evidence that Central and Western counties get more than other areas.

In 1912, three persons were killed in a tornado that struck Syracuse. In 1945, Jamestown was left in shambles—with damage estimated at $5 million—by a tornado.

The only other extensive damage since then was in Schenectady last year.

Mostly Matter of Luck

The Weather Bureau says there have been no increases in the number of tornadoes in the state. But they do feel improved communications have resulted in more being reported.

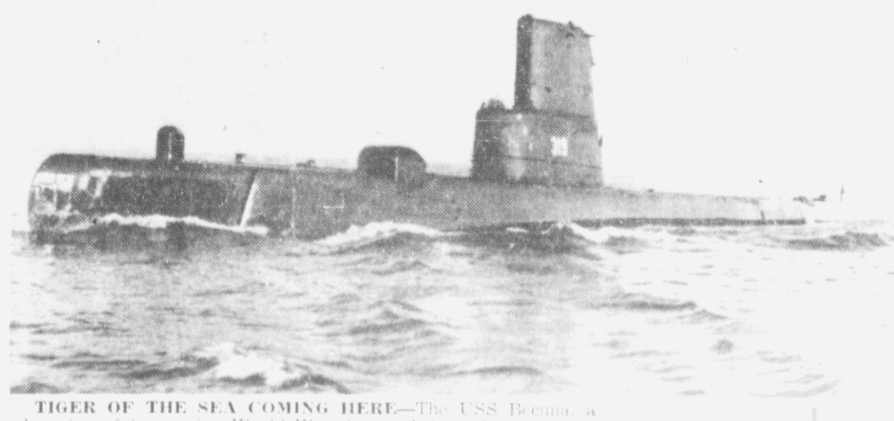

Today, also, radar stations are used by the Weather Bureau across the state. It is often possible to track and warn of an oncoming tornado before disaster strikes.

But even in this age of science, the Weather Bureau admits that the outcome is often a matter of luck.

Mountains and buildings hide the tornado's path. And the only certain safe escape from the spinning cloud is in a basement. Last year, in the Schenectady area, few, if any, persons took refuge there. And yet no one was killed.

Why?

Better ask Mother Nature that.

TIGER OF THE SEA COMING HERE—The USS Becuna, a submarine of impressive World War 2 record, is to be here over Memorial Day, Mayor Edwin F. Radel announced today. It is due here May 27 and will be moored at the Newcombe dock where Lt. Cmdr. Robert H. Flood and his crew will be hosts to an "open house" public inspection of the craft. The mayor and members of the Common Council and other officials are due to ride the submarine from Brooklyn Navy Yard from where it is due to leave early next Saturday. It is expected to be here and ready for public inspection by 3 p. m. The crew of the Becuna has been invited to participate in the city's Memorial Day parade.

Choose Gay, Bright Colors For Outdoor Living Area

Color for any outdoor living area (porch or terrace) rates careful planning. A can of paint can work wonders in unifying a miscellaneous collection of furniture. The exterior of the house is usually the background for such furniture so it is a determining factor in choosing color.

This is the place for true gaiety. If there is a profusion of flowers nearby, perhaps gleaming white would be best for the furniture. Or, you might pick apple green, geranium pink or marigold yellow. Gray iron furniture or even seafoam green or pale blue might be pretty. Keep in mind the coloring of awnings, garden umbrellas and chair pads.

Dear Polly: I need advice on furnishing a lake cottage. I have little imagination but can tell if things look right. My husband will be furious if I have not made up my mind when he wants to go shopping. I had considered natural wood cabinets for the small kitchen that has sliding doors on the lake side. I would like a plan because I will get all new furniture. Because there is only one bedroom, a hidden bed will be necessary. I thought dining chairs might fit as extra living room chairs.—Mrs. L. D. R.

Dear Mrs. L. D. R.: Living and dining room walls in your lake cottage could be white with heavy striped canvas or cotton draw curtains in green, blue, white with a touch of black. A green or blue plastic type fabric would be practical for the sofa bed. Repeat the stripes for seat and back pads on a pair of black rattan easy chairs. Tables could be white with white plastic tops. A black rattan dining group could have sky blue plastic pads on the seats. White column lamp bases with simple black or green paper shades would be smart. Have a black-and-white fiber rug for the floor. Sky blue kitchen walls would complement natural cabinets with copper pulls. Have white counter tops.

Dear Polly: I have made a mess of my living room after saving and waiting for five years! I bought a coral couch and chair and slip covered an old chair in brown. New rug is light beige. Walls and drapes are beige and woodwork and lamps are white. It looks dull and lifeless. I want to know what color for two more chairs. Dining room is the same.—Faithful Reader.

Dear Faithful Reader: Slip cover those two chairs in natural linen with a design of coral flowers and green leaves. Try a piece of the fabric in the room to see what it does. If a sample length is not available, it might pay to buy a yard before making too hasty a selection. Change those dining room chair seats to coral and green stripes.

Dear Reader: A heavy volume of mail doesn't permit Mrs. Cramer to answer her letters and post cards individually. But she will comment in her column on decorating problems of general interest. She cannot undertake to return floor plans or fabric swatches which are enclosed with letters.

9 PC Go for Kennedy Plan

7,576 Farmers in New York To Grow Less Corn for Feed

WASHINGTON (AP) —Despite opposition of some New York Republican congressmen to the plan, about 9 per cent of the Empire State's farmers have indicated a willingness to take part in the Kennedy administration's feed-grain program.

The agriculture department, in its latest review of the new program, said 7,576 farmers in New York have agreed to grow less corn for feed this year than they did last year.

This represents about 21 per cent of the 35,529 New York farms eligible to take part in the program and about 9 per cent of all farms in the state — 82,352 as of 1959.

Those New Yorkers who plan to participate in the program told the department they would divert about 100,000 acres from corn feed production during 1961.

Large Payment

This would mean, the department said, that the 7,576 farmers could be paid a total of $1,773,071 in advance subsidies this spring.

The feed grain program provides for subsidies in cash and in surplus government grain for each farmer who diverts at least 20 per cent of his feed-grain acreage to other crops.

Some New York Republican members of congress criticized the Democratic program while it was being studied by Congress. They said it would be of little use to New Yorkers and actually would raise prices for many Empire State farmers.

Keating's Reference

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y. refers to the move of the Brooklyn Dodgers and New York Giants baseball teams to Los Angeles and San Francisco, respectively, as "aid to athletically depressed areas."

Indians Honored

The Interior Department has formally honored five of the six Iroquois Indian nations by naming Mohawk River islands after them.

In addition, the department's Board on Geographic Names designated a half-mile long peninsula in the Mohawk River at Schenectady as Iroquois Peninsula. It formerly had been known as Van Slyck Island.

It designated five small islands in the river at Schenectady as Isle of the Cayugas (formerly Hog Island), Isle of the Mohawks (No former name), Isle of the Oneidas (formerly Daley Island, Eldrich Island or Eldridge Island), Isle of the Onondagas (formerly Big Island), and Isle of the Senecas (formerly Little Island).

Other Name Changes

Other New York names changes approved by the board:

Farrington Pond — formerly known as Farrington's pond in Fairfield County, Conn., and Putnam County, N.Y., about 4½ miles northwest of Danbury, Conn.

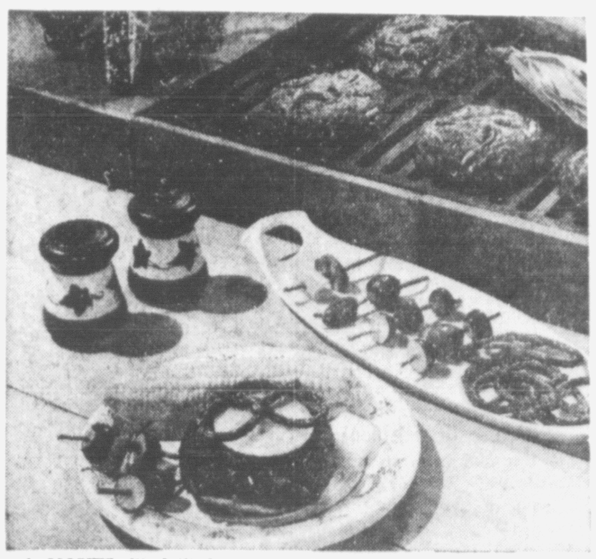

Millen Bay —A settlement on Millen Bay on the St. Lawrence River about six miles downstream from Cape Vincent Village. It has been known as Millens Bay, River View and Riverview.

Stannards — A village about three miles southeast of Wellsville, formerly called Stannard, Stanard, Stannard Corners, Stannards Corners).

Pretzels Join the Outdoor Barbecue

A NOVEL "twist" for an outdoor barbecue: pretzel bits are mixed with hamburger meat, then grilled to perfection.

GAYNOR MADDOX
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

To celebrate this Pretzelennial year, the 100th anniversary of pretzel making in the United States (although popular in the old world for over 13 centuries), we've invited them to our outdoor barbecue. Like any good guest, they add to the fun of the party.

Pretzel-Burgers
(6 servings)

1½ pounds ground beef
¼ teaspoon freshly ground pepper
1 cup coarsely crumbled pretzels (about 18 thin, twisted pretzels)
2 eggs, beaten
2 tablespoons instant minced onion flakes
1/3 cup milk, tomato juice or soup stock
¼ cup pickle relish
Barbecue sauce, if desired
6 thin slices Bermuda onion
6 thin twisted pretzels
3 toasted hamburger buns, buttered

Combine first seven ingredients; mix lightly and shape into 6 patties. Grill over glowing coals, allowing 4 to 5 minutes to each side. Turn once with long-handled tongs or pancake turner. If desired, brush burgers with barbecue sauce at the start of grilling and after turning the meat. Top each burger with a thin onion slice and a pretzel before serving on hot, toasted and buttered bun half.

Note: To keep the meat moist and juicy-tender, you may moisten both sides of pretzel-burgers with a few drops of cold water just before grilling. Pretzel-burgers may be mixed ahead of cooking and kept refrigerated, well-wrapped in heavy-duty aluminum foil.

B&P Club Hears Teacher on Local Folklore, History

The Business and Professional Women's Club of the YWCA was entertained at its recent meeting by Miss Agnes Scott Smith with tales of Ulster County folklore. Miss Smith mentioned several Indian tales, some of them handed down in her own family, spoke of the famous Dr. Oliver of Marbletown who lived during the Revolutionary War period, of the strong beliefs in witchcraft held in this area and the celebrated witch doctors here, and of the thriving town of Eddyville during the heyday of the Delaware and Hudson Canal. Miss Smith noted that the present Schools 2 and 4 had special "canalers rooms" where the boys and young men who worked on the canals made life miserable for their teachers during their three or four months of schooling each year. She also told an amusing tale of the community of Eagles Nest in Hurley.

On Wednesday, the Club will have its annual Guest Night when members are invited to bring their friends. Coach House Players will present a one-act play. Dinner will be served at 6:30 p. m.

Large Attendance Expected for June Class Reunion Here

More than 200 members of the Kingston High School Class of 1941, their wives and husbands, are expected to attend 20th anniversary reunion events Friday and Saturday, June 9 and 10.

Registration and a get-acquainted party will be held Friday at the Governor Clinton Hotel, beginning at 8 p. m.

A banquet is scheduled for Saturday at the Wiltwyck Country Club at 7:30 p. m. There will be a short entertainment program with Howard C. St. John as master of ceremonies, followed by dancing to the music of James Sweeney and his orchestra.

Deadline for banquet reservations is May 31. Reservations chairman is Donald J. Sweeney of Codwise Street, Sunset Park.

Albert O. Sonnenberg, reunion co-chairman, emphasized today that although more than 200 indicated on preliminary questionnaires that they plan to attend the reunion banquet, definite reservations must be made by returning ticket money prior to deadline date. The number of reservations is limited by the size of the banquet hall and there will be no extension of reservations beyond the May 31 date, he said.

Committee members working with Mrs. Lillian Weeks Hopper, research chairman, have succeeded in locating all but about 20 of the 421-member class, the largest graduating class up to its time and the last pre-war class to be graduated.

A total of 198 classmates were found still to be living in the Kingston area, and another 61 elsewhere in New York State. Others had scattered to almost every state and there are classmembers living in Paris, France; Orleans, France; China, and Batangas, Philippines.

Expecting to attend the reunion is former High School Principal Clarence L. Dumm, who wrote Reunion Committee Secretary Mrs. Louise Leonard Taylor that he hopes to make the trip here from his farm at Mill Hall, Pa.

Miss Jacqueline Patricia DuBois, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward DuBois of 17 Prospect Street, this city, wed Louis John Fisher, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Fisher, 19 Liberty Street, in a double ring ceremony on Sunday, May 14, at St. Joseph's Church, this city.

Officiating was the Rev. William E. Williams. Mrs. Frank Rafferty was organist and Donald Sweeney, soloist. Selections included "Mother Beloved" and "Ave Maria."

White gladioli decorated the church for the occasion. The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Donald Smith of 46 Adams Street. It was styled with a circlet neckline, abbreviated sleeves and a bouffant ballerina skirt. The gown featured a flat bow at the back waistline. A crown of seed pearls held a matching blue veil. She carried a white basket of dark pink carnations with pink, blue and white snapdragons and fern.

Attendants were Mrs. Enis Fisher, the bridegroom's sister-in-law, and Joan Hinkley of Kingston. They wore gowns of romance blue, ballet length, with cummerbunds and flat back bows. They carried white baskets of light pink carnations, pink, blue and white snapdragons with fern.

The bride's niece, Bonnie Blubaker of West Hurley, served as flower girl in a ballet length blue peau taffeta fashioned with a lace edged collar and bouffant skirt accented with a wide sash. She also wore a matching ruffled bonnet and carried a white basket of light pink carnations, pink, blue and white snapdragons and fern.

The bridegroom's brother, Peter Fisher of St. Remy, served as best man. Ushering were Thomas Farrell of Kingston and Frederick Scott Baker of West Hurley, the bride's brother-in-law. The bride's nephew, George Thomas DeCicco Jr., of East Kingston was the child ringbearer.

Guests were received at a reception given in the Elks Club on Fair Street.

Wallkill Central School Concert Set For Friday, June 2

A new approach for a Spring Concert at the elementary school level is being planned in the Wallkill Central School District this year. The elementary music department will present for the public a concert made up of the combined choruses and instrumental students of the Plattekill, Leptondale and Wallkill Elementary Schools. This concert will be held in the Wallkill Central High School Auditorium on Friday, June 2, at 7:30 p. m.

A 60-piece elementary band, made up of the elementary instrumental students in grades four, five and six throughout the district has been assembled under the direction of J. Palmer Henderson and William Terwilliger, instrumental instructors. Each of the named instructors will conduct four band selections by the combined group.

James Schoeller, elementary vocal music director, has assembled from the three schools a 160 voice chorus. This group is also made up of students from grades four, five and six. A very interesting group of vocal selections have been specially arranged by Mr. Schoeller for this concert. The program will consist of American music from early history to the present time. Several solo voices will be featured with the chorus.

This concert will be the first attempt in the district of combining the elementary music talent. A very worthwhile and entertaining program is expected.

Benefit Ball Will Be Given in Sports Palace This Saturday; Home of Mrs. Vincent Astor

Ferncliff, Mrs. Vincent Astor's home in Rhinebeck, will be the setting on Saturday for the Spring Ball, the first benefit event for the Hudson Valley Philharmonic.

Mrs. Astor's home is a building once called the "Tennis House," one of the very few privately owned sports palaces in this country. The main house on the Astor estate was demolished in 1945. At that time the family moved into the remodelled tennis house.

Although the former sports palace is now a home, it still has a huge indoor croquet court — the former tennis court — and an indoor swimming pool. These were the first privately owned indoor tennis court and swimming pool in the United States. The room which will serve as ballroom for the Spring Ball is a tremendous entrance hall, large enough to have been decorated, the last time the Spring Ball Committee met there, with 100 bouquets of fresh flowers.

When the tennis house was built in 1903, there was probably no more elegant, and no more exclusive, sport than court tennis. Court tennis originated in the 14th century and was revived in the 19th here and in Europe. In 1876 the first court was opened in the U. S. The building of these courts was so prohibitively expensive that no more than a handful were ever built by private citizens. The court and the game are quite unlike tennis as the game is played on outdoor courts. It is played on a cement court surrounded by walls 30 feet high. The player must play the surface of the floor, the walls and the ceiling to put the ball out of reach of his opponent.

The name of Stanford White, architect of this building, became a headliner when he was shot and killed in 1906 by Harry K. Thaw, because of trouble over Thaw's wife. But White had already made a name as an architect; his accomplishments include the original Madison Square Garden, Madison Square Presbyterian Church, the Herald Square Building, and — still standing—the Washington Arch and the Century Club, all in New York City. The Astor sports palace is a lovely illustration of White's concentration on rich and graceful effects and beautifully sculptured Renaissance ornament. To build the tennis house, he imported skilled Italian workmen, whose craft was particularly needed for the elaborate ceilings.

The Astor family has long been associated with Rhinebeck. John Jacob was born there in 1864. He served in the Spanish American War and was drowned in the Titanic disaster. Vincent Astor was one of his sons. The Astor estate will make a handsome setting for one of the biggest social events of the area, the Spring Ball.

U. S. teen-agers spend nearly $7 billion of their own money annually.

GIRLS REHEARSE FOR WOODSTOCK PAGEANT—Among those entered in the Miss Woodstock competition are (l-r) Augusta Jane Anderson of Port Ewen; Pamela Postle, New Paltz; Cynthia Jessup, Poughkeepsie; Jeanette Miller, Troy; Carol Winkelstern, Susan Hemminger, and Louise DeVito, all of State University College of Education at New Paltz. The pageant is scheduled to begin at 8 p. m. and will be held in the Woodstock Playhouse. Winner will compete in the Miss New York State Finals and ultimately in the Miss America contest.

Miss Woodstock Pageant Set for Saturday; Program Will Offer Top Entertainment

Heywood "Woody" Broun, noted Broadway actor will be master of ceremonies at the Miss Woodstock Pageant to be held in the Woodstock Playhouse Saturday, at 8 p. m. Sponsored by the Woodstock Junior Chamber of Commerce, all proceeds will be used by the Jaycees for Woodstock area projects.

Mr. Broun has been seen on Broadway in "The Bells Are Ringing," "The Andersonville Trial," and "Send Me No Flowers." He was also seen in the Woodstock Playhouse productions last year of "The Disenchanted" and "Look Homeward Angel." Mr. Broun has also appeared with Judy Holiday in "It Should Happen to You."

Before deciding to be an actor, Mr. Broun was a journalist, following in the footsteps of his famous father, Heywood Broun. He is a long-time Woodstock resident, maintaining a home in the community.

The Pageant will also feature Pat Muller, talented dancer. Retired from the Broadway stage where she was a featured dancer in "Bloomer Girl," "Allegro," "Arms and the Girl," and lead dancer in "17," "Pal Joey" and "Oklahoma," she now operates a successful dance school.

Highlight of the evening will be the selection of Miss Woodstock. Some of the contestants entered to date are as follows:

Augusta Jane Anderson—graduate of Kingston High School and attended University of Vermont. Miss Anderson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Anderson of Port Ewen. She has received special voice training and sung with several choirs. Miss Anderson's hobbies are horseback riding, singing and dramatics. She is 20 years old and plans to sing for the Pageant.

Pamela Elizabeth Postle — daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Postle of Lyndonville, N. Y., and graduate of Lyndonville Central School. Miss Postle, age 20, is a student at State University College of Education at New Paltz. She is a member of Theta Gamma Phi Sorority and lists photography, sewing and music as her hobbies. It is expected that Miss Postle will model some of her sewing projects for the talent portion of the pageant.

Cynthia Anne Jessup—age 24, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Clarke Jessup of Poughkeepsie. Miss Jessup is a graduate of Arlington High School and Ithaca College. During her junior year at Ithaca, she was chosen Princess of her class. Miss Jessup is a member of Delta Phi Zeta and has received special training in dancing, voice and drama. Last year she appeared in several Woodstock Playhouse productions. Among her hobbies she lists writing fiction, swimming, working with children and language study. For the talent portion of the show, Miss Jessup will do a ballet number from Swan Lake.

Jeannette Ruth Miller — age 20, and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Miller of Troy. A graduate of Troy High School, Miss Miller is now a student at Russell Sage College. She makes her own clothes, likes cooking and is especially interested in music and the theatre. Miss Miller will model clothes which she designed for the talent segment of the pageant.

Carol Lynn Winkelstern—daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Winkelstern of Lynbrook, L. I., the 21 year old contestant is a graduate of Lynbrook High School. She is now a student at State University College of Education at New Paltz. Miss Winkelstern is a member of The Clionian Sorority and has had six years study of the piano, tap and ballet. As a hobby she enjoys free-lance modeling, horseback riding, painting and swimming.

Susan Hemminger—student at State University College of Education, New Paltz, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Hemminger of Seaford, L. I. She is 18 years old and a member of The Clionian Sorority. Miss Hemminger has studied the organ and lists dancing and dramatics as her hobbies. She will do a special dance number for the pageant in Woodstock. Miss Hemminger is a graduate of Seaford High School in Long Island.

LWV Hears Panel Discussion on State Aid to Education

"State aid to education has been a patchwork quilt made up of legislative compromises—but many inequities will be ironed out this year," stated Dr. W. N. Hageny, professor of education at New Paltz, moderator of the Kingston League of Women Voters panel discussion on "Financing Education in New York State."

The other panelists included Dr. Earl Soper, who presented clearly and concisely the formula used for determining State Aid in a given area. Kingston received this past year, 44 per cent from the State, 54 per cent locally, and 2 per cent from the Federal government.

Lester Roosa, district superintendent of schools explained that central districts are composed of groups with social, economic and common interests—often they are formed of several townships in perhaps different counties. They are subject to State Aid in the same manner as a city school system based on WADA (Weighted Average Daily Attendance), or if the district is a wealthy one, their aid is a flat grant. The central district has two additional forms of revenue, a building quota and a transportation quota.

Mrs. Robert Greene, Board of Education member of the Onteora School System, explained that the amount of State Aid and the local school tax depend on the assessed valuation of real property within the district. A complete overhaul of the assessment system is needed to provide true equality. The State Equalization Board does a spot check annually in each locality which often points out inequities.

Mrs. Edward DeGroff, education chairman of the League of Women Voters, and her committee arranged the meeting. Mrs. Morton Zucker is membership chairman and anyone interested in the League may call her. Membership is open to all women of voting age.

Add Sprinkling of Men And Zing—Gals Perk Up

RUTH MILLETT
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

In Nottingham, England, a new 160-room hotel designed for bachelor girls stood nearly empty for four months. Then the owners took some smart pills and announced that the hotel would also accept men. With the announcement the place was flooded with women wanting rooms.

The hotel owner shouldn't have been surprised. If there is anything drearier for a woman than to live alone it is having to live in a strictly female dwelling.

There is something depressing to a woman in being one of a crowd of women—for in that crowd she has the feeling that she has lost her own identity.

And just to add a little excitement to the over-all drabness, when a bunch of women live together they form little cliques devoted to the sole purpose of talking about each other. It's depressing for a woman to be in such a clique—and even more depressing not to be in one.

But the scene brightens and changes for the better when there are a few men around. Just the presence of men changes the background and the feeling in the air.

The depression lifts, the women perk up, and suddenly there is something more important to talk about than each other.

Women never out grow this feeling that an environment that is strictly female is deadly.

As one bright-eyed little old lady in a wheel chair once remarked, "The worst thing about living in an old ladies home is being around nothing but old ladies. Now if there were just a few old men around—it wouldn't be half so bad."

SAUGERTIES — Miss Regina Theresa Engelin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Engelin of Cementon, and William Robert Zimmermann, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Zimmermann of Leeds, were wed on Saturday, May 20, at 2 p. m. at St. Mary's Church in Cementon. The Rev. Philip Zingerelli, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The church was decorated for the occasion with vases of white gladioli and snapdragons. Mrs. Roy Potts was organist.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a full length gown of Chantilly lace and tulle. It featured a scalloped neckline and long sleeves tapered to points over the wrists. The bouffant skirt was fashioned with lace panels over ruffled tulle. Her crown secured a silk illusion veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of stephanotis with a white orchid center.

Miss Pamela Zimmerman, the bridegroom's sister, served as maid of honor in a Nile green taffeta full length gown with a modified scoop neck, and an empire bodice of lace. Her matching hat was shaped like a rose and it held a short flirtation veil. She carried a cascade bouquet of talisman roses and yellow daisies.

Serving as best man for the bridegroom was his classmate, Albert Notarnicola of Catskill. Ushers were Steven Bittner, cousin of the bridegroom, of East Durham, and Donald Rouse of Leeds.

The bride's mother was attired in a blue lace and chiffon dress with white accessories and wore a corsage of yellow roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a purple print silk sheath with lilac and purple accessories, and a corsage of yellow roses. The bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. D. Clinton of New York City, was dressed in a blue silk print dress and wore a corsage of pink roses.

A reception for approximately 70 guests was held immediately following the ceremony at Sarro's Restaurant in Catskill.

City Youth Hurt In Cycle Mishap After Visit Here

William Brennan, 18, son of Mrs. August Hof of 622 Broadway, was injured Sunday at 7 p. m. in a motorcycle-automobile collision near Putnam, Conn., while returning to a U. S. Navy base in Rhode Island where he is stationed.

According to available information the accident occurred when a car owned by a New Jersey man and operated by a friend, attempted to make a left turn. Brennan was unable to swerve to avoid a collision and collided with the car broadside. He was hurtled over the car.

Brennan was taken to a nearby hospital and treated for a severe laceration of the chin which required six sutures, a dislocated arm and severe leg injury. On Tuesday he was transferred to a Navy hospital.

The driver of the car was charged with reckless driving by Connecticut State Police.

Brennan, who has been in the Navy about a year, had been stationed aboard a ship until recently when he was granted a month's leave which he spent at home. He had been at a new station in Rhode Island for a weekend came home to pick up his motorcycle.

His condition was described as good today.

The youth's sister, Miss Barbara Brennan, is secretary to Stephen Hyatt at the MJM School.

Adams Says Six Ran U. S. After Ike's '55 Attack

NEW YORK (AP)—An unofficial committee of six ran the government during the two months following President Eisenhower's heart attack in 1955, says Sherman Adams.

The stand-in group, said Adams, consisted of himself, Vice President Richard M. Nixon, Secretary of State John Foster Dulles, Atty. Gen. Herbert Brownell, Treasury Secretary George Humphrey and presidential aide Wilton Persons.

Adams, who served as Eisenhower's assistant from 1952 to 1958, makes this disclosure in an installment of his memoirs, appearing in Life magazine.

Writing of the days following the first of three Eisenhower illnesses while he was in the White House, Adams says:

"There never was a move on the part of any of us to 'seize power' or to take an unwarranted action that Eisenhower would have disapproved. We made sure that normal activities of the government went on as usual."

Adams writes that after Eisenhower's heart attack in 1955, the President "placed in his file a letter to the vice president covering an understanding between them of the procedure that would be followed in the event of a presidential disability."

Adams said he never saw the agreement, but added that Eisenhower told him about it.

It provided, Adams writes, that "if the president became disabled, he would inform the vice president who would then serve as acting president until the period of disability ended."

Woodstock Area News

LISA TIANO, Correspondent

Onteora High School Band Gets Highest State Rating For Fourth Straight Year

The Onteora High School Symphonic Band has been notified that it received the highest rating that may be attained in New York State at the music competition held on May 13 at the Delaware Academy in Delhi.

The sixty piece band, under the direction of Harry Simon, received an "A" rating in grade six music. The annual competition is sponsored by the New York State School Music Association.

This marks the fourth consecutive year that the Onteora Symphmonic Band has attained the highest possible rating in the state.

The rating plan used in adjudicating bands, as presented in the New York State School Music Association Manual, is as follows: "Grade six music is intended for organizations of symphonic caliber. Music in grade six will meet the standards expected from the largest schools in the state with the largest enrollments. This grade is recommended for schools with excellent music organizations. A is to be considered an outstanding performance. Selected music is divided into six grade levels. For each grade of music, a group may receive an A, B, C or D. The highest any group can possibly receive is "A" in grade six music.

Judges at the Delhi competition were Curtis H. Acker, prominent Long Island music educator; Richard Smaldone, well known musician and music educator from Cornith, New York, and Donald Menz, the New York State School Music Association representative.

The Onteora Symphonic Band prepared the following numbers: "Chorale and Fugue", by Abert and Bach; "Symphony for Band", by Vincent Persichetti; "Moses" from (Portraits From The Bible) by Julian Work and the "Beaded Belts," concert march by Frank Erickson.

Judges' Comments

The band was marked in thirty-six different categories and received the remarkable sum of thirty-five "A's" out of a possible total of thirty-six. In the numerical scoring the band received 119 out of a possible total of 120 points.

Some of the comments made by the adjudicators about the march were: "This was very well done. Fine! I prefer a march to be subdued for the most part and you did this to perfection. Very crisp and clean, therefore, very thrilling! Intonation excellent — especially in the clarinets."

The judges had this to say about "Symphony For Band" by Vincent Persichetti: "I was particularly impressed by the section sounds. You are working together. This is as it should be. The changes from woodwinds to brass choir and back were very well done. Heard some very fine flute and french horn playing. All in all well done. Very subtle musical rendition of slow movement. Intonation is great. Tones are all excellent. Woodwinds should be proud of themselves. Nice flute sound. I liked particularly the splendid interplay of parts in the third movement."

Concerning the final number, "Moses" by Julian Work, the judges commented: "This was well done. Congratulations to all of you for a very fine job!"

The adjudicators comments to the students stated that they were fortunate to have Mr. Simon as their conductor and that they must be aware of this or they would not have played so well. This was followed by, "I consider it an honor to have listened to you."

The adjudicators comments to the director, Mr. Simon, are as follows: "This band is one of the finest groups I have ever been privileged to adjudicate. I would rate this band as one of the top three high school bands I have ever judged."

Barbara Moncure In OCS Concerts

The elementary youngsters at the Onteora Boiceville school had the great pleasure last week of hearing Mrs. Barbara Moncure in two folk song concerts; the first performed for the 4th through 6th grades; the second for the 1st through 3rd grades. Each program was distinctive and prepared for the specific age group.

The performances were outstanding, for Mrs. Moncure brought vitality, humor and warmth to her audience of young people. They shared in the program; the older group singing many of the songs, and the younger group not only singing but dramatizing or "acting out" the story. Each number was preceded with a short explanation of the background of the song which brought the youngsters personally closer to the meaning of folk music.

The genuine and enthusiastic response of the two groups of children is a tribute to the intelligently prepared and charmingly presented programs given by Mrs. Moncure.

The two performances were sponsored by the Cultural Arts Committee of the Onteora P-TA.

New Schedule Is Listed for Fall By School Board

Several important topics of discussion came before the members of the Board of Education at the special meeting Monday night in addition to the budget for the coming year, and the appointment of Gerald Snyder as business manager for the Saugerties Central School district.

The board concluded that the time schedule for attendance of pupils published approximately two weeks ago should be changed. Accordingly the following time schedule was adopted:

Full time schedules: Grades 1-4; Main Street, 8:55-2:55; Glasco 8:50-2:50; Mt. Marion, 8:40-2:40; High School, Grades 8-12; 8:08-3:13; Grade 7, 8:56-4.

Half-time schedules: Main Street, kindergarten: 8-10:15; 10:45-1; 1:45-4. Grades 5, 6; 8-12; 12:30-4:30.

Mt. Marion: Kindergarten; 8-10:15; 10:45-1; 1:35-3. Grades 5, 6; 8-12; 12:30-4:30.

Although this change in time schedule will necessitate some extra bus trips, it is estimated the additional cost to the district will be less than $1,000.

Parents of 15 pupils who desire transportation to non-public schools next year have submitted their requests and provisions for this transportation has been arranged since it falls within the 10-mile limit from home to school specified under the Speno Bill.

Murchison Declines Alleghany Decision Until Board Meets

By GEORGE BOWEN

NEW YORK (AP)—The battle is over and where do we go from here is the question today facing stockholders in the Alleghany Corp. who voted a change in command of an empire controlling $6.7 billion.

John D. Murchison, 39, the Texan who successfully led the dissidents in an uphill assault, declined to go beyond a hint of his wishes.

He deferred to a meeting today of his new board of directors virtually all decisions on the day-to-day operation of the holding corporation and any radical change in the use of the millions of dollars at its disposal.

The 35-year-old corporation has paid only one dividend of a nickel, ridiculed by Murchison, and that was at the height of the battle this year for control.

Murchison voiced only one dictatorial dictum Tuesday in Baltimore after he had won control of Alleghany by nearly 854,000 votes out of more than nine million cast in this century's biggest struggle on the financial field.

That was that Allan P. Kirby, 68, the power behind and in front of the Alleghany Corp. since 1937, has not and will not be offered a spot on the board of directors.

"It's up to him" to make any peace overture," Murchison said. Kirby is the biggest single individual stockholder in Alleghany with one-third of its shares.

The most pressing problem before the nine new directors of Alleghany, including John Murchison and his brother Clint, 37, is selection of a "chief executive officer," whether he be designated president or chairman.

John Murchison said nobody has been offered the post but that he hoped it "would be filled quickly."

OPERATION REDEVELOPMENT

Congress has passed and President Kennedy has signed a $451-million bill to aid economically depressed areas of the nation.

OBJECTIVE:

To help cities, towns and rural areas redevelop to attract new job-creating industries.

FIRST STEP:

The government must designate those localities which qualify as "depressed."

WHO BENEFITS:

CITIES AND TOWNS

Loans are available for . . .

- Sewers
- Water systems
- Job-training schools
- Other public facilities

BUSINESS

Loans are available to open plants in cities with high unemployment

ALSO,

in rural areas which have qualified for redevelopment.

INDIVIDUALS

Workers may get subsistence payments for up to 16 weeks while undergoing job retraining.

WHAT A COMMUNITY CAN DO:

- Pick an area for an industrial park.
- Plan for necessary facilities.
- Set up job-training school.

In other words, plan a "project package" covering all phases of redevelopment.

SPUR TO PROGRESS—A lot of people need jobs. About five million are out of work in the U.S. today, many of them long enough to have used up their unemployment compensation benefits. Overall, the economy is fairly prosperous, but nagging soft spots are scattered across the nation like a case of measles. Of 349 labor markets already surveyed by the Commerce Department, 110 areas in 28 states and Puerto Rico are suffering some degree of depression. The government intends to blast away at these depressed areas with a $451-million program to help businesses help themselves, to goad communities into action to revitalize themselves and attract new industry, and to aid unemployed workers learn new job skills. Main lines of this attack are listed above. The Commerce Department is in official control, but numerous other government agencies will take a hand in certain aspects. Success of the program, however, will depend in large part on the initiative and determination of the citizens of each local area.

Cost Called Worth the Try

Weather Modification Study Asked for Area

Freeman Staff Writer

Other weather changing attempts after those of Dr. Wallace E. Howell to make rain for New York City more than a decade ago, were made in the Hudson Valley, this time to benefit area fruit growers. Hail suppression projects were tried a few years ago. They ended generally with the belief that more science is required before definite results are determined. Quests for the best possible results continue, and new optimism is noted after the more recent experiments. This is the first of a series of articles on cloud seeding for hail suppression in the Hudson Valley, the greater projects in the west and elsewhere.

This review of weather modification for saving of crops, as tried not too long ago in our area, begins with the newsworthy promise o fnew Hudson Valley studies, which could bring convincing results here in the near future.

Dr. Vincent J. Schaefer, Schenectady research consultant, a recognized authority on studies dealing with cloud seeding for storm control, in forwarding a report on recent studies in the West, told of pending plans to gain helpful surveys in this area.

Advises Area Study

His recent letter said: "Similar studies should be made of our Hudson Valley storms, and perhaps this may be done in another year, if my plans at the State University College at Albany develop adequately." He noted that "considerable progress is being made in the study of the physical nature of hailstorms," and emphasized that "such information is essential, if adequate control is to be achieved."

This report is to deal largely with hail suppression techniques as practiced in the Hudson Valley area only a few years ago, but experts who have studied various weather modification methods also talk of reducing the "frequency of lightning strikes" as a means of preserving timber in the nation's more valuable forests.

Cloud seeding is a top romance with nature and stirs almost as much interest as space flight. If it becomes the big science it purports to be, we'll have much more than ordinary changes of weather to talk about one of these near years ahead.

Here, we are to deal with reports on area hail suppression experiments but they bring out accounts of such interesting and probably blind trys as the shooting of 250,000 rockets at some $12 a shot in Italy's Po Valley where it was thought farmers would benefit from such jolting of clouds.

A Big First

Such attempts seem to emphasize the need for a sound science in future attacks on the destructive barrages of hail and lightning, and an experiment slightly over a dozen years ago by Dr. Irving Langmuir, a Nobel prize winner, and Dr. Schaefer, his assistant, contributed much in leading the way.

Theirs was a big first in cloud seeding when they made snow by dropping dry ice pellets from an aircraft into a supercooled cumulus cloud. This was a culmination of several years of research at Mt. Washington, N. H., and by General Electric laboratories at Schenectady.

Not too long after this manmade snow Dr. Wallace E. Howell was hired by New York City to make rain for its badly depleted water supply, and his tries slightly more than a decade ago were reviewed in some detail here last year.

Worth the Cost

Now we review the area experiments made by the Weather Modification Co., San Jose, Calif. in 1957 for the Hudson Valley Crop Service Cooperatives. The project covered five counties and its cost was listed at $68,700.

Experts say the cost of such projects is negligible even if only hit-and-miss results are obtained, and one citing hail damage in the West, said it amounted to $31,300,000 in Kansas alone in 1951.

Hailstones swept through the wilder western air currents, it has been recorded, are often phenomenally large, and True Magazine reported not too long ago that they not only come as big as hens eggs but "can get almost as big as hens." They are not always round, but come in various shapes." The largest officially recorded "slammed down in Potter, Nebraska on July 6, 1928. It was 17 inches around and tipped the scales at 1½ pounds. The 12-inchers that fell in Texas in 1926 were smaller, but weighed more—just a shade under two pounds."

Howard T. Orville, one of the experts to be quoted later in this series, in one report said that a farmer in Lubock, Texas, "was caught in an unprotected field, and was pounded to death by these stones. However, this was an exceptional case." Let's hope so, and hope again that such bombardments never reach our area of the East.

If Bank Sells Your Stock, You'll Likely Pay Two Fees

Q—How much does a commercial bank charge to sell securities for a customer?—R. M.

A—Dear R. M.: The fee varies, some banks might make no charge. If a charge is made, it is usually a flat fee regardless of the number of shares or amount of capital involved. For example, one large New York bank makes a flat charge of $3. Such a charge is added to the regular broker's fee. This is because banks cannot become members of any stock exchange, but funnel their securities sales and purchases through brokers just as you would.

I am not certain why you would want a bank doing your securities business for you unless you live in a town where there is no brokerage office or you did not wish to be influenced by a broker's suggestions. If, on the other hand, a bank handles your investment via a custodian and or advisory account, the fee for handling stock and bond sales and purchases is included in the fee you pay for that service.

Q—My wife and I are covered by Blue Cross. Our 17-year-old daughter lives with us. She is not married, but she is going to have a baby. Is she covered by our Blue Cross policy? — D. B.

A—Dear D. B.: Under many Blue Cross family contracts only the wife is covered. Check your local Blue Cross plan.

Q—What is the National Defense Education Act? Who is eligible? — E. M.

A—Dear E. M.: It provides federal funds for college scholarships. It is due to expire June 30, 1962, but President Kennedy has asked Congress to make the act permanent.

The funds go to several hundred colleges which select students to whom they make loans. If interested in this type of aid, check whether your chosen college has such funds available. If granted, loans are limited to $1,000 a year or a total of $5,000. This loan is repayable over a 10-year period at 3 per cent interest. Repayment need not begin until one year after the youngster ceases to be a full-time student.

Q—What is a holding company?—A. C.

A—Dear A. C.: A holding company is a corporation which owns the securities of another company, in most cases with voting control.

Third Frame Run Pins Tough Loss On Bill Lohrman

Lefthander Bob Pink put a halt to the New Paltz pennant express with a masterful no-hitter as Wallkill stopped the visiting Huguenots, 1-0, in a UCAL thriller yesterday.

The home side scored the only run of the game in the third inning when Pete Sowa walked and came all the way home on a single by Dennis Mullen.

Aside from that Pink and Bill Lohrman of the losers threw goose eggs at the opposing batters. The Wallkill lefty, who had a blister on his hand, was in serious trouble in the first inning when he walked the bases full with only one out.

However, Valky Van Valkenburg was out on an attempt squeeze play and Eddie Kreuscher grounded out. From then on Pink was in complete command of the situation. He walked a total of six batters and struck out 12 in turning in the first no-hitter of the year in the circuit.

New Paltz has a big league test at Highland on Friday and the winner will clinch a tie towards the circuit championship.

Dick Stuart Wants To Play Full Time Or Else Be Traded

PITTSBURGH, (NEA)—Dick Stuart startled Harry Caray when the world champions' first basemen told the broadcaster that he wouldn't mind being traded if he couldn't play regularly with the Pittsburg club.

"I haven't any chip on my shoulder and I'm not angry at anybody," the slugging Stuart hastily explained, "but I want to play regularly. If not here, maybe some place else. It's a simple matter of economics.

"I feel I have some potential, but I can't make the big money if I don't play regularly. Don't get me wrong. I'm not one of those play-me-or-trade-me fellows, but I just can't sit it out.

* * *

"I believe every man who rides a bench feels the same way, feels he should be playing regularly. I have a big swing and if I'm not playing regularly, I lose my timing.

"No doubt Danny Murtagh is right in his platooning of Rocky Nelson and me. Things have worked out all right for the team. It's just a case of me wanting to play.

"If they only wanted me to bat against left-handers, maybe they should get R. C. Stevens back and make a deal for me. This isn't any ultimatum or anything like that, but I feel I can play regularly in the majors and I'd like to prove it. There's no money sitting on the bench.

Don Hoak wants to correct an erroneous impression that all ballplayers use bad language on the field, as indicated by Umpire Frank Dascoli.

"This is greatly exaggerated," points out the Pirate's third baseman. "I think it's about time somebody stood up for the players and I'll do it.

"You can't jeoparadize 450 players in the majors because 20 or 25 swear.

"And have you ever seen an argument anywhere when bad language wasn't used?"

Grays Continue In Their Slump

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If anyone's had their share of tough luck in the Eastern League, it's been the Williamsport Grays, last year's champions.

They've been the losing victims of two one-hitters this year, the only two in the league so far.

Now the Grays are in a deep slump, in fifth place in the EL nine games behind first place Springfield.

Reading handed the Grays a doubleheader loss Tuesday night, 3-0 and 8-7.

And talk about tough luck the second game defeat was the ninth game the Grays have lost by one run this season.

In other games Springfield beat Lancaster 11-7 to maintain its three-game lead over second place Binghamton which dumped Johnstown 6-1.

Port Jervis Track Team Beats Kingston, 62-51

Joe Barr and John Falvey scored double wins but the Kingston High track squad dropped a 62-51 verdict at Port Jervis yesterday in a dual meet. The home side had greater depth in the dashes and they piled up enough points to offset some KHS strength in the field events.

Barr captured first place in the 440 yard run and the hop, step and jump. Falvey, a promising newcomer to this year's squad, won the shot put and the broad jump.

Onteora Speedway Sets Midget Card Memorial Day

Eastern Champ, Dick Brown Tops Brilliant Field

Onteora Speedway Park at Olive Bridge has announced a special Memorial Day midget racing program featuring ace drivers of the Northeastern Midget Association, including the 1960 champion, Dick Brown.

There will be three heats, a consolation and 25-lap feature starting at 3 p. m., a half hour later than the usual Sunday auto racing program time.

Brown is also former Australian champion, having swept all midget racing honors there in 1956, but some of the finest drivers in the East will challenge him for first money at Onteora next week.

Leonard Poe, president of NAM, New England's largest midget racing club, has informed Onteora officials that more than 40 of the best Offenhauser and Non-Offy drivers available will participate in the midget spectacular.

One of Brown's chief threats will be Al Pillion of Newtonville, Conn., who was NAM champion four times in the past seven years and Hank Williams, a steady winning veteran out of Waltham, Mass.

Al Givens of Poughkeepsie who has both an Offy 22 and a new car with a Falcon motor is expected to add class to the field. The Falcon will be driven by Bob Harkey also of Poughkeepsie.

In view of the time turned in at Langhorne by a Falcon 1:98-640, they should be extremely fast cars in the field, Poe told racing directors Larry Shurter and Ed Ryan at Onteora. The NAM president is trying to get the Falcon which set this time at Langhorne to appear at Onteora.

Williams in Field

Joe Caiki of Willington, Conn., invades Onteora with a new Ferguson motor he has been prepping all winter. And Ronnie Evans of Rockville, Conn., will be behind the wheel of a Mordenti V8, a fast car on any track. Gibby Parmenti has entered an Austin-powered car and Bob Hart and Bob Day will come in from the Albany area with speedy machines.

Hank Williams, one of the circuit's best known drivers, will be driving the Stone Offy. The Smith Offy of Fair Lawn, N. J. will be driven by the well known Len Thrall.

Wally White will drive his own Offy and the Secunda Offy of Thomsonville, Conn. has no driver as yet but has been entered in the race.

The midget spectacular is one of several holiday "extras" planned for Onteora Speedway fans by track operator Dick Lane this season. Midgets enjoyed huge popularity in the pre-war period before stocks came to fore. They are expected to attract a large crowd to the picturesque Olive Bridge oval.

Onteora's regular auto racing program will be held Sunday, May 28, at 2:30 p. m.

White Eagles, Glynn's Rec Softball Winners

The pitchers took a bad beating in the Recreation Softball League last night.

White Eagles collected 14 hits and 12 walks off Al Milak and Art Jansen to clobber Lincoln Park Inn, while Glynn's Shoes rolled up a 21-7 win over Bloomington Inn.

Ken Smith and Dave Lewis were tagged for 16 hits by Glynn's, as Rich Hoffman coasted on an eight-hitter.

The big blast came in the bottom of the third when Glynn's broke up a 5-5 tie with an 8-run barrage. They added four more tallies in each of the fifth and sixth innings.

J. Garrison paced Glynn's with a double and triple. J. Relyea stroked a triple and two singles and Don Slater had three singletons. J. Besemer and John Parete had single-double combinations for Glynn's and Frank Sammons for Bloomington.

A 12-run explosion, biggest of the softball season to date, enabled White Eagles to overcome a 11-9 lead held by Lincoln Park Inn. The Presidents rallied with four in the bottom of the fifth. Joe Bruck breezed to the win on a 9-hitter after surviving a 9-run shellacking in the first inning.

Don Smith was the big stick man for Lincoln Park with a single, double and home run. McWeeney slammed three singles for the winners.

Braves Launch NY-NJ Season Friday at Poughkeepsie

Al Corwin Set As Starter for Kingston Team

Tom Acker, Ex-Redleg Likely Hoe-Bowl Pick

Two former major league pitchers—Al Corwin and Tom Acker—will be on the firing line when the Kingston Braves launch the New York-New Jersey Baseball League season against the Hoe-Bowls, Friday night at Riverview Field in Poughkeepsie.

General Manager Fred Davi of the Braves has announced the signing of Corwin, a former New York Giant and Minneapolis flinger who was a member of the Poughkeepsie squad last year.

Acker, former Cincinnati Reds relief star, pitched for the Hoe-Bowls in 1961 and was the central figure in a protest between the Braves and Poughkeepsie team.

Corwin will anchor the Braves pitching staff along with southpaw Larry DeVita and relief flinger Fred Vogel.

But all three will be hard pressed to surpass the efforts of the missing Bob Maines, the league's finest pitcher for the past four years. Maines is currently doing a six-months Army hitch and is lost for most of the season.

Manager John Pullie of the Braves has not announced a starting lineup, but it is expected that most of last year's second place squad will return to the Kingston fold.

Kingston's best thumper last year was Hal Lewis, who led the team with a .419 average in 12 games. Jim Fahey, Porky Vierra, the former Quinnipia College star, Larry De Vita, Earl Webb, Wally Widholme, Johnny Giampolo, Fred Vogel, Jim Fahey and others round out the team.

A newcomer to the Kingston pitching corps is Ed Horan, formerly of the West Haverstraw nine and one of the ablest flingers in the league for the past few years.

The game with Poughkeepsie is the first of four road sets for the Braves before they take on Poughkeepsie in the local opener on Saturday, June 10, at Dietz Stadium.

Have Veteran Array

The legendary Billy Ostrom, filed manager of the Hoe-Bowl team, will have three newcomers in the lineup. They are Jack Dexter of Beacon and Howie Mann and Don Van Wagner of Rhinebeck.

Dexter formerly played with the Beacon Braves in the NY-NJ but is forbidden to do so now because he is a member of the Beacon Recreation commission. The fleet outfielder batted .349 to pace the Beacon club in 1960.

Holdovers include Roger Callahan, Jimmy Hubble, Dave Centi, another ex-major leaguer; Cart Bates, Bob McKenna, Joe Gale, Bill Hauver, Butch Darrow and John Plambeck.

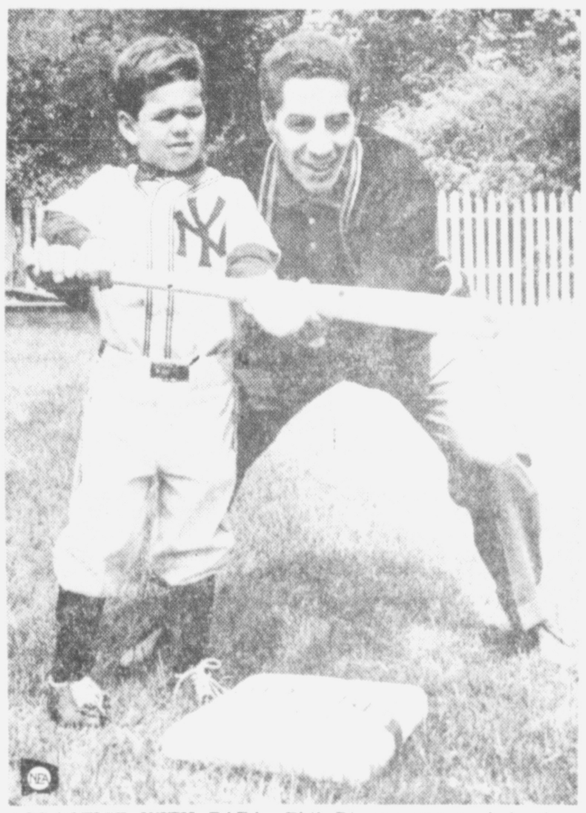

Two others from last year's squad, Joe Tuttle Jr. and Bob Wilson are also exepcted to be available to the Hoe-Bowls. Lost to the team are Fran Soychak (.333), Deke Johnson (.324) and Jim Gordon.

Johnson and Gordon have joined the new all-Negro entry in the league — the Millbrook Monarchs.

Rondout Valley Tops Onteora Central, 8-4

Scoring five runs in the fourth inning, Rondout Valley defeated Onteora Central, 8-4, in a UCAL game yesterday at the Marbletown school diamond in Stone Ridge.

Freshman Gordie Bell hurled his second straight league success. He limited the visitors to three safeties in six frames and then turned over the chores to Jimmy Brush, who mopped up.

Jay Gordon started for the Indians but relief hurler Len Muhlich was tagged with the setback. He came to the hill in the fourth and pitched the rest of the way.

Bell, Clark Crespi and Green doubled for the winners while Dick Bartsch rapped out a pair of singles for Onteora.

International Loop Race Tight

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A turn of the head or a blink of the eye might be dangerous when looking at the International League standings.

Though the season is less than 2 months old, only five games separate the first seven teams today, and there are three and a half between league-leader Columbus and sixth-place Buffalo.

Both third-place Rochester and fourth-place Richmond took a half stride closer to the top Tuesday night. Rochester rapped the second-place Charleston Marlins 7-2 and the Virginians stopped Buffalo 2-1. Columbus and Toronto were not scheduled.

Rochester, only a game out of first, scored the clincher in the last of the ninth on Fred Valentine's bases-loaded single after Bobby Johnson's two-run homer tied the score. Reliever Art Kay was the winner and Al Dietz lost. Charleston trails by a half game.

An unearned run in the seventh inning broke a 1-1 tie for Richmond and left the Virginians 2½ games out of first. Felix Torres' homer tied the score for Buffalo in the sixth as Ted Wieand successfully scattered eight hits for the victory. Dick Ricketts lost his first in four decisions.

Syracuse surprised the Jerseys with a display of power as Frank Leja hit a solo homer and Joe Altobelli and Woody Smith each clouted one with a man aboard. Willie Miranda's two-run double got the other runs and left Jersey City three games out of first. The Chiefs trail by 8½. Bert Cueto was the winner and Zack Monroe lost.

Sawyers Knocked From a Chance For DCSL Title

Wappingers Falls knocked Saugerties from a possible DCSL Baseball title and took a giant step towards the championship with a 5-1 victory at the SHS diamond yesterday. Masterful hurling on the part of Gary Brown pinned a tough loss on John Nolan, despite the fact he allowed only one hit in five innings.

The winners, who are unbeaten in league play, scored twice off Nolan in the first frame without benefit of a base hit. After Brown had walked and stolen second, the Saugerties ace hurler recorded a pair of strikeouts.

Then Rich Ferland hit a liner to second and the ball was muffed, permitting Brown to score. At this stage Nolan lost his control, walking the next three batters to force home another run.

The Sawyers cut the lead in half in the fourth when Bill Eckhoff reached first on a miscue and went around on an infield out, wild pitch and passed ball.

Some poor fielding plus wildness put Nolan in another jam in the fifth. With one out, Joe Bushee singled and with two outs, Tom Smith and Ed O'Brien were walked. They tallied on a wild pitch and passed ball.

Keith Mills went the final two innings for the Sawyers and he surrendered a run in the seventh on a misjudged double by Smith, an infield out and a sacrifice fly.

Saugerties wasn't able to do much with Brown. He had near perfect control, walking but one and the curve ball ace fanned 13. He's far and away the top chucker in the circuit.

Nolan walked eight in his five inning stint. He also struck out 13 and Mills added four strikeouts during his two frames.

Saugerties has a 10-5 mark to date and will play Arlington on Friday and Kingston on Monday to finish the season.

Sears Files Suit Against Knicks

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Veteran pro basketball star Kenny Sears filed a suit Tuesday that could lead to the first court test of the option clause used in many professional sports contracts.

In the suit, filed against his old team, the New York Knickerbockers, Sears charged that the National Basketball Association and its teams "agreed not to compete for the service of players, agreed to regulate and limit salaries, and agreed to blacklist players who refused to play for the teams by which they had been selected (drafted)."

Sears, 28, a 6-foot-9 sharpshooter and rebounder, jumped the Knicks earlier this year and signed with the San Francisco Saints of the new American Basketball League.

The Knicks sued to keep Sears. His counter-suit in U.S. District Court here charged the Knickerbockers with monopoly and violation of antitrust acts. He asked $90,000 treble damages from the Graham-Paige Corp., of Michigan, owners of the New York NBA team.

The Sears suit drew the legal battle lines between the established NBA and the fledgling ABL, scheduled to begin play next season.

In his suit, Sears claimed he had not been free to negotiate with potential employers the past four years and that this had cost him $30,000. Under provisions of the Sherman and Clayton antitrust acts, Sears is seeking treble damages.

Jim Gentile a Star in Japan? Barely Missed Being a Reality

By HARRY GRAYSON
Newspaper Enterprise
Sports Editor

NEW YORK (NEA) — Jim Gentile of the Baltimore Orioles has bombed himself into being baseball's newest big name.

Gentile leads the major leagues in home runs and runs-batted-in. Gentile is a natural headline grabber. He put a bat in baseball's Hall-of-Fame by smacking successive grand slam home runs in Minneapolis-St. Paul, batting in nine runs in a game. Had the ball not struck a light pole, he would have joined Ted Williams and Mickey Mantle as the only hitter who ever swatted a ball over the right field roof in Detroit.

"There isn't any reason why Gentile should not keep going," says Manager Paul Richards, richly qualified as an authority. "Jim is not yet 27. He has the swing, size, defensive skill at first base and the urge."

The most extraordinary thing about the Gentile story is that a little more than a year ago he said he was ready to quit organized baseball for play in Japan.

Was Frustrated

"That's right," admits Gentile, big and handsome—6-4, 215—Irish-Italian out of San Francisco. "I was thoroughly frustrated after eight years in the Dodgers' chain gang.

"I was just plain horrible in training with the Baltimore club a year ago, had every reason to believe that Mr. Richards would start Bob Boyd, then still with the club, at first base.

Glenn Mickens, once with the Dodgers, and Joe Stanka, another pitcher who jumped the White Sox organization, were doing well in baseball in Japan. I felt that if I couldn't do any better in my own country, I might as well hop a plane. I would at least get a chance to play in the fastest company around."

Gentile calls the Birds' head man Mr. Richards with the reverence accorded a savior.

A Fresh Slant

"Mr. Richards gave me a fresh slant on baseball life at a luncheon the day before last season opened in Baltimore," he recalls. "Mr. Richards announced the starting lineup and it was a tremendous shot in the arm when he called out my name. Here and at last, I felt, was a manager who would stick with me, give me an opportunity."

Given a $30,000 bonus by the then Brooklyn Dodgers as the San Francisco Bay area's 18-year-old prep player of the year 1952, Gentile eight years ago was called the best young prospect among 350 at the Dodgers' camp.

"I hit a lot of home runs and drove in many a run in the minors, yet had no more than 36 times at bat with the parent club," he recollects. "I earned the reputation of being temperamental and sulky, but looking back this was only the result of frustration. Gil Hodges was with the Dodgers ahead of me, and I kept asking myself, 'Just what does a guy have to do?' I woke up when waved out of the National League as the Dodgers' options ran out. Then I had the year in St. Paul which prompted Baltimore to buy my contract."

The major leagues can come close to listing their individual bucks-office attractions on the fingers.

Jim Gentile, settled at last, is the newest welcome addition.

Danbury State Beats New Paltz Club, 6-4

Danbury State scored in five different innings and stopped the New Paltz Hawks, 6-4, yesterday at the losers' diamond. A four run rally by the home side in the eighth frame fell short.

Sam Mandia went the distance for the losers. He allowed ten hits with Sid Poludinski rapping a homer and Repp and Hunt also stroking extra base hits. Mandia tripled and singled for the losers.

The Hawks are now 1-6 to date and will close their abbreviated season on Saturday at Oneonta State.

Frank Carbo Trial In Jury's Hands

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The prosecutor in the conspiracy-extortion trial of Frank Carbo and four other men looked at the defendants and charged:

"They were not interested in the sport of boxing, but only in power and money."

Then, turning to the federal court jury of 10 women and 2 men, Prosecutor Alvin H. Goldstein continued summing up his case Tuesday.

"You have been introduced to a sort of underworld," he said. "This is a world of perfidy, treachery; men who demand money they haven't earned and men who laugh when told someone is afraid of them."

The trial of Carbo and his co-defendants is now in its 13th week. The other defendants are Frank (Blinky) Palermo, Joe Sica, Louis T. Dragna and Truman Gibson Jr.

The five are accused of attempting to take over the contract and purses of ex-world welterweight champion Don Jordan.

Goldstein described Gibson, head of the former International Boxing Club of New York and Chicago, as having economic power of life and death over fight clubs throughout the United States.

Judge Ernest A. Tolin instructed the jurors to bring overnight bags to future sessions, indicating they may be locked up at some point in the final arguments by the eight attorneys involved.

Reds Stop Dodgers' Win Streak

Rookie Ken Hunt and reliever Bill Henry of the Cincinnati Reds combined for a five-hit, 2-0 victory over Los Angeles Tuesday night that ended the second place Dodgers' winning streak at five games. First place San Francisco retained a .013 percentage point edge despite a 12-4 walloping by St. Louis.

Milwaukee beat third place Pittsburgh 1-0 behind the four-hit pitching of Lew Burdette, and Philadelphia defeated the Chicago Cubs 2-1 in 10 innings.

Hunt, 22, a 6-foot-4, 210-pounder who wasn't on the Reds' spring roster, has beaten the Giants, Pittsburgh and now the Dodgers in a 4-2 record and is 3-1 in the Reds' comeback. Henry, the old man of the staff at 35, has four saves in the same spurt.

The Dodgers, who had won eight in a row on the road, got all five hits off Hunt. The youngster struck out six, but also walked six, bringing on Henry in the eighth for a perfect, 1 1-3-inning mopup.

The Reds beat Los Angeles for the first time in five tries by bunching three of their seven hits for two runs in the sixth off Don Drysdale (5-3). Gus Bell's sacrifice fly and a single by Gordie Coleman brought them across after singles by Don Blasingame and Vada Pinson and a walk had loaded the bases.

Bill White was 4-for-5 and drove in five runs, two with a first-inning home run off loser Sam Jones (3-3), as the Cardinals banged 15 hits and ran up their biggest scoring total of the season. Don Taussig also hit a two-run homer in support of Ray Sadecki (3-3), who breezed in with a 12-hit job. Harvey Kuenn and Orlando Cepeda homered for San Francisco.

The Braves scored in the first inning on a triple by Frank Bolling and a single by Ed Mathews, then managed just two more hits off loser Bobby Shantz (1-1), making his first start in two seasons, and reliever Elroy Face.

A single by Charlie Smith and a two-out triple by Bob Malkmus broke it up for the Phils against Glen Hobbie (2-5).

Tigers Get 5-2 Win Over Twins

By ED WILKS
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Detroit Tigers regained a 2-game lead in the American League race by trimming Minnesota 5-2 Tuesday night, tying the major league record with three consecutive home runs in the ninth inning. Second place Cleveland lost 9-0 to the Los Angeles Angels as Ken McBride ended the Indians' winning streak at six games with a three-hitter.

Baltimore beat the Chicago White Sox 3-1 and Washington defeated Kansas City 7-3 in the only other game scheduled in the AL.

Norm Cash, Steve Boros and Dick Brown combined for the home run burst by the Tigers off a pair of relievers, loser Ray Moore (3-2) and Paul Giel. Al Kaline also hit his first home run of the season in the sixth inning for the Tigers, who collected nine hits. Hank Aguirre (2-3) was the winner in relief.

The Twins had seven hits, one a fourth-inning single that gave Lennie Green a 20-game hitting streak, longest in the majors this year.

McBride (4-2), a 25-year-old right-hander who had only an 0-2 record to show for two brief trials with the White Sox, gave up two singles and a double, walked five and struck out five against the Indians. The Angels backed him with 11 hits, three of them homers—a pair of three-run shots by Ken Hunt and Earl Averill, and a solo by Leon Wagner in the first inning off loser Jim Perry.

Homers Beat Pierce

The Orioles also did it with home runs, one by Dick Williams in the first inning and a two-run homer by Jerry Adair in the second. Southpaw Billy Pierce (1-3) was the loser, although striking out 12 in six innings. Billy Hoeft (1-1) won it with three innings of three-hit, shutout relief by Hoyt Wilhelm, who lowered his earned run average to 1.32 for 41 innings.

A two-run triple by Willie Tasby wrapped it up for the Senators as they scored four in the eighth at Kansas City and beat Ray Herbert (3-3). Ed Hobaugh (2-2) was the winner, with relief help from Marty Kutyna when the A's came back with two runs in their eighth. Pitcher Don Larsen, converted into an outfielder by A's manager Joe Gordon after hitting a pinch homer Monday, was 0-for-1 and struck out with two on in the rally.

Geneva Runs Wild Against Batavia

Cesar was king of the base paths and the Batavia pitcher went wild over him.

Cesar Tovaz came to first on a walk, saw second and stole it, and conquered third and home on a pair of wild pitches.

Thus Geneva managed to outscore Batavia 7-6 Tuesday night in a New York-Penn League contest.

Olean and Wellsville meanwhile were winning. Olean squeaked by Jamestown 3-1 and Wellsville defeated Erie 8-6.

The Geneva game was scheduled as the first of two, but after three-and-a-half hours, officials decided it was enough for one night and postponed the "nightcap."

There's a wolf at Jamestown's door and his name is Fred Wolff. He has pitched two victories for Olean this season, both at the expense of the Tigers. He had offensive help from Len Benedetto who cracked four hits in five trips for the winners.

Scotter James' grand slam homer in the second inning sparked Wellsville's triumph over Erie. He also belted a double for five runs batted in.

The Auburn at Elmira game was postponed because of cold and wet grounds.

Return of the Spitball Pitch Is Favored by AL President

By BOB HOBBING
Associated Press Sports Writer

BOSTON (AP) — Joe Cronin, president of the American League, said today he favors reinstatement of the spitball as a legal pitch in baseball.

"There's nothing dangerous or bad about the spitter," Cronin said. "I had to bat against both and I'll tell you a good knuckleball is much harder to hit than a spitball."

Cronin's comments came after Chicago Manager Al Lopez complained to the league office about alleged use of the spitter by Ryne Duren, the ex-Yankee relief pitcher recently traded to Los Angeles. The White Sox asked Cronin: "What are you going to do about the spitball?"

Although the pitch was outlawed in 1920 because it was ruled too difficult to control, a number of major league pitchers still use moist deliveries with water mopped from the brow, neck, sweat-soaked uniforms or clammy hands.

Lew Burdette, ace right-hander of the Milwaukee Braves, frequently has been accused of throwing a spitter. Preacher Roe of the Dodgers, after his retirement a few years ago, admitted in a signed magazine article that he frequently threw the spitter during his National League career.

"The rules committee, of course, must decide the spitball question," said Cronin.

8 Are Inducted Into Grid Hall

NEW YORK (AP) —Eight former players—five of them All Americas—and two coaches took their places in the Football Hall of Fame today, the final survivors of several hundred nominations.

The ex-All Americas include back Glenn Davis of Army, tackle Bob Reynolds of Stanford, halfback Charley (Choo Choo) Justice of North Carolina, guard Weldon Humble of Rice and guard Bob Suffridge of Tennessee.

Don Faurot, director of athletics at Missouri and the late Charlie Caldwell, who coached at Princeton and Williams, were the coaches named.

Halfback George McAfee of Duke, fullback Claude Reeds of Oklahoma and back Pat Pazzetti of Lehigh, also were elected.

The selections were announced Tuesday by the Honors Court of the foundation after nominations and voting by the entire membership of the Hall of Fame.

Check Outboard Spark-plugs Your Keys To Boating Power

By WM. TAYLOR McKEOWN
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

First and easiest items to examine in your boat's engine are the spark plugs.

You don't need to be a mechanic. You can check them afloat or ashore. Often these small hot-heads are the key to more power and better performance.

Now is a good time to look at them, whether you are fitting out for launching or tuning up a boat that is already in the water. Many careful boatmen replace all old plugs with new ones at the beginning of every season.

The spark of life for outboard and inboard craft, they should all be firing perfectly.

The engine manual will tell you how to remove the electrical lead and check to be sure the plug is getting a strong current. It points out how you can short out the plug with any insulated tool to see if by-passing the plug weakens engine operation. Easier still is simply to replace each old plug with a new one and see if the engine does not run more brightly and smoothly.

• • •

For a routine check, each spark plug is removed and examined, and carbon scraped away, ceramic insulator inspected and spark gap between electrodes reset to precisely the proper spacing.

Engine manuals give the plug type and spark gap setting. The novice can work to the thousandths of an inch required with the small spacing feeler gauge tool supplied with most engines.

Outboards, particularly, need regular spark plug check up for best results.

Because these two-cycle power plants get their lubrication from oil mixed with gas, the plug must burn up both at once. It is susceptible to fouling after a long season of use. Engine roughness or less of power at any time can indicate that plugs should be examined. Many a boatman has brought an ailing engine back to life by simply cleaning a plug.

SPARKING—Even amateurs can work to thousands of an inch with the feeler gauge for properly gapping spark plugs that is supplied with most outboard engines. Every boat owner should know how to remove and clean plugs.

A complete spare set of spark plugs belongs in the tool kit you always carry on board. They must always be the size and heat range, of course, that are specified for the engine.

• • •

Also in the kit you need a spark plug wrench. Many outboard motor companies supply it as a regular accessory. This fitted socket type is very necessary, since there is too much chance of breaking the ceramic part of the plug with an ordinary crescent or monkey wrench.

Preparing the boat for the water, trouble shooting a reluctant engine or simply tuning it up, you will naturally examine other possibilities beside the plugs.

Be sure the lower unit of outboards, strut, stuffing box and bearings of inboards and the propellers of both are in good condition. Waterproof grease should be checked and refilled if necessary, all lubrication points serviced, engine mounts examined for condition.

You will not always have a professional mechanic along, so learn how to do simple spark plug changes.

Offshore is no place to find that the engine is not quite willing to run.

Local Employes Receive Social Security Awards

The sixth annual honor awards ceremony for employes of the Department of Health, Education, and Welfare in the New York and New Jersey areas was held Friday at Governors Island, New York.

Included among the 248 employes receiving special awards were four from the Kingston District Office of the Social Security Administration: Ida E. Davis, Elsie T. Reichard, Benedict T. Todaro and Patricia M. Zelie.

George J. Johnson, district manager, stated that the number receiving awards from the Kingston District Office exceeded those from any upstate district office.

The local office was first established in Kingston in July 1937 and is at present located in the Empire Market Building, corner of Albany Avenue and Broadway. The office services all of Ulster and Sullivan Counties and Johnson, the manager for the last 12 years, is exceptionally proud of the individuals receiving honors this year.

The group was addressed by Ivan A. Nestigen, under secretary of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare and Joseph B. O'Connor, regional director, who presented cash awards totalling $9395.

Gotham Professor To Address Local Unitarian Group

Dr. Hugh Van Rensselaer Wilson will address the Unitarian Fellowship of Ulster County Sunday 10:30 a. m. at the YWCA, 209 Clinton Avenue.

Dr. Wilson is a professor of philosophy at Brooklyn College, part of the City University of New York, where he has taught since 1935. For two years before that, he had been an associate professor of philosophy at Vassar College, Poughkeepsie. Among the courses which Professor Wilson teaches, are ethics, American philosophy and philosophy of religion.

Dr. Wilson's academic training was at Oberlin College, the Chicago Theological Seminary, the University of Chicago, where he received his doctorate in philosophy; and Harvard University where he was a post-doctoral research fellow. Before completing his graduate study, he served for three years as the minister of a community church in Chicago.

The topic of Dr. Wilson's talk Sunday will be "Religion Without Magic."

Eight New Destroyers

LONDON (AP)—West Germany's European allies today authorized her to build eight destroyers of up to 6,000 tons, heavy enough to mount missile launchers.

The new limit approved by the Council of the Western European Union was double the previous limit under the 1954 Brussels treaty.

Fires claim the lives of 3,000 children every year in the United States.

Faces 20 Years

Convict Airline Hostess in Dope Smuggling Case

NEW YORK (AP)—A Parisian airline hostess has been convicted of smuggling a half-million dollars worth of heroin into this country in her clothing and faces up to 20 years in prison.

Simonne M. Christmann, 36, Air France hostess for 10 years, wept bitterly when a Brooklyn Federal Court jury returned its verdict Tuesday.

"I thought it was essence of perfume," she had gasped when customs inspectors told her the 4 1-3 pounds of white powder found on her person March 21 was heroin.

"I was trying to do Mr. Mueller a favor. For love," she said.

Judge Walter Bruchhausen fined June 16 for sentencing.

In testimony, Miss Christmann said she met a "Mr. Mueller" in New York last October and became infatuated. He told her he was in the flower business in California, she said.

The hostess said he followed her to Paris and implored her to bring an essence of perfume into this country for him. She resisted at first, she said, then gave in.

She had been scheduled for promotion soon to chief stewardess.

Lutheran Group Approves Merger

NEW YORK (AP)—The United Lutheran Church of America has approved a merger with three other Lutheran churches resulting in a 3,200,000-member Lutheran Church in America.

An announcement said ratification of the merger was completed when the Texas-Louisiana Synod voted approval Tuesday in Houston, Tex.

The Texas-Louisiana Synod was the 22nd to vote in favor of the merger. Approval by two-thirds of the synods making up the United Lutheran Church was needed for ratification.

United Lutheran will merge with the Augustana Lutheran Church, the American Evangelical Lutheran Church and the Finnish Evangelical Lutheran Church.

The latter three churches will vote on ratification of the merger at conventions this year. If they approve the merger will become effective in January 1963.

Rocky Orders State Police To Act in Migratory Probe

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP)—Republican Gov. Rockefeller has charged that Rep. Herbert Zelenko, D-N. Y., would not cooperate with state authorities in the investigation of a threat against a woman migrant worker.

The woman, a crew leader, was to appear at a congressional hearing.

The governor said both he and John A. Roche, deputy superintendent of State Police, contacted Zelenko Tuesday in an effort to get the name of the woman.

Zelenko said at the close of a two-day congressional probe of migratory labor practices Saturday that the woman crew leader failed to appear because of an alleged threat.

Seek Name of Woman

Zelenko repeatedly interrupted testimony at the House Labor subcommittee hearing to blame the state's Republican administration for allegedly poor migratory labor conditions.

Rockefeller's first request for the name of the woman was made by telegram yesterday from his New York City office. The governor told Zelenko that he had directed Superintendent Arthur Cornellius of the State Police to obtain the name from the congressman.

Later in the day, Rockefeller, in a statement issued through his office here, said John A. Roche, deputy superintendent of State Police, had called Zelenko in an effort to obtain in confidence the name of the potential witness, who had worked at Riverhead, L.I.

Report Not Disclosed

The call was returned by Zelenko but Rockefeller's office did not disclose what was said.

Zelenko, a Manhattan congressman, made public in Washington a telegram he said he had sent to Rockefeller.

The wire said:

"Federal agencies and the committee are now investigating the matter of the threatened witness. It is felt that an additional investigation of this particular matter by any other body at this particular time might hinder rather than help.

"As soon as their work is completed, I will be happy to contact appropriate officials in your state government."

Zelenko followed up his refusal by calling on Rockefeller to "check for possible violations of state law covering conditions existent in Riverhead, L. I., and the incident in which 32 workers were sent by the New York State Employment Service to Virginia to do farm work and on arriving found no work and were left stranded."

In his statement, Rockefeller said:

Situation Serious

"I regret that Rep. Zelenko has seen fit not to cooperate with New York State authorities into looking into a situation as serious as the one he has charged occurred in New York State...

Rockefeller said there should be cooperation among law enforcement agencies at all levels of government.

At the congressional hearing last week, witnesses alleged that migratory workers were being underpaid and suffering hardship conditions and beatings at the hands of a few unscrupulous employers or crew chiefs who recruited the migrants to work in New York and New Jersey.

"I call on Gov. Rockefeller to enforce these laws," Zelenko declared at one point. "He hasn't been doing it. I call on the governor to go into Riverhead and other areas to rectify this situation at once."

The governor's office said then the matter would be looked into immediately.
